(C) When an amendment to add the emergency clause, the severability clause, or provide an operative date is adopted on Select File which does not spell out the standard clause or section and make the necessary change in the title, the chairperson of Enrollment and Review shall also have the authority to add to the engrossed bill the standard clause or section, assigning to it the appropriate section number, and make the necessary change in the title as a matter of course without including such action in his or her reports and recommendations to the Legislature or making any special record thereof.

The Committee on Committees may appoint other select committees when authorized by the Legislature. No investigating committee of the Legislature shall be created except by resolution which shall set forth, with supporting statements, the reasons for and the purposes of the investigation, and no committee thus established shall function except during the interim between legislative sessions.

Sec. 5. Special Committees. (a) Special committees shall include all authorized committees other than standing and select committees. Standing committees shall meet at 2:00 p.m. on weekdays, unless otherwise approved by the Legislature.

(b) A standing committee deciding not to hold meetings on the appointed day must receive permission from the Reference Committee.

(c) Any legislative committee shall be subject to the call of its chairperson or to the call of a majority of its members, in accordance with the notice and procedural requirements set forth in its committee rules.

Sec. 7. Chairperson, Vice Chairperson. (a) The chairperson of each standing and select committee shall be selected by secret ballot on the floor of the Legislature.

Sec. 11. Temporary Appointments. (a) When a member is unable to serve, the chairperson of the committee after a majority vote of the remaining members shall request that such vacancy be filled by the Committee on Committees. Such committee shall appoint either the Speaker, or a member from a standing committee having eight members to fill each vacancy.

(b) A temporary appointment may be made by the chairperson of the Committee on Committees for only one day when requested by a chairperson of a standing committee which lacks a quorum. When a member is appointed from an eight-member committee, the consent of the member to be appointed shall first be obtained. The temporary appointee shall have the right to vote only on the bill or bills that actually have been heard by the appointee and provided that the vote is taken on such bills on the day the bill or bills are heard. When such appointment is made in case of an incapacitated member, such appointee shall cease to be a member of such committee upon the return of the incapacitated member for whom he or she was appointed.

Sec. 12. Consideration and Correlation of Bills and Resolutions. (a) Committees shall consider and report without unnecessary delay all bills and resolutions referred to them. Committees shall be authorized to combine and to correlate the provisions of different bills and resolutions referred to them and related to the same subject under the number of one of the correlated bills or resolutions, and when reported out under one bill or resolution number, the remaining bills or resolutions will be reported out as indefinitely postponed. Committees may before taking final action on any bill or resolution, adopt amendments thereto, for the consideration of the Legislature.

(b) The chairperson of each committee shall set for hearing all bills and resolutions referred to the committee.

Sec. 13. Public Hearing, Notice. Before taking final action on a bill or resolution, a committee shall hold a public hearing thereon and shall give at least seven calendar days' notice, after the bill shall have been printed, by publication in the Legislative Journal. No bill having been set for public hearing shall be withdrawn nor the hearing cancelled within seven calendar days of the date set for said public hearing.

Sec. 14. State Officials Appearing Before Committees. State officials and department heads or their designees and state employees are encouraged to appear before any legislative committee to comment upon bills having an impact on the operations of the administrative agency or department for which they work.

Sec. 15. Executive Sessions and Closed Meetings. (a) Executive Session shall mean any meeting or portion of a meeting which is closed to the general public, and the proceedings of which are not electronically recorded and transcribed, unless the committee so provides, but the records of which shall be available for public inspection. Executive sessions shall be open to members of the news media who may report on action taken and on all discussions in executive session.

(b) All other meetings of a committee shall be public unless the committee, by majority vote of all of its members, determines that a meeting should not be open to the public, including members of the news media, in a particular instance, due to rare and extraordinary circumstances. The meeting shall be reconvened in open session before any formal action may be taken.

Sec. 16. Report of Bill to Legislature. (a) In reporting a bill to the Legislature, whether with or without amendments, a committee shall by vote of a majority of its members, recommend that the bill be placed on General File or that the bill be indefinitely postponed. (b) A report on a bill or resolution must be made to the Legislature within eight calendar days after the committee has taken final action upon the particular measure.

(c) No bill shall be reported by the committee to be placed on General File unless the amendments, if any, are approved as to form and draftsmanship by the bill drafter.

Sec. 17. Indefinitely Postponed Bills. If the committee action on a bill be to postpone indefinitely, the bill shall stand indefinitely postponed; except that such bill may be placed on General File or referred back to the committee by a three-fifths vote of the elected members upon motion made within three legislative days after the committee makes its report to the Legislature, or by a two-thirds vote of the elected members upon motion made more than three legislative days after such committee report. Not more than one bill shall be raised from committee on any one motion. A motion to raise cannot be amended to include any other bill or subject matter. A motion to raise must be disposed of by the Legislature within five legislative days after the motion is available for consideration or it shall be deemed defeated.

Sec. 18. Committee Statement. (a) The chairperson of each committee with the assistance of the legislative staff shall, when reporting a bill, submit with such bill a committee statement which shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) the one-line title and number of the bill;
(2) a roll call vote of final committee action taken on the bill;
(3) the date of the public hearing on the bill;
(4) a list of all individuals testifying for and against the bill and any organization they represent;
(5) a summary of the bill's purpose and a description of all major provisions for change in the bill as written and as amended by the committee;
(6) if committee amendments are to be introduced, a copy of the amendments and an explanation thereof.

(b) A copy of the proposed statement shall be distributed to each committee member within five days after final action on the bill has been taken by the committee. A minority or concurring statement bearing the signature or signatures of its proponents and setting forth objections to the bill, to proposed amendments, or to the majority statement may be filed by its author(s) with the Clerk of the Legislature at any time prior to the first hearing of the bill on General File.

(c) A copy of the committee statement and any minority statements submitted shall be distributed to each senator after filing with the Clerk of the Legislature. Copies of such statements shall be made available to the public.

Sec. 19. Request from Committee, Bills Held. (a) Except for the general appropriation bills necessary for the support of the state government for the biennium, the Legislature may, by vote of a majority of the elected members, request a status report from any committee at any time after said committee shall have been in possession of a bill or resolution for twenty legislative days.

(b) Any senator may move that a bill be placed on General File twenty calendar days or more after the committee hearing, if the committee has not taken final action on the bill, and by a vote of a majority of the elected members, said bill shall be placed on General File. If at the expiration of eight calendar days from the date final action was taken the chairperson has not reported the bill, any senator may file with the Speaker a motion that the chairperson be compelled to submit a report. After determining that final action on the bill has been taken at least eight calendar days prior to the date the motion was submitted, the Speaker shall accept the motion and compel the chairperson to file the committee's report on the matter.

(c) Any time any member attempts to take a bill from committee to be placed on General File, the bill shall stand indefinitely postponed and shall not be subject to reconsideration if the motion fails to receive a majority vote of the members elected to the Legislature. The introducer of the bill must concur with any motion offered under this rule.

Sec. 20. Subpoena Procedure. It is within the inherent power of any legislative committee to gather information pursuant to its regular functions, and to conduct investigations of matters within its subject-matter jurisdiction.

A committee's power of subpoena should not be exercised unless the committee has determined that no other method of securing the desired information would be successful or practicable, and that the matter is of primary importance to the welfare of the State of Nebraska.

A committee of the Legislature conducting an investigation and gathering information, whether pursuant to Legislative direction or pursuant to its regular functions of oversight and bill preparation, shall observe the following procedures in addition to regular committee procedures whenever subpoenas are issued:

(A) Issuance of Subpoenas.

(i) A committee may by majority vote of all of its members, taken at a meeting properly called, issue a subpoena requiring a person to appear before the committee and be examined in reference to any matter within the scope of the inquiry or investigation being conducted by the committee, but only when the committee has received prior approval by a majority vote of the executive board to issue subpoenas in connection with the specific inquiry or investigation in question.

(ii) The committee may in the same manner issue a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum requiring any person to appear before the committee and bring with him or her any books, papers, or other documents pertinent thereto.

(iii) While the Legislature is in session, a committee deciding to issue subpoenas must promptly report each issuance to the Legislature. A record shall be made in the Journal reflecting the date the subpoena was issued, to whom it was issued, for what purpose it was issued, and the date on which testimony or production of documents is to take place. Under extraordinary circumstances the identity of the person subpoenaed may be withheld from publication if necessary to protect the safety of an individual or the confidentiality of the matters to be heard.

(iv) A person subpoenaed to attend a hearing of a committee shall receive the same fees and allowances as a person subpoenaed to give testimony in an action pending in a court of record.

(B) Notice to Witnesses.

(i) Service of a subpoena requiring the attendance of a person at a hearing of a committee shall be made in the manner provided by law for the service of subpoenaed in civil actions at least seven days prior to the date of the hearing unless a shorter period of time is authorized by majority vote of all of the members of the committee in a particular instance when, in their opinion, the giving of seven days notice is not practicable; but if a shorter period of time is authorized, the person subpoenaed shall be given reasonable notice of the hearing, consistent with the particular circumstances involved.

(ii) Any person who is served with a subpoena to attend a hearing of a committee shall also be served with a copy of the act defining the purpose of the committee, a copy of the rules under which the committee functions, a general statement informing him or her of the subject matter of the committee's investigation or inquiry and a notice that he or she may be accompanied at the hearing by counsel of his or her own choosing.

(C) Conduct of the Hearing.

(i) No committee which has issued a subpoena directing a witness to appear at a hearing shall question the witness unless a quorum is present throughout the questioning.

(ii) The hearing shall be public unless the committee, by majority vote of all of its members, determines that a hearing should not be open to the public in a particular instance, due to rare and extraordinary circumstances consistent with Legislative Rule 3, section 15(b) regarding closed meetings.

(iii) The chairperson of the committee shall preside at all hearings and shall conduct the examination of witnesses himself or herself or supervise the examination by other members of the committee. The committee may by majority vote of all its members authorize the questioning of a witness by the committee's counsel or by special counsel.

(D) Right to Counsel and Submission of Questions.

(i) Every witness at the hearing may be accompanied by counsel of his or her own choosing, who may advise the witness of his or her rights, subject to reasonable limitations which the committee may prescribe to prevent obstruction of or interference with the orderly conduct of the hearing.

(ii) Any witness at the hearing, or a witness' counsel, may submit to the committee proposed questions to be asked of the witness or any other witness relevant to the matters upon which there has been any questioning or submission of evidence, and the committee shall ask such of the questions as it deems appropriate and relevant to the subject matter of the hearing.

(E) Testimony.

(i) The committee shall cause a verbatim record to be made of all proceedings in testimony or other evidence is demanded or offered, which record shall include rulings of the chair, questions of the committee and its counsel, the testimony or responses of witnesses, sworn written statements submitted to the committee and read into the record, and such other matters as the committee or its chair may direct.

(ii) All testimony given or offered at the hearing shall be under oath or affirmation if the witness has been subpoenaed, and in other cases if a majority of the committee members present at the hearing so decide.

(iii) The presiding member at the hearing may direct a witness to answer any relevant question or furnish any relevant book, paper or other document, the production of which has been required by subpoena duces tecum. Unless the direction is overruled by a majority vote of the committee members present, disobedience shall constitute a contempt.

(iv) A witness at the hearing or his or her counsel, with the consent of a majority of the committee's members present at the hearing, may file with the committee for incorporation into the record of the hearing sworn written statements relevant to the purpose, subject matter and scope of the committee's investigation or inquiry.

(v) Testimony and other evidence given or offered at a hearing closed to the public shall not be made public unless authorized by majority vote of all of the members of the committee, which authorization shall also specify the form and manner in which the testimony or other evidence may be released.

(vi) A witness at a closed hearing, upon request and at his or her own expense, shall be furnished a transcript of his or her testimony at the hearing.

(F) Interested Persons.

(i) Any person whose name is mentioned or who is otherwise identified during the hearing and who, in the opinion of the committee, may be adversely affected thereby, may, upon his or her request or upon the request of any member of the committee, appear personally before the committee and testify in his or her own behalf, or, with the committee's consent, may file a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record thereof.

(ii) Upon the consent of a majority of its members a committee may invite any other person to appear at a hearing or submit a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record thereof. No invitation to appear, and no request to appear, appearance, or submission of evidence shall limit in any way the committee's power of subpoena.

(iii) Any person who appears before a committee pursuant to this section shall have all the rights, privileges and responsibilities of a witness provided to all other witnesses.

(G) Contempt.

A person shall be in contempt if he or she:

(i) Fails or refuses to appear in compliance with a subpoena or, having appeared, fails or refuses to testify under oath or affirmation.

(ii) Fails or refuses to answer any relevant question or fails or refuses to furnish any relevant book, paper or other document subpoenaed by or on behalf of a committee, or

(iii) Commits any other act or offense against a committee which, if committed against the Legislature would constitute a contempt.

The chairperson of a committee may apply to the Legislature or, during the interim, to the District Court of any county to compel obedience by proceedings for contempt.

(H) Penalties.

(i) A person guilty of contempt under the provision of these rules shall be subject to punishment pursuant to R.R.S. 50-105 and 50-106 during the session, or to R.R.S. 50-407 when the Legislature is not in session.

(ii) If a committee fails in any material respect to comply with the requirements of these rules, any person subject to a subpoena or a subpoena duces tecum who is injured by such failure shall be relieved of any requirement to attend the hearing for which the subpoena was issued or, if present, to testify or produce evidence therein; and such failure shall be a complete defense in any proceeding against such person for contempt or other punishment.

(iii) Any member or employee of the Legislature other than the witness concerned or his or her counsel who knowingly violates subsections of these rules concerning the publication of testimony taken at a closed hearing shall be in contempt of the Legislature or, if a member of the Legislature, shall be subject to sanction or suspension according to the statutes governing the Legislature. The speaker on his or her own motion or on the application of any person claiming to have been injured or prejudiced by an unauthorized disclosure may institute proceedings for the determination of the issue and for the imposition of penalties provided herein. Nothing in this subsection shall limit any power which the Legislature may have to discipline a member or employee or to impose a penalty in the absence of action by a prosecuting officer or court.

(I) Limitation of Rules.

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to limit or prohibit the acquisition of evidence or information by any committee by any lawful means not provided for herein.

RULE 5—BILLS—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 1. Drafting of Bills. The bill drafter shall prepare all bills and amendments in proper form when requested by members of the Legislature, newly elected members of the Legislature, or heads of executive departments. No bills or major amendments shall be introduced or considered unless the same has been approved as to form and draftsmanship by the bill drafter. In order to shorten the length of sections, the bill drafter shall, in the drafting of new sections, make each paragraph a separate section except when to do so would be contrary to sound bill drafting practice. The bill drafter shall make available a continuing compilation of sections to which amendments are proposed so as to reduce unnecessary duplication of bills. This section index of bills drafted shall be available to all senators, newly elected senators, and other persons entitled to have bills drafted. After January 1 of each year no bill shall be drafted by the bill drafter unless requested or authorized by a member of the Legislature.

Sec. 2. Content and Form of Bills. A bill shall be designated as Legislative Bill No. ___.

Style of bill. Const. Art. III, Sec. 13.

(b) No bill shall contain more than one subject, and the same shall be clearly expressed in the title. No law shall be amended, unless the new act contains the section or sections as amended, and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed.

Const. Art. III, Sec. 13.

(c) An amendatory bill or constitutional provision shall be so prepared and printed as to show the new matter proposed, old matter to be retained, and old matter to be omitted from the Statutes or Constitution.

Sec. 3. Revisor Correctional Bills, Pre-Printing. (a) Preceding each legislative session, the chairman or any member of the Executive Board of the Legislative Council, or if the Executive Board so requests, the senator who, in the preceding session served as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, shall sign as introducer the Revisor of Statutes correctional bills. The Clerk of the Legislature shall number these bills consecutively beginning with number 1 and shall show the committee reference to be General File. The Clerk of the Legislature shall have these bills printed before the convening of the next regular session.

(b) In addition to causing to be printed the revisor bills, the Clerk shall number and cause to be printed all bills delivered to him by the Executive Board, provided said Board has referred said bills to a standing committee. No bill so printed shall be withdrawn until after the Legislature convenes.

Sec. 4. Introducers Signing Bills. (a) Members shall introduce only such bills as they are willing to endorse and support personally. The last name and district shall be used, unless an initial or name is necessary to identify the introducer.

(b) A standing committee or special committee may introduce a bill for any purpose including at the request of another senator provided said bill receives the endorsement of a majority of the committee members, whose names shall be on the bill.

(c) No bill shall be introduced after the tenth legislative day of any session, except:

1. "A" bills, appropriation bills and bills introduced at the request of the Governor may be introduced at any time;
2. A standing committee or special committee may request that the Legislature consider introduction of a bill. A vote of three-fifths of the elected members of the Legislature shall be required for such bill to be introduced, and a copy of the statement of intent for such bill must be placed on each member's desk before introduction of the bill is voted upon.

(d) Individual members shall not be limited as to bill introduction. Each committee shall be limited to 8 bills each session. Bills introduced as a result of an interim study of the Legislative Council shall be included within the limitations prescribed by this section. Bills introduced under Rule 5, Sec. 3(a) and bills introduced at the request of the Governor will not be included in the limitation.

(e) The introducers of all bills must submit a statement of intent for each bill to the appropriate committee chairperson at least 24 hours prior to the bill's hearing. The statement of intent should discuss clearly and completely the purposes and effects of the bill.

Sec. 5. Scheduling of Bills, Priority Bills. (a) Each senator may designate one bill as a priority bill. Such priority bill need not be the designator's bill, but the principal introducer must concur with the designation as a priority bill and with the withdrawal of the designation once made.

(b) Each chairperson of those committees which are authorized to hold public hearings on bills may designate two of the committee's bills as priority bills.

(c) The Speaker may designate up to 25 additional priority bills.

(d) Priority bill designations may be made at any time prior to the annual designation deadline which shall be set each year by the Speaker.

The designation deadline shall be prior to the 45th legislative day in the ninety day session and prior to the 30th legislative day in the sixty day session.

(e) A senator or committee may withdraw a priority designation at any time, but will not be allowed to designate another bill as a priority bill in its place. The Speaker may withdraw a priority designation made by the Speaker.

(f) All committees shall schedule priority bills for public hearing ahead of all unscheduled, nonpriority bills unless the person or committee making the priority designation shall otherwise agree.

(g) All bills not designated as priority bills shall be heard on general file in the order in which they are reported to the floor by the committees, unless the introducer of the bill and the Speaker agree to delay the hearing of a particular bill. This provision shall not be construed to prevent the Speaker from placing bills reported out of committee with two or less dissenting votes on a Consent Calendar. Any bill placed on Consent Calendar shall be removed at the written request of three or more senators.

(h) Priority bills shall generally be considered ahead of all other bills at each stage of debate, except that priority bills requiring the expenditure of appropriated funds shall be held on final reading until such time as the annual appropriations bills have been passed. A priority bill which fails to advance after two votes on general file, or after one vote on select file, shall return to nonpriority status.

(i) No priority bill designated under this rule shall have priority over appropriations bills.

Sec. 6. Fiscal Analyst. (a) A copy of every bill introduced shall be transmitted by the Clerk to the Legislative Fiscal Analyst. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall review each bill and make an estimate of the anticipated change in state, county, or municipal expenditures or revenue under the provisions of the bill. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall prepare a statement to be known as a fiscal note to be attached to each bill prior to its public hearing by a committee, or its first consideration on General File if the bill is referred directly to General File. The fiscal note shall set forth the fiscal impact of the bill and the governmental subdivision affected by the fiscal impact as determined by the Legislative Fiscal Analyst. No bill which has a fiscal impact shall be heard by a committee or considered on General File unless the fiscal note is attached.

(b) In determining the fiscal impact of any bill, the Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall request the appropriate department or other entity of state government or subdivision thereof, or appropriate association which will be affected by the bill to prepare the fiscal note within five calendar days.

(c) The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall review the fiscal note so prepared and shall also request a review of such fiscal note by the Budget Division of the Department of Administrative Services. The statement by the Budget Division of the Department of Administrative Services shall be attached to and become a part of the fiscal note. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall include in the fiscal note any exceptions to the conclusions of the department or other entity and of the Budget Division of the Department of Administrative Services.

(d) The fiscal note shall be delivered by the Legislative Fiscal Analyst to the Clerk within ten calendar days of receipt of a copy of the bill for analysis. The Clerk shall attach the fiscal note to the bill and to all copies prepared for members.

(e) When amendments to a bill are adopted by the Legislature and such amendments would change the fiscal impact of the bill, the appropriate changes shall be made in the fiscal note each time the bill is advanced to Enrollment and Review or upon the written request of a member of the Legislature.

(f) When any bill proposes adoption of a new program or change of an existing program either of which would require an appropriation to implement in the ensuing fiscal year, an appropriation bill for the purposes of funding the provisions of such bill shall be prepared from the information contained in the fiscal note. Such appropriation bill shall be prepared at the direction of the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. Such bill shall be placed on General File and considered as introduced by the introducer of the original bill or by the committee which offered the amendments creating the expenditure, and shall bear the number of the original bill with the letter "A" added, and shall accompany the original bill through all stages of the legislative process. All bills for which an "A" bill is prepared shall be bracketed on Final Reading until the "A" bill is advanced to Final Reading.

(g) The authorization bill shall first be considered and if it should be passed on Final Reading then the "A" bill shall be read and voted on for final passage.

(h) The note shall be factual in nature, as brief and concise as may be, and shall if possible provide a reliable estimate in dollars and, in addition, it shall include both the immediate effect and, if determinable or reasonably foreseeable, the long range effect of the measure. If, after investigation, it is determined that no dollar estimate is possible, the note shall contain a statement to that effect, setting forth the reasons why no dollar estimate can be given.

(i) No comment or opinion shall be included in the fiscal note with regard to the merits of the measure for which the note is prepared, however, technical or mechanical defects may be noted.

(e) At any stage of consideration of a bill, a motion to bracket or to bracket to a day certain or to unbracket shall, if made by the primary introducer of the bill, require a majority of those voting. If made by other than the primary introducer, there shall then be required a majority vote of the elected membership. In any event such motions shall alternatively be passed by unanimous consent of the body.

(f) In the event a motion to indefinitely postpone a bill is made before the bill is read on General File, such motion shall require the affirmative vote of a majority of the elected members.

(g) In the event a bill has become substantially a new and different bill by reason of amendments having been adopted, the Speaker may refer said bill to the Reference Committee who must refer the said bill to a proper committee for a public hearing; Provided, that a majority of the elected members may overrule the decision of the Speaker.

(h) If in the opinion of the Speaker, the bill is in such form that it should properly be referred back to committee for further action he may by order direct the same; Provided, that a majority of the elected members may overrule the decision of the Speaker. If the Appropriations

(b) If such motion fails or is not offered the chairman of the Appropriations Committee or his/her designee shall then introduce motions to override selected portions of the vetoed bill.

The Legislature shall in odd-numbered years, after the period allowed for the introduction of bills, recess for four (4) calendar days. During such recess committees shall prepare, for public distribution, a calendar of hearing dates. No committee hearings shall be held until after the recess provided for in this section. The Legislature shall remain in session until it shall adjourn sine die, but in no event shall it remain in session for longer than ninety (90) legislative days in odd-numbered years or sixty (60) legislative days in even-numbered years. This limitation may be suspended by a four-fifths vote of the elected senators.

o. Miscellaneous business

(c) Messages from the Governor may be received at any stage of the proceedings.

(d) When a bill shall have been made a special order for a definite time and an adjournment shall intervene for a time beyond the time fixed for such special order, then in that event the bill so made a special order shall be placed in its order on General File. The unfinished business in which the Legislature was engaged at the adjournment of the last preceding sitting shall have preference in the special order of the day.

(e) Upon call for the introduction of bills, any member or any standing committee to which bills are referred for consideration may introduce one or more bills.

Introduction of bills. Rule 6, Sec. 1.

(B) Voting Machine

Sec. 2. Voting, Electric Roll Call. (a) All votes shall be taken viva voca unless otherwise provided for herein. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to wit: "Those who are in favor of the question say 'aye'; those who are opposed to the question say 'nay'."

(b) If a machine vote is called for or if the presiding officer is in doubt, he shall cause the result to be obtained by means of the electric roll call system, and in such event shall accept only machine tallied votes except that voice votes shall be accepted on a motion before the House while the House is under Call. The presiding officer may vote by voice. Only the totals shall be printed in the Journal. Once having voted aye or nay, senators may call in a change to not voting prior to the locking of the voting board.

(c) Upon the final passage of a bill, or of a resolution if the same required the same consideration as a bill, the vote shall be by yeas and nays, and the electric roll call system shall be used. Voice votes shall be accepted on Final Reading.

(d) Whenever the "ayes" and "nays" are taken by machine vote no member shall be permitted to vote after the decision is announced by the presiding officer or the Clerk. Votes not registered on the electric roll call system shall not be counted for or against a proposition. In announcing such vote the Clerk shall announce the ayes, the nays, those present and not voting, those absent and not voting, and those excused and not voting, and on any action to advance or amend bills, these totals shall be set forth in the Journal. Voice votes shall be accepted on roll call or record votes.

(e) Only Senators physically in the legislative chamber may vote.

(C) Motions

Sec. 3. Motion, in Writing, Withdrawal. (a) A motion shall be either stated by the presiding officer or read by the Clerk before a vote is taken. All motions shall be submitted in writing if requested by the presiding officer or any senator.

Once motions are stated they may be withdrawn or modified by the mover before a decision, amendment, or ordering of a vote has been made. A motion to reconsider may be withdrawn only with unanimous consent or a majority vote of the elected members.

When a question is under debate no motion shall be considered except one of the following, which motions shall take precedence in the order stated.

a. To adjourn
b. For the previous question
c. To postpone to a time certain
d. To recommit to a committee
e. To amend
f. To postpone indefinitely

Such motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged, except that motions to postpone indefinitely and amend do not yield to each other.

When any of the following motions shall be made, any action on such motion shall be delayed at least one legislative day and the motion shall be printed in the Legislative Journal:

a. Motion to postpone indefinitely on General File or Select File, unless the introducer(s) of the bill, or the committee chairperson in the case of committee bills, request(s) that the motion to postpone indefinitely be considered immediately without the one day delay.
b. Motion to advance bills from committee.
c. Motion to place bills on General File, notwithstanding the action of a standing committee.

(b) When a motion or other proposition is under consideration, a motion to amend and a motion to amend that amendment shall be in order.

(c) Amendments to the title shall be made by the Enrollment and Review Committee.

(d) No motion, proposition, or subject, different from that under consideration, shall be admitted under color of amendment. Any amendment that is not germane is out of order. Germane amendments relate only to details of the specific subject of the bill and must be in a natural and logical sequence to the subject matter of the original proposal. A nongermane amendment includes one that relates to a substantially different subject or accomplishes substantially different purpose than that of the original bill to which it is proposed.

(e) Any member may call for the division of a question, which shall be divided if it comprehends propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Legislature. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost, shall not preclude an amendment or a motion to strike out or insert.

(f) When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a select committee and to a standing committee, the question on reference to the standing committee shall be considered first.

Sec. 4. Shall the Debate Cease. The previous question shall be in this form, "Shall the debate now close?"

The previous question shall be made only in the normal course of speaking order and shall be in order when demanded by five or more members, and must be sustained by the vote of a majority of the elected members, and until decided shall, except as provided in this section of this rule, preclude further debate and all amendments and motions, except one motion to adjourn. The presiding officer may rule the previous question out of order if in the presiding officer's opinion a full and fair debate has not been afforded, due to the complexity of the subject matter. The ruling of the presiding officer shall be subject to overrule in accordance with Rule 1, Sec. 12 of these Rules.

On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for a previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

When the previous question shall have been ordered on a proposition under debate, the mover, proponent, or introducer of such proposition shall be given the right to close the debate thereon.

Sec. 5. Call of the Legislature. A Call of the Legislature may be made by any member in the manner following: "I move for a Call of the Legislature." The presiding officer shall direct that the board be cleared and the members shall then vote on placing themselves under Call. If a majority of the senators present and voting vote in favor of such a motion then the Legislature shall be deemed to be under Call. Each member present shall indicate his presence upon the electric roll call system and shall remain in his seat during the Call. After the Clerk shall note the names of the absentees, proceedings under the Call may be suspended at any time by a majority vote of the members then present, and when so suspended shall not again be ordered on the proposition pending, except by a majority vote of the members elected. If all absentees were to vote on one side of the question, and if their combined vote would be insufficient to change the result of the vote, the President shall declare the Call raised.

Lieutenant Governor votes only when Legislature equally divided. Rule 1, Sec. 14.
Voice vote while House under Call. Rule 7, Sec. 2b.

Sec. 6. Postpone to Time Certain. No motion to postpone to a time certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely being decided, shall again be allowed on the same day at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

Sec. 7. Reconsideration. (a) When a question has been decided, it shall be in order for any member voting with the prevailing side, or not voting, to move for a reconsideration thereof. A motion to reconsider must be made on the same day the original question was decided or on the next legislative day, except when it be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading. In such case, it must be made on the same day the original question was decided or on one of the next three legislative days. A motion to reconsider must be disposed of by the Legislature within five legislative days after making the same or it shall be deemed defeated. If the Legislature shall refuse to reconsider, or upon reconsideration shall affirm its first decision, no further motion to reconsider shall be in order unless by unanimous consent.

Motion to reconsider cannot be withdrawn without leave. Rule 7, Sec. 3.

(b) Every motion to reconsider shall take preference over all other questions, except a motion to adjourn.

(c) For its adoption, a motion to reconsider shall require the vote of a majority f the elected members, except:

i Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading, then a three-fifths vote shall be required for adoption.

ii Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading with the emergency clause attached, but which received the constitutional majority with the emergency clause stricken and the purpose of the motion is to again add the emergency clause, then a two-thirds vote of the elected members shall be required for adoption.

(d) For a bill on General File, no motion to reconsider shall be in order until the bill has failed to advance three times; for a bill on Select File, no motion to reconsider shall be in order until the bill has failed to advance two times; for a bill passed on Final Reading, no motion to reconsider shall be in order except by the introducer of the bill, for technical or clarifying amendments.

(e) Whenever a bill is returned from the Governor for further action pursuant to the Legislature's request for such return, motions for reconsideration necessarily incident to opening a bill for further action shall be admitted regardless of the time limitation otherwise imposed by this rule.

Sec. 8. Strike the Enacting Clause. A motion to strike the enacting clause if adopted, is equivalent to rejection of the bill. It shall not have precedence over a motion to amend nor a motion to indefinitely postpone.

Sec. 9. Motion to Adjourn. A motion to adjourn shall be in order, except:

a. While a member is speaking.
b. When a motion to adjourn has just been defeated.
c. After the Final Reading of a bill and during roll call thereon.

A motion to adjourn to a time certain shall have precedence over a motion to adjourn. A motion to recess shall take precedence over either of such motions.

When a motion to adjourn has been made, the Speaker shall be privileged to speak to the motion prior to any vote on such motion, otherwise a motion to adjourn is not debatable.

A motion to adjourn shall be adopted if approved by a majority of members voting.

RULE 8—APPROPRIATIONS PROCESS

Section 1. Purpose. The purpose of this Rule is to provide a procedure for the Legislature to develop appropriations for all state agencies, boards, and commissions. Such procedure shall consider the need to (1) continue the services and financial assistance provided by state agencies and programs, and (2) restrict the growth in state appropriations.

Sec. 2. Appropriations Committee Report. The Legislature's Appropriations Committee, by majority vote of its members, shall annually prepare a report summarizing the recommended total General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. Sec. 4. Resolution, General Fund Appropriation. Based upon the Appropriations Committee's report, the Legislature shall adopt a resolution which specifically recommends a maximum General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. The Legislature shall consider such resolution no less than three legislative days after the Appropriations Committee report is distributed to members of the Legislature and the resolution is printed in the Legislative Journal. Any adoption of the resolution or amendment to the resolution which increases or decreases the maximum General Fund appropriation recommendation made under Section 2 of this Rule shall require twenty-five votes for adoption.

Sec. 5. Bills, Held on Final Reading. The report of the Appropriations Committee shall include a recommended dollar amount of the General Fund biennium appropriation provided for in Sec. 4 of this Rule which shall be allocated for the funding of "A" bills, bills that result in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, tax expenditure bills, and amendments to the appropriation bills as reported to General File by the Appropriations Committee. All "A" bills which appropriate General Funds, all bills resulting in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, and all tax expenditure bills shall not be read on final reading until the appropriation bills are passed by the Legislature. Provided the Appropriations Committee shall place appropriation bills on General File no later than the 70th Legislative Day in a 90 day session and the 40th Legislative Day in a 60 day session. If this deadline is not met, the Legislature shall consider the appropriation bills as introduced by the Governor. The appropriation bills shall be passed no later than the 80th Legislative Day in a 90 day session and the 50th Legislative day in a 60 day session. Such appropriation bills proposed by the Appropriations Committee plus the allocation for the funding of "A" bills, all bills resulting in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund, and all tax expenditure bills, shall not be in excess of the maximum General Fund appropriation adopted by resolution pursuant to Sec. 4 of this Rule. RESIGNATION

The Honorable Robert Kerrey
Governor, State of Nebraska
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, NE 68509

Dear Governor Kerrey:

Please consider this letter notice of my intention to resign my post as State Senator representing the 31st Legislative District, as of September 1, 1983.

My three years service in the Nebraska Legislature constitutes some of the most rewarding, exhilarating, and productive times in my life. It has been a privilege working with my colleagues in the Legislature in attempting to address and resolve issues during a period of time when the state has had to face its greatest economic crisis since the Great Depression.

I am grateful to the citizens of the 31st Legislative District for giving me an opportunity to represent them and to serve the state. I hope they are pleased with the accomplishments I have achieved working on their behalf. Many of the goals I set for myself upon becoming a state senator have been reached: flood protection for residents of western Douglas County, improvement of education, a uniform condominium law, removal of the sales tax on food, safeguarding the rights of adolescents, containment of health care costs, and legislation prohibiting the "washing" of auto titles.

There is always more to accomplish, and I regret that I will not be among those in the Legislature to grapple with the continuing problems of inflation, unemployment and especially the challenge that faces us in regard to providing the best education for our children.

Most of all, I will miss working with constituents whom I have been able to assist resolving problems with state government or through introduction of specific legislation on their behalf.

I look forward to continuing to serve the public in concrete and beneficial ways.

Sincerely,
(Signed) Steve Wiitala

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

June 14, 1983

Dear Senator DeCamp:

This is in response to your request for an opinion on the constitutionality of LB 295 concerning the proposed regulation of automatic telephone dialing devices.

LB 295 makes it "unlawful for any person to use an automatic dialing-announcing device for the purpose of advertising, offering goods or services for sale, or for any purpose in connection with a political campaign." The act specifically does not prohibit the use of such a device for taking public opinion polls. Furthermore, the act would make the use of such a device a deceptive trade practice. Violation of the statute would be a Class III misdemeanor.

Your request asks whether there would be any violation of the Equal Protection Clause because of the lack of regulation of manually dialed unsolicited calls, and whether the act would create any restrictions on interstate commerce.

As noted by the FCC in its Memorandum Opinion and Order, In the Matter of Unsolicited Telephone Calls, Docket 78-100, May 22, 1980, there is a potential for abuse in the use of such automatic devices. Because of the sheer volume of calls which such devices can generate, compared to manual dialing operations, this potential for abuse becomes significantly greater through the use of such machines. This very real distinction would form a reasonable basis for different treatment of automatic dialing devices in a regulatory framework, which would offset any claims of lack of equal protection or treatment.

As to the question of restrictions on interstate commerce, the FCC in the above findings and order, determined that the interstate use of such devices was extremely limited and primarily for that reason, declined to exercise any restrictions on the use of such devices. The regulation of such devices has thus been left to the states. While the potential for use of these devices in interstate commerce exists, and hence the potential for interference with interstate commerce by application of the proposed statute, we nevertheless believe that the proposed law would be construed in a constitutional manner thus limiting its effect to regulation of only intrastate calls.

There does appear to be, however, serious problems regarding violation of the right of free speech guaranteed under the First Amendment as a result of this proposed legislation. This precise issue has not yet been dealt with by the courts. The question in such a determination would involve the balancing of an individual's right to privacy as compared to the right of free speech. Cases concerning the receipt of "junk mail," and door-to-door solicitation indicate that an outright ban on such communications, whether political or commercial, would, in all likelihood, be a violation of the constitutional right of free speech. Martin v. Struthers, 319 U.S. 141 (1943); Hynes v. Mayor of Oradell, 425 U.S. 610 (1976); Rowan v. Post Office Department, 397 U.S. 728 (1970); and Lamont v. Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, 216 F.Supp. 880 (S.D.N.Y.), aff'd per curiam, 386 F.2d 449 (2d Cir. 1967), cert. denied, 291 U.S. 915 (1968). Thus the complete ban of the use of the automatic dialing devices imposed by this legislation for commercial and political purposes would likely be unconstitutional from the standpoint of a violation of the First Amendment right of free speech.

In summation, we believe there are no constitutional problems with this legislation from the standpoint of equal protection or interstate commerce, however, there are serious questions as to its constitutionality under the First Amendment. Finally, your question as to the sufficiency of public policy requiring the regulation of these devices seems more appropriate for determination by the Legislature.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 129

Dear Senator R. Peterson:

Your letter to this office states that future legislation will be considered during an interim study concerning the Community Mental Health Services Act. You inquire if the community mental health centers are actually extensions of the Department of Public Institutions.

While the Community Mental Health Services Act, §§71-5001 through 71-5014 (Reissue 1981) gives the Department of Public Institutions and the Director of Medical Services thereof, some specific duties and responsibilities, it falls short of constituting the six mental health regions or any service agency providing mental health services as defined in §71-5002(3) (Reissue 1981), legal subdivisions of the Department of Public Institutions. Rather than attempting to label the relationship, it is more accurate to describe the authority and duties of each.

For example, §71-5003 of said act requires the Director of Medical Services of the Department of Public Institutions to provide a state-wide plan for mental health services, establish minimum standards for the operation of any facility or program funded under the act, provide assistance to place mentally ill persons in appropriate facilities or programs, require budgets to be submitted by each region, evaluate submitted budgets to determine the state's share of funding requirements and the services to be rendered, approve any plan to be submitted to a federal agency for grants, and promulgate such rules and regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of the act. However, any standards, rules, or regulations above referred to may be adopted only after consultation with a committee consisting of one member of each regional governing board appointed by such board and one consumer from each regional mental health advisory committee appointed by that regional governing board.

While such committee does not have veto authority over the standards, rules, and regulations to be adopted, the procedure indicates that the regions are not under the legal control of the department but have an independent input into such adoption.

Section 71-5004 of said act specifically provides that any combination of counties operating under the Interlocal Cooperation Act shall appoint a governing board which shall govern and supervise the operation of the comprehensive community mental health services program offered within their geographical boundaries. Such governing board shall contract with any public agency, approved private agency, or individual providing mental health services as described in said act subject to minimum standards adopted by the Director of Medical Services under the act.

These governing boards consist of one member from each of the county boards of supervisors or commissioners represented by each region. Each of the counties shall contribute financial support for the operation of the regional comprehensive community mental health services program based upon a funding formula acceptable to each of the counties involved. This clearly distinguishes the regions from being subdivisions or agencies of the State Department of Public Institutions as it is the regional governing board which governs, supervises, makes assessments on the counties, and contracts for services under this section.

Section 71-5006 of said act requires the governing board of each region to organize and supervise the comprehensive mental health services and facilities under its jurisdiction, cause such services to be provided to the people and name and appoint a program director.

While the regional governing board must also report annually to the Director of Medical Services regarding the expenditure of funds and submit annually a proposed budget and plan of the services to be offered, it must also establish the amount of funds to be requested from each county.

Under §71-5007 the regional governing board determines the powers and authority of the program administrator who is directly responsible to the governing board for administering and supervising the programs, services, and facilities under the act. While he acts in the interest of the state in its overall goal of providing mental health services, he is not an employee or agent of the state in a legal sense.

The foregoing constitutes the regions and the agencies with whom they contract as separate legal entities which must comply with certain standards and regulations to receive the funds appropriated by the state under the budgets submitted. The relationship is similar to that of any state or local governmental subdivision receiving grants from the federal government.

Nowhere under said act is any enforcement authority given to the Department of Public Institutions which would give the department direct control over the regions or agencies thereof.

The department does have the authority to require annual audits and reports as it deems necessary, and provide accountability for all sources of funds and all expenditure of funds from all agencies receiving any state funds, but such authority is not backed up with any enforcement powers. Presumably problems of the department with the expenditure of funds or operation of the programs would result in withholding of future funds by the Legislature.

The department, under §71-5010 of the act, has the duty to require such annual audits as it deems necessary. You have inquired whether the state auditor could perform this function. Section 84-304 (Reissue 1981) provides in part:

> It shall be the duty of the Auditor of Public Accounts:
> (4) Conduct audits and related activities for state agencies, political subdivisions of this state, or grantees of federal funds disbursed by a receiving agency on a contractual or other basis for reimbursement, to assure proper accounting by all such agencies, political subdivisions, and grantees for funds appropriated by the Legislature and federal funds disbursed by any receiving agency.

This provision, would, in our opinion, require the Auditor of Public Accounts to audit the regional governmental organization or other agency under the act which is the grantee of funds appropriated by the Legislature.

Hoping this will be of assistance to you we are,

Very truly yours,

Opinion No. 131
July 5, 1983

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

The following is our opinion as to the constitutional validity of Nebraska's legislative and congressional redistricting plan given the recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the cases of Karcher et al. v. Daggett et al., 51 U.S.L.W. 4854 and Brown et al. v. Thomson et al., 51 U.S.L.W. 4883.

Brown, supra, concerned the Wyoming legislature's redistricting plan for that state's House of Representatives, and Karcher, supra, concerned New Jersey's reapportionment plan for its congressional districts. At the outset, it should be noted that the standards applicable to redistricting plans are entirely different in the case of a state legislative redistricting plan than they are for state legislatures redistricting plan for United States congressional districts. State legislative redistricting plans are susceptible to scrutiny under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, while United States congressional redistricting plans are subject to scrutiny under Article I, Section 2 of the United States Constitution itself.

Turning then first to the question of the validity of Nebraska's legislative redistricting plan, the United States Supreme Court recently held in the Brown, supra, case that the Equal Protection Clause requires that state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis and that the state make an honest and good faith effort to construct districts as nearly of equal population as is practical.

The court there recognized as it had in Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533 that "it is a practical impossibility to arrange legislative districts so that each one has an identical number of residents, or citizens, or voters." Specifically the United States Supreme Court in Brown held that minor deviations from mathematical equality among state legislative districts are insufficient to make out a prima facie case of invidious discrimination under the Fourteenth Amendment so as to require those deviations to be justified by the state. The court specifically held: "Our decisions have established, as a general matter, that an apportionment plan with a maximum population deviation under ten percent falls within this category of minor deviations." The court held that states with deviations below this ten percent figure would not be required to justify these deviations while without saying greater deviations were unconstitutional, the court would require states to justify the reasons for greater disparities. It is our understanding that the legislative reapportionment plan adopted by the Nebraska Legislature provides for a maximum deviation less than ten percent and we would therefore be of the opinion that given the recent Supreme Court holding in Brown, supra, that as such it would pass constitutional review.

With respect to congressional redistricting plans, the Supreme Court in Karcher, supra, suggested that Article I, Section 2 of the United States Constitution required a two prong test any time a state's congressional reapportionment plan failed to achieve absolute mathematical equality. First, the courts must consider whether the population differences among districts could have been reduced or eliminated all together by a good faith effort to draw districts of equal population. The court suggested that parties challenging apportionment legislation must bear the burden of proof on that issue, however, if they could establish that population differences were not the result of a good faith effort to achieve equality, the state must bear the burden of proving that each significant variance between districts was necessary to achieve some legitimate goal.

In the Karcher, supra, case, the State of New Jersey had a maximum variance of 0.6984 percent, however, an alternative plan had been proposed in the New Jersey legislature which would have resulted in a maximum variance of 0.4514 percent.

Given the obvious possibility for adopting a plan which would have resulted in less disparity, the court subjected the State of New Jersey to the second prong of the test, that being requiring them to prove a justification for this variance.

It is our understanding that Nebraska's congressional reapportionment plan did not result in absolute mathematical equality but rather had a population variance of 0.23 percent. It is also our understanding that a plan was proposed which, if it had been adopted, would have resulted in a population variance of considerably less. Therefore, it is apparent from the holding of the United States Supreme Court in Karcher, supra, that it would be necessary for Nebraska to justify the acceptance of a plan resulting in greater disparity.

The United States Supreme Court did go on in Karcher, supra, to list some of the legislative policies which might justify greater variance than would be mathematically possible under alternative plans. These factors included the desire to make districts compact, the desire to respect municipal boundaries, the desire to preserve cores of prior districts, and the desire to avoid election contests between incumbent representatives. The court did not indicate that this was an exhaustive list, but merely examples of the types of legislative concerns which they might find acceptable.

Therefore, if the adoption of the plan actually accepted can be justified on these or other legitimate bases, then we would be of the opinion that the failure of variance could be supported and the apportionment upheld. Conversely, if there are no acceptable reasons for adopting the plan chosen and rejecting the plan establishing the smallest possible variance, then it is likely that our apportionment would be rejected.

We hope you will find this information useful in analyzing both Nebraska's efforts to reapportion its Legislature and its congressional districts.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 132

Dear Senator Wesely:

You have indicated that you are considering proposing legislation which would prohibit an individual who is an elected official or a person appointed to an elective office from being appointed anew to his position after he has been removed from that position pursuant to a recall election. You first ask whether or not such legislation is necessary, and secondly, whether or not in our opinion your proposal would be constitutional.

The process of recall in Nebraska and the procedure for filling the vacancy thereby created is peculiar to the particular office and varies considerably. For example, the recall procedure for city council members of the metropolitan class includes the naming of a successor in the recall petition itself and specifically provides that if the recall effort is successful a subsequent election will be held at which the removed council member may be a candidate to succeed himself. Neb.Rev.Stat. §14-209 (1982 Supp.). This procedure is essentially the same for city council members in a commission form of government. Neb.Rev.Stat. §19-424 (Reissue 1977).

However, in cities with a city manager form of government vacancies created by recall pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §19-628 (Reissue 1977) are filled by appointment. Neb.Rev.Stat. §19-1614 (Reissue 1977). On the other hand, city council members from cities or villages other than those specified above can be removed by recall pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §19-4201 (1982 Supp.) and any vacancy created thereby is filled either by appointment or by a special election at the option of the mayor and the board members. Neb.Rev.Stat. §32-4,152 (1982 Supp.). County officers can be removed by recall pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §23-2010 (1982 Supp.) and vacancies created thereby are filled by appointment. Neb.Rev.Stat. §23-2010.07 (1982 Supp.).

Provision for the removal of officers in metropolitan water districts is found in Neb.Rev.Stat. §14-1033 (Reissue 1977) and provides that they shall be recalled through the use of "any general laws of the state [pertaining] to...recall." It is unclear what is meant by "any general laws" inasmuch as there appear to be no general laws on recall but rather simply those pertaining to the office in question.

Other specific provisions for particular officers are found elsewhere within the statutes, i.e., school boards. Neb.Rev.Stat. §§79-547.01, 79-605 (1982 Supp.); Public Power Districts, §70-618 (Reissue 1981).

Turning then to the questions you raise, it would appear as though some legislative clarification in this area would be desirable. More specifically you inquire as to whether or not under Nebraska law an office holder who is removed by recall may be appointed to the position from which he has just been recalled. It would appear that at least in some instances set out above, provision for such is specifically provided. We would therefore be of the opinion that at least with respect to those specific instances, if the Legislature wished to prohibit the appointment of a recalled official that they should do so by specific legislative act. We make this suggestion based upon the fact there are no Nebraska Supreme Court cases of which we are aware directly relating to the question of whether or not a recalled office holder can be appointed to succeed himself. There is, however, a body of law from other jurisdictions which suggests that recall is for the duration of the unexpired term. Recall Bennett Committee, et al. v. Bennett, et al., 249 P.2d 279 (1952).

We do believe there is a difference between prohibiting a recalled official's being appointed anew to the position from which he has been recalled and prohibiting him from seeking election to this office either at an election held pursuant to the recall process itself or at some subsequent election. It has been held that statutory provisions related to recall elections are to be liberally interpreted in favor of the electorate. In Re Recall of Certain Officials, 217 N.W.2d 277 (1974), In Re Bower, 242 N.E.2d 252 (1968). Also, it should be noted that the right of a candidate to seek office has never been afforded fundamental status as the right to vote has been by the United States Supreme Court. See Bullock v. Carter, 405 U.S. 134 (1972).

Therefore, while prohibiting a recalled office holder's reappointment may promote the interest of the electorate, prohibiting that same recalled official from seeking re-election may do just the opposite by frustrating the people's right to vote since the possibility remains that in a subsequent election the recalled official might appear to the voters to be the most desirable candidate. It would appear therefore that the electorate's right to vote would be impinged upon if he were not allowed on the ballot.

Also in this regard the California Supreme Court, after analyzing the various United States Supreme Court decisions on point concluded that a California provision preventing a recalled official from running for the same office within a year after his ouster is unconstitutional. De Bottari v. Melendez, 119 Cal.Rptr. 256 (1975).

Turning then to your proposal, it would appear as though since it would only prohibit the reappointment of a recalled official and would not prohibit that official's seeking the office at a subsequent election, that such a provision would not conflict with the public's right to vote and would not unduly restrict any rights possessed by the recalled candidate since the right to be a candidate is not constitutionally fundamental.

Since, however, specific statutory provisions are given preference over general provisions, we do suggest that you may wish to consider incorporating such a prohibition within each existing section dealing with the recall of specific offenses.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Re: Machine and Computer Video Games

Dear Senator Hefner:

This is in reply to your inquiry concerning machine and computer video games when used by a city in Nebraska to conduct a lottery. We assume from your questions that the lottery has been duly established by approval of the voters as required by Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-1116 (Reissue 1979).

We will set forth your questions, followed by our answers in the order contained in your letter.

1. Does the definition of lotteries in section 28-1101 (6) include a machine or computer operated video lottery which issues a ticket to be redeemed for a prize? Does it include a machine or computer operated video lottery which directly returns cash as a prize?

In CONtact, Inc. v. State, 212 Neb. 584, 324 N.W. 2d 804 (1982), the latest lottery case before the Supreme Court of Nebraska, the court, in discussing the above statutory definition, quoted with approval from a Texas case as follows:

> In the case of Callison v. State, (Tex.Civ.App.), 146 S.W.2d 468, the Court uses this language: "Obviously, the punch boards are lotteries; purely games of chance or luck. The numbers are hidden from view until punched from the board by players. No skill is exercised in the operation of the game, and the boards can be used for no purpose other than gaming; they were designed for that purpose only." It is clear that all the elements of a lottery are present in the case at bar. Those who participated in the operation of the punch board paid for the right to share in the distribution of a prize, and the result of their venture depended entirely upon chance. No skill was required of any person who punched a number from the board, and the prize consisted of money. The punch board described in the evidence is a lottery, and this Court so holds.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska went on to hold that pickle cards came within the definition of a lottery and when properly operated by a nonprofit corporation, were legal.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-1115 (Reissue 1979), which regulates "Any nonprofit organization etc." requires the issuance of a ticket with a sequential number and the name of the organization printed thereon. Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-1116 (Reissue 1979), which authorizes counties, cities, and villages to conduct lotteries, has no such requirement. Neither, in our opinion, do cities, counties, and villages come within the purview of §28-1115.

We are of the opinion that, if presented with the question, the Supreme Court of Nebraska would look at the construction and operation of the machine in making its determination. The mere fact that it is a machine would not disqualify it as a lottery, but the provisions of §28-1107 prohibiting possession of a gambling device would be applicable as well as the definitional provision contained in §28-1101(5):

> Gambling device shall mean any device, machine, paraphernalia, writing, paper, instrument, article, or equipment that is used or usable for engaging in gambling, whether that activity consists of gambling between persons or gambling by a person involving the playing of a machine.

In light of these two sections of the statutes, we believe that it would be difficult to design a machine or computer operated video device which would fall within the definition of lotteries contained in the Nebraska statutes.

We believe that it is likely that any machine when operated by a governmental subdivision which paid off in cash at the time of playing the machine would likely be found to be a gambling device.

2. Does section 28-1115 (as is presently stands, not as amended by LB 259) require all lotteries operated for community betterment purposes to comply with the 65% and 25% provisions of the section? If yes, does a lottery described in question 1. comply specifically with the 25% on expenses?

The answer is "no" as to lotteries operated by cities, villages, and counties as discussed under question 1.

3. What are the answers to the above questions when LB 259 take effect: (The 25% provision becomes the 10% provision in section 41 of LB 259.)

Section 41 of LB 259 specifically applies to §28-1116, discussed above, which is the section which authorizes city, county, and village lotteries. This new section will require city, county, and village lotteries to follow similar requirements to those now required of nonprofit organizations under §28-1115 (Reissue 1979), including a limitation on the use of the proceeds and the requirement that a ticket be issued with a sequential number and the name of the county, city or village conducting the lottery printed thereon. Operators of machines which do not have such a ticket or follow the percentage requirements as to the proceeds will be in violation of this section which becomes effective August 26, 1983.

4. Does a video lottery violate any provisions of the Nebraska Constitution?

There is no reason why a video machine could not be devised which would not violate the provisions of the Nebraska Constitution but, since we have not been apprised of the operation of any particular machine, we cannot give you a blanket answer.

Very truly yours,

Opinion No. 136
August 29, 1983

Dear Senator Kahle:

This is in response to your inquiry containing a number of questions regarding the bail statutes. You indicate that you need this information for preparation of amendatory legislation. We will restate and answer your questions in the order presented in your letter.

(1) In view of the language about the defendant's "option" contained in 29-901 (3) (R.R.S. 1943), is it permissible for a judge to summarily reject the use of a "bail bond" or "surety bond" in a class of cases or in a particular case?

As you know, §29-901 (3) gives the court the authority to require a bailable defendant to select either of two choices in order to be released from custody:

> (a) The execution of an appearance bond and a deposit of not to exceed 10 percent of the amount of such bond in cash, 90 percent of which deposit is to be returned upon performance of the appearance and 10 percent to be retained as part of the cost; or
> (b) the execution of a bail bond with such sureties as the judge deems proper or, in lieu of sureties, at the option of the person putting up bond, a cash deposit of the sum fixed.

We assume, since your question is limited to §29-901 (3) that your question assumes the court has rejected releasing the defendant on the other options preceding and following subsection (3). Under this assumption, the court could not reject, summarily or otherwise, the release of the defendant on some type of bond as outlined in subsection (3) except in the cases outlined in the Nebraska Constitution.

Article I, Section 9 of the Nebraska Constitution provides:

All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for treason, sexual offenses involving penetration by force or against the will of the victim, and murder, where the proof is evident or the presumption great. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted. (Amended, 1978.)

Since subsection (3) of §29-901 gives the defendant the choice of either (a) or (b), discussed above, the court would have to give the defendant both options and permit him to select. Of course, the court sets the amounts involved and has a reasonable discretion as to approval of the surety or sureties.

The court could reject the bonds under subsection (3) and release the defendant under conditions imposed under subsection (4) without violating the constitution.

(2) When are the requirements discussed in the last two sentences of 29-901 (3) (b) applicable to surety bond arrangements?

There are a number of sentences immediately after §29-901 (3) (b), not separated by a paragraph, which generally describe the various requirements of recognizances in criminal cases and their application in specific situations. We assume, from the further content of your letter, that the last two sentences to which you refer are the last two sentences at the end of the paragraph which provide:

> Each surety on such recognizance shall be required to justify under oath in a sum twice the amount of such recognizance and give the description of real estate owned by him of a value above encumbrance equal to the amount of such justification, and shall name all other cases pending in which he is a surety. No one shall be accepted as surety on recognizance aggregating a sum in excess of his equity in his real estate, but such recognizance shall not constitute a lien on the real estate described therein until judgment is entered thereon against such surety.

The above portion of the statute immediately follows a sentence authorizing a recognizance to include all offenses charged when two or more indictments or informations are returned against the same person. While it is somewhat equivocal, we believe the quoted portion is meant to apply to all surety bonds and not just those involving two or more indictments, since the statute contains no other directions or requirements as to surety bonds in single indictment situations.

You will note that the beginning of the quoted portion uses the term "shall" which, by the terms of §49-802 (Reissue 1978), presumes mandatory action unless inconsistent with the manifest intention of the Legislature. No inconsistency appears and the court would have no authority to waive this requirement if such a bond were in fact to be used.

(3) Could a condition such as abstinence from the consumption of alcohol be imposed upon a defendant under 29-901 in a DWI case?

As you mention, §29-901 requires the court in setting up the conditions of release to impose the first of the conditions thereafter set forth which will assure appearance. If no single condition gives that assurance, any combination of the conditions thereafter listed may be used. We see no reason why the condition you suggest in this question could not be used under the authority of subsection (4) which authorizes the court to "Impose any other condition deemed reasonably necessary to assure appearances as required," provided the court had reasonable grounds to believe alcohol may interfere with the defendant's appearance. It would not fit within the meaning of "association" in subsection (2) in our opinion.

(4) Does a court have absolute discretion in determining when to set aside or remit a forfeited recognizance under 29-1107 or 29-1109?

A court does not have absolute discretion but, as stated in Langnes v. Green, 282 U.S. 531, quoted with approval by the Supreme Court of Nebraska in State v. Konvalin, 165 Neb. 499 at 502. "(I)t means a sound discretion, that is to say, a discretion exercised not arbitrarily or willfully, but with regard to what is right and equitable under the circumstances."

In State v. Konvalin, supra, the defendant, shortly before he was to appear in court in Nebraska, went to Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he got into a fight and was severely beaten, claims he was transported to Missouri where he was picked up on a felony charge and missed his appearance in Nebraska. He later waived extradition to Nebraska and appeared a few days late. The Nebraska court entered a forfeiture of the bond but remitted approximately two-thirds. The Supreme Court of Nebraska stated, " The discretion implicit in the statute is bestowed upon and is to be exercised by the district court. This court should not substitute its discretion for that of the district court."

We have no doubt that there are circumstances in which a court would be justified in entering judgment for the full amount of the recognizance without violating any constitutional principles.

We hope this will be of assistance to you.

Very truly yours,

Opinion No. 138
September 8, 1983

Dear Senator Chronister:

You have called to our attention the fact that the citizens of the City of West Point, Nebraska, have voted to change from electing the members of their city council at large to electing them by ward.

You further call to our attention provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §5-108 (1982 Supp.) and generally ask our opinion of how this transition should mechanically take place.

We understand that subsequent to your request of this office you and officials of the City of West Point have had conversations with Secretary of State Allen Beermann and his staff and that as a result of these conversations the technical aspects of the mechanical nature of this transition have been resolved to everyone's satisfaction. If our understanding in this regard is incorrect, please let us know.

You also ask our opinion as to the amount of population variance which may be constitutionally permissible in this redistricting. In that regard, you direct our attention to the recent United States Supreme Court decision in Karcher v. Daggett, 51 U.S.L.W. 4853 (June 22, 1983).

While the Karcher, supra, case is no doubt instructive on questions of the validity of congressional reapportionments, we believe the United States Supreme Court's decision in Brown et al. v. Thomson, et al., 51 U.S.L.W. 4883 is controlling. While Karcher, supra, concerned congressional redistricting which is subject to scrutiny under Article I, Section 2 of the United States Constitution, Brown, supra, concerned legislative redistricting which is subject to scrutiny under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The court in Brown, supra, there recognized, as it had in Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533, that "it is a practical impossibility to arrange legislative districts so that each one has an identical number of residents, or citizens, or voters."

More specifically, the United States Supreme Court held that minor deviations from mathematical equality among state legislative districts are insufficient to make out a prima facie case of invidious discrimination under the Fourteenth Amendment so as to require these deviations to be justified by the state.

The court held in Brown, supra, "Our decisions have established, as a general matter, that an apportionment plan with a maximum population deviation under ten percent falls within this category of minor deviations."

Also as you may know, Neb.Rev.Stat. §5-108 (1982 Supp.) provides, specifically with reference to the apportionment question you raise, that when such a city votes to elect by district or ward the governing body "shall establish districts substantially equal in population as determined by the most recent federal census." Therefore, we would be of the opinion that so long as the districts or wards created are substantially equal and do not have population variances in excess of ten percent that any challenge to such apportionment would be unsuccessful.

Finally, you ask our opinion as to whether or not it would be advisable to clarify the current Nebraska statutes with regard to the procedure for accomplishing the mechanics of such a change or to clarify the acceptable population variance. Since you have recently had actual experience with a community attempting to accomplish such a change, we leave to your best judgment as to whether or not this procedure might be clarified by further legislative enactment. With respect to the population variance we suggest that the language currently within Neb.Rev.Stat. §5-108 (1982 Supp.) is sufficient and adequately instructive.

Sincerely,

Opinion No. 139
September 14, 1983

Dear Senator Kahle:

This is in response to your inquiry as a follow-up letter to Attorney General Opinion No. 136 written to you on September 1, 1983, concerning bail and release of persons in custody.

As you indicated in your original letter, you need this information for the preparation of amendatory legislation.

First, you ask if the dollar amount of bond options under Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-901(3) (Reissue 1979) must be the same.

As you state, defendant is given the option under this subsection of putting up, on the one hand, an appearance bond with a deposit of cash not to exceed 10 percent of the amount of the bond or, on the other hand, a bail bond with sureties approved by the judge or a cash deposit of the total sum fixed.

It must be remembered that all of the options in §29-901 that the court considers before releasing a person from custody are made upon the condition which, in the judge's sound discretion, will reasonably assure the appearance of the person for trial; if no single condition gives that assurance, a combination of the conditions may be used. In light of this, we think there is no doubt but that the court may set the face amount of the appearance bond, which only has a 10 percent deposit placed with the court, higher than the bond with sureties or a full cash deposit upon a reasonable determination of the judge that it was necessary to reasonably assure the person's appearance.

You next ask as follows:

> Next, on page 2 of your letter you state that "The court could reject the bonds under subsection (3) and release the defendant under conditions imposed under subsection (4) without violating the Constitution." Would not such an action have to follow a determination by the court that no appearance bond or bail bond, no matter how large, would assure the appearance of the person for trial?

As mentioned earlier, the court must impose the first of the conditions of release which will reasonably assure the appearance of the person for trial, or a combination thereof. If the court reached subsection (4), it would have to determine, as you suggest, under subsection (3), that no appearance bond or bail bond, no matter how large, would reasonably assure the appearance of the person. This determination would have to be based upon some known characteristic of the person to be released which would sufficiently convince the court that the person had no regard for the forfeiture of money. When we say, no matter how large, we do so on the assumption that the court has made a reasonable determination that the person to be released has little or no regard for money and that therefore whether the bond is set at $300,000 or $10,000,000 would make any difference in reasonably assuring that the person would appear.

The same would be true as to the release of a person on the condition that he abstain from the consumption of alcohol except that here, the court would have to determine, that this was the type of person who would be unlikely or unable to appear, no matter what the penalty, were he to consume alcohol.

In going to subsection (4), a court may also consider that there is a limit to how high he may set a bond lest a higher court say it is so high as to be tantamount to a denial of bail. Where this figure is, depends on the circumstances and is impossible to forecast except to say it would be a very high figure except for the very wealthy.

In answer to your last question, a judge would not face the option in subsection (4) unless he had concluded that the options described in subsections (1), (2), and (3) were incapable of reasonably assuring the appearance of the defendant.

Finally, you ask if we are saying on page 3 of our opinion that no surety bond should be accepted unless the surety, whether a licensed insurance company or an individual, owns and describes unencumbered real estate of twice the value of the bond.

The answer is no. The statement on page 3 referred to the giving of surety bonds by individuals on their real estate in the context that those conditions applied whether there was one indictment or more than one indictment. It was not meant to apply to bonds of surety and insurance companies which, under §29-901(3)(b), may be approved "as to such judge shall seem proper."

Respectfully submitted,

Opinion No. 141

Dear Senator Carsten:

We are in receipt of your letter of September 23, 1983, in which you call our attention to the provisions of LB 370 which was passed by the Legislature earlier this year and ask certain questions to our opinion as to how this legislation should be interpreted. It is our understanding that you intend to consider amending this legislation depending upon its interpretation.

Specifcally, you ask whether or not this bill pertaining to conflicts of interest imposes reporting requirements upon only those officials who are directly involved in the contract giving rise to the conflict or whether it applies to all officials where their private businesses are doing business with the entity where that official has taken no part in the contractual process.

The particular facts you call to our attention involve a local official who is a member of the Board of Public Works in his city. There appears to be no question in your mind that where the Board of Public Works does business with the official's hardware store that it would be necessary for him to comply with the provisions of LB 370. Your question, however, concerns a situation where the city through some other department does business with this individual's hardware store and the Board of Public Works has not been involved in any way. In such a situation the question then becomes whether or not this individual must satisfy the reporting requirements of LB 370 or whether that is only necessary when his Board of Public Works and he himself are directly involved.

Legislative Bill 370 in Section 1 provides as is pertinent, "no officer of any city or village may be directly or indirectly interested in any contract to which the city or village, or anyone for its benefit, is a party." With respect to the definition of officer, Section 1 also provides "officer shall mean any elected or appointed official or member of any board or commission of any city or village." Therefore, it appears to us that the Legislature by the inclusion of the word "any" in both of these sections has mandated that any official of a city must comply with the reporting requirements any time he is interested in any contract between the city and his business.

We have examined the legislative history of this bill and while we do not find it particularly instructive on this question, it would be our opinion in any event that the intent of the Legislature would not be relevant in a situation such as this where the language of the statute is clear and unambiguous.

We are therefore of the opinion that LB 370 requires officials such as the one about whom you inquired to comply with the reporting requirements any time his private business enters into a contractual relationship with the city regardless of the amount of his direct involvement as a city official.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 143
October 5, 1983

Dear Senator Schmit:

You have asked our opinion on two questions relating to the authority of the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Commission.

In your first question you ask, "Are bingo licenses issued under Sections 9-141 to 9-143 after the effective date of LB 259 valid for a one year period from the date of issuance or do they expire the following March 31st in accordance with the position of the Department and Commission?" In your correspondence to us you have pointed out that the Department of Revenue and apparently the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Commission have taken the position that bingo licenses issued after the effective date of LB 259 will expire March 31 of the date following issuance.

We have investigated this matter by talking to the chairman of the commission and personnel in the Department of Revenue. As an initial matter, it should be pointed out that the commission has not adopted any formal rules and regulations nor established any expiration date for licenses issued by the commission. At the same time, the information which has been sent out to bingo and pickle card operators and the licenses which have been issued pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §§9-141 through 9-143 (Supp. 1983) have all informed license holders that the licenses will expire March 31 following the date of issuance.

Three reasons are advanced for using this date. First, it has been done this way in the past. Secondly, bingo operators are required under Neb.Rev.Stat. §9-166 (Supp. 1982) to secure a permit from the city, village or county clerk or the city finance department for the area in which the bingo game is to be conducted. These annual permits all expire on March 31 of each year. That section was not amended by LB 259 and has been in place since 1968. It is different and separate from the license issued under the above referenced statutes under the auspices of the commission. Conforming the date of the expiration of the permit required and the license issued by the state was believed to make it easier on licensees and permit holders in terms of having the required licenses and permits at coordinated times. The final reason advanced is administrative convenience. That is, that if all licenses expire at the same time on an annual basis, the administration by the commission and the applications by the licenses would be more easily handled than those which would expire on a random basis during a continuous year.

We have examined all of the provisions of the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Act. Neb.Rev.Stat. §§9-124 to 9-196 (Supp. 1983), and have found no statute which provides an expiration date for licenses. Section 9-143 states in part: "All bingo licenses and licenses to conduct a lottery by sale of pickle cards may be renewed annually...." We are unable to say that this section provides that licenses shall be good for one year from the date of issuance. No such expression is contained within any of the statutory language. It is simply an indication that this is a license which must be renewed on an annual basis. It does not say one year from the date of issuance nor at any particular time during the year. It is therefore clear that the statutory provisions do not provide an expiration date.

In your second question you ask, "Does the Nebraska Department of Revenue or the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Commission have the authority to establish a uniform termination date for all bingo licenses of March 31st or any other date?" Neb.Rev.Stat. §9-169 provides as follows: "The commission shall adopt and promulgate such rules and regulations and prescribe all forms as are necessary to carry out the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Act."

As we have pointed out above, there is no specified expiration date under the statutory enactment. Given that, one could validly argue either that the licenses must be renewed one year from the date of issuance or at some time during the year following the date of issuance. Obviously when you have a new statutory enactment that takes effect at the constitutionally prescribed time and requires the issuance of licenses, administrative inconvenience could result. It is also obvious that under the terms of the statute licenses may be issued at any time during as calendar year although the majority were probably issued either within the 30 days after the effective date of LB 259 or shortly thereafter to ongoing entities conducting lottery activities. Doubtless they are inconvenienced in having to secure a renewed license after less than a full year has expired under their old license. To require them to again renew the license after the expiration of less than one year would exacerbate that inconvenience.

Recognizing those problems, we must look to the authority granted to the commission. As to the first part of your question, clearly the Department of Revenue has no authority to determine what the expiration date will be. On the other hand, it seems just as clear to us that the commission does have such authority by virtue of §9-169. The Nebraska Supreme Court in Board of Regents v. County of Lancaster, 154 Neb. 398, 48 N.W.2d 221 (1951), said: "The courts generally hold such rules to be valid except where they are not germane to the purposes of the act, or where they are unreasonable and arbitrary." The court went on in that case to say that where the Legislature sets reasonable limits and grants an administrative agency discretion to carry into effect the legislative purpose, rules adopted thereunder will be upheld. While we have acknowledged the inconvenience to applicants that may arise above, we do not believe that that rises to the level of arbitrary and capricious action. Should the board adopt such a rule, it would be our opinion that the rule was valid. They, of course, have not.

As a final caveat, we should point out that you have asked these questions with the view toward possible corrective legislation to make bingo licenses effective for one year following the date of issuance regardless of the date of issuance. It is for your guidance with respect to that possible legislation that we respond to your queries.

Sincerely,

PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 146

Dear Senator Carsten:

In your letter of July 26, 1983, you point out that, pursuant to LB 169, adopted by the last session of the Legislature, sales and income tax rates are to be set by the Legislature, rather than by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment. You state that the Revenue Committee of the Legislature, of which you are chairman, will have primary responsibility for implementing this legislation, and ask several questions about its effect.

Your first question is whether the rate setting should be done by the passage of a bill, or whether it can be done by resolution. Article III, Section 13, of our Constitution provides that no law shall be enacted except by bill. The question is whether changes in the rates of sales and income taxes amount to the enactment of a law. We have found no Nebraska cases discussing the subject, and our research has not disclosed any cases from other jurisdictions precisely on point. Since our court has not discussed the limits of the power of the Legislature to act by resolution, we note the definition of "resolution" in Black's Law Dictionary (5th Ed. 1979) as follows:

> A formal expression of the opinion or will of an official body or a public assembly, adopted by vote; as a legislative resolution. Such may be either a simple, joint or concurrent resolution.
> The term is usually employed to denote the adoption of a motion, the subject-matter of which would not properly constitute a statute, such as a mere expression of opinion; an alteration of the rules; a vote of thanks or of censure, etc. Such is not law but merely a form in which a legislative body expresses an opinion. Baker v. City of Milwaukee, 271 Or. 500, 533 P.2d 772, 775.
> The chief distinction between a "resolution" and a "law" is that the former is used whenever the legislative body passing it wishes merely to express an opinion as to some given matter or thing and is only to have a temporary effect on such particular thing, while by a "law" it is intended to permanently direct and control matters applying to persons or things in general.

Because this issue is one which arises in an essentially uncharted area of Nebraska law, we recommend that the Legislature set sales and income tax rates by bill rather than by resolution. It is certainly possible that the court might hold that Article III, Section 13, requires the passage of a bill. This question would probably arise if the Legislature acted by resolution, and a taxpayer attacked the validity of the rates so set. The effect of a successful attack of this sort could be so catastrophic that it would be unwise for the Legislature to take the risk of setting rates by resolution.

Your second question is whether, if the Legislature sets rates by resolution, the Governor has veto power over that resolution. We believe it is clear he does not. Before 1974, Article IV, Section 15, of the Nebraska Constitution provided in part: "Every bill passed by the Legislature, before it becomes a law, and every order, resolution or vote (except on questions of adjournment) shall be presented to the Governor." The section then provided for his approval or veto of the matters so presented to him. In 1974 this section of the Constitution was amended by striking the language underlined above. The effect of this amendment was clearly to eliminate the Governor's veto power over "orders, resolutions, or votes." The absence of veto power by the Governor over resolutions could be a factor inclining our court to require the passage of a bill, since the court might feel that a matter of such importance should be subject to veto. You also ask whether the statutory criteria for rate-setting bind the Legislature in setting the rates by resolution. You particularly ask about the requirements of a 3 to 7 percent overlevy, the "nearly as possible equal" test, and the rate increments requirements of Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2715.01 (Supp. 1982), as amended by LB 169.

This poses some difficult questions. These provisions were originally put in the statute to provide standards by which the State Board of Equalization and Assessment was bound in exercising the legislative function delegated to it of setting tax rates. Without them the legislation would have been unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to an administrative body. When the Legislature itself is exercising this function, standards are no longer required.

The basic question, we suppose, is what remedy would be available to an interested party if the Legislature were to fail to follow the standards set forth in §77-2715.01. If the State Board of Equalization and Assessment had violated the statute an injunction or mandamus action might have lain to enforce compliance. We believe a court would hold it lacks jurisdiction to require the Legislature to perform a legislative function in a particular way. This is particularly true with respect to the overlevy requirement and the "as nearly as possible equal" test. These involve so much discretionary decision-making that a court would be very reluctant to substitute its judgment for that of the Legislature.

With respect to the requirement that the sales tax be set in increments of one-half of one percent, and the income tax rates in increments of one percent, a somewhat different situation is involved. What the rate should be is a discretionary matter, involving many judgmental factors peculiarly legislative in nature. Whether the rates have been set in increments of one-half or one percent is an undisputable fact. It is true that one Legislature cannot ordinarily bind a future Legislature in legislative matters, but here we have a statute requiring one thing, and a resolution which does not follow the statute. In effect, the resolution would be amending the statute. But the statute can be amended only by bill, passed in accordance with constitutional requirements, and subject to veto by the Governor. It is possible that a court might find an irreconcilable conflict between the statute and the resolution, and resolve the conflict in favor of the statute.

You also ask about whether the Legislature could, in its rate-setting resolution, ignore the piggyback provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2734 (Supp. 1982), as amended by LB 619 in 1983. We conclude that it could not. LB 169 requires the Legislature to set the income tax rates for individuals, and §77-2734 sets the rates for corporations at a fixed percentage of the rates set for individuals. To change that percentage would require an amendment of §77-2734, which cannot be done by resolution. The requirement of Article III, Section 13, that no law shall be enacted except by bill would control here.

As you can see from the above discussion, there are some difficult questions which might arise if the rates are set by resolution which would not arise if they are set by bill. We believe it would be wise for the Legislature to take this into account in reaching a decision as to which method to follow.

Very truly yours,

Opinion No. 147

Dear Senator Landis:

In your letter of September 23, 1983, you raise certain questions as to the breadth of the applicability of Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-301.01 (1983 Supp.). You indicate that you are considering drafting clarifying legislation if after considering our opinion you feel such would be necessary or helpful.

We believe that your first question is generally answered by our recent Opinion No. 141 dated September 27, 1983, a copy of which is enclosed for your information. More specifically, however, you inquire whether or not a member of a City Library Commission whose business was about to enter into a contract with the city's Board of Public Works would be required to follow the statutory disclosure procedure or if he would be exempted from the procedure by virtue of the fact that he would not be required to individually take action on the contract or because the contract did not require the action of the "governmental body, department, or agency which he..." served.

We were of the opinion in Opinion No. 141 cited above that this statutory language required compliance whenever an officer was privately interested in any contract directly or indirectly between any entity of the city and himself in his private capacity.

Your specific question appears to concern the breadth of the exclusionary statutory language which reads "the prohibition in this section shall apply only when the officer knows or could reasonably be expected to know that his or her interest will be affected by his or her official action, or by the action of the governmental body, department, or agency which he or she serves." We believe that since all city officers serve the city itself and since the city is clearly a "governmental body" that this language is inclusive enough to require compliance even where the department, agency, or commission on which the individual actually serves is not involved. We base this opinion in part on the Legislature's choice of the words "which he or she serves," as opposed to having chosen "on which he or she serves."

You next inquire as to whether or not in our opinion volunteer fire fighters are "appointed officials" as that term is used in Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-301.01 (1983 Supp.). There appears to be no question but that volunteer firemen are employees for certain purposes such as for workmen's compensation benefits. Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-115 (Reissue 1978). We have examined statutory provisions found in Chapter 35, Article I, dealing with volunteer fire companies. The language there is silent as to their official status. Additionally, we are aware of no decision of the Nebraska Supreme Court on the question of whether or not volunteer fire fighters are officers of the cities they serve. Therefore, with respect to the question of whether or not volunteer firemen are in fact "officers" for these purposes, clarifying legislation would no doubt be most helpful.

Finally, you ask whether or not in our opinion the concept of "merger of offices" would be applicable to volunteer fire fighters. We are not entirely certain that we understand your question, however, it would appear to us that if a volunteer fire fighter were also an officer of the city that the provisions of this section would apply to that individual any time he was privately interested in a contract with the city whether that contract arose out of the volunteer fire fighters function or any other.

Enclosure

Opinion No. 148

Dear Senator Pappas:

You have asked us several questions in regard to LB 391, Eighty-Eighth Legislature, First Session 1983. Your questions center on whether counties are still required to collect special assessments or to foreclose on delinquent special assessments after the adoption of LB 391. You state that you intend to offer corrective amendments if they are required after reviewing our responses to your questions. We will answer your questions in the order asked.

In your first question you ask whether the passage of LB 391 alters our opinion of August 8, 1975, Opinion No. 111, Report of the Attorney General 1975-1976. In that opinion we stated that the county attorney has a duty to institute foreclosure proceedings on property on which real estate taxes have been paid but special assessments are in default, and that the county treasurer was required to publish a list of delinquent special assessments if they had been certified to the county treasurer.

LB 391 amends §§23-601, 33-114, and 77-1707. It also enacts §19-4501 (Supp. 1983) which is a new article applicable to metropolitan, primary, and first class cities. That section provides:

Any city of the metropolitan, primary, or first class shall have > authority to collect the special assessments which it levies and to perform all other necessary functions related thereto including foreclosure. The governing body of any city collecting its own special assessments shall direct that notice that special assessments are due, be mailed or otherwise delivered to the last-known address of the person against whom such special assessments are assessed or to the lending institution or other party responsible for paying such special assessments. Failure to receive such notice shall not relieve the taxpayer from any liability to pay such special assessments and any interest or penalties accrued thereon.

As is obvious, this is a permissive statute. It grants to metropolitan, primary, or first class cities authority to collect special assessments. It does not require it nor does it amend any of the sections we referred to in our 1975 opinion, nor have they been otherwise substantially amended since that time. It is therefore, our opinion that LB 391 does not alter our Opinion 111 of August 8, 1975.

In your second question you ask whether counties are still required to collect special assessments and foreclose delinquent special assessments after the passage of LB 391. We have addressed that question in Opinion No.111, and as we have indicated, since no change exists, those same duties and responsibilities still devolve upon the various county authorities.

In question number three you ask whether the county attorney's duty to institute foreclosure proceedings remains the sames after the passage of LB 391. Once again, our opinion is that LB 391 has not affected that duty except to the extent that cities may act in their own capacity should they choose. Assuming all the requirements of law are met, the county attorney retains the duty which we expressed he had under statutory enactments relating to foreclose of taxes and special assessments as set forth in Opinion No. 111.

In your next question you assume that it is our opinion that LB 391 does alter the conclusions we reached in Opinion No. 111 of August 8, 1975. Since those conclusions have not been altered, we believe it unnecessary to answer this question.

In your final question, you ask whether in view of the statutory provisions and LB 391 it is the duty of the county attorney to institute such foreclosure proceedings when imposed by law, or is action by the county board necessary for the county attorney to institute such proceedings. LB 391 has had no effect on §77-1901 (Reissue 1981) which provides in part: "[T]he county board shall make and enter an order directing the county attorney to foreclose the lien for all taxes then deliquent, . . ." As a matter of pleadings, the county attorney is required to show that the county board has, in fact, acted to order the sale as required under §77-1901. It is therefore a requirement in special assessment collections also in that special assessment collections are to be completed in the same manner as are other real estate tax foreclosure proceedings. We find no statute differentiating in this regard and, therefore, believe action by the county board is required.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 153

Dear Senator Haberman:

You have asked if commodity check-off boards (Wheat, Soybean, Corn, and Grain Sorghum, established pursuant to Chapter 2, Articles 23, 33, 36 and 40 respectively) may expend the check-off funds to pay the expenses of individuals representing private commodity organizations who attend meetings of national organization the commodity boards may be affiliated with. We note that your inquiry is made for the purpose of determining whether any changes should be made in the four Commodity Acts referred to above.

In answering your question we call attention to a previous inquiry concerning the provisions of the Nebraska Corn Resources Act, in which we stated that the legislative history of the Act contained no suggestion that the Legislature intended that the Board be authorized to do anything "beyond that which was specifically provided in the act." (Report of the Attorney General, #155, Dated December 7, 1981).

With regard to the compensation of members of each of the check-off boards the statutes referred to above provide that the voting members of the boards are entitled to their "actual and necessary expenses" while engaged in the performance of official responsibilities as determined by the board. In addition, the Corn Board is entitled to $25.00 per diem.

With regard to persons other than members of the board, the statutes creating each of the boards provide that the duties and responsibility of the boards include authority "to employ personnel and contract for services which are necessary for the proper operation of the (commodity) program."

From our examination of the legislative history of the acts creating the four commodity boards we find no instance where the Legislature gave any consideration to the compensation of any person other than as referred to above.

It is therefore our opinion that the payment of expenses of one attending meetings of national organizations which the commodity board are affiliated with would not be proper unless the person was a member or employee of the boards, while in the performance of official responsibilities as determined by the boards, or a person acting pursuant to the provisions of a contract for services which are necessary for the proper operation of the various commodity programs as determined by the boards.

Dear Senator Beutler:

This letter is in response to your request for an opinion whether it is necessary for the legislature to specifically grant statutory authority to an agency to issue duplicate permits, certificates, etc. or whether such authority is statutorily implied through the grant of authority to issue a permit or certificate. Specifically you asked whether the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, in light of the 1982 repeal of Neb.Rev.Stat. §39-1108, has the statutory authority to issue duplicate park entry permits or whether corrective legislation is necessary.

There is no general statute or case law which authorizes permitting authorities to issue duplicate permits. However, Nebraska statutes do authorize agencies to issue specific duplicate licenses and permits. For example, in the event of the loss, mutilation, or change of address, Neb.Rev.Stat. §60-415 (1982 Cum. Supp.) provides for the issuance or replacement of a motor vehicle operator's license for a fee of two dollars. Similarly, Neb.Rev.Stat. §37-2401 (Cum. Supp. 1982) authorizes the Game and Parks Commission to issue duplicate hunting, fishing or fur harvesting permits for a fee of one dollar and fifty cents if the original permit was lost. Section 37-202.01, effective January 1, 1984, similarly provides for the issuance of duplicate lifetime game and fish permits for a fee of one dollar and fifty cents, subject to the purchase of annual stamps.

The Legislature in enacting LB 81 in 1977, Neb.Rev.Stat. §37-1106

(1977) (revised in 1978 by LB 742 §3) provided that duplicate park entry permits could be issued for the fee of one dollar. In 1980, it specifically repealed this provision. During the 1983 session, the Legislature enacted its latest version of the duplicate park permit statute, again authorizing issuance of duplicate permits, effective January 1, 1984, at half the price of the annual permit. It is our opinion that the Legislature's repeal of this specific authorization repealed the Commission's authority to issue such duplicate permits. "Where a statue is revised and some parts are omitted, despite a legislative intention to cover the whole subject,...such omitted parts may not be revived by construction." 82 C.J.S., Statutes §306.

It is therefore our conclusion that the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission does not now have the authority to issue a duplicate park entry permit and will not have such authority until LB 199, 88th Legislature, First Session (1983) becomes operative on January 1, 1984.

Dear Senator Pirsch:

This is in response to your inquiry in which you ask whether the game of Keno would fit under the present definitions of bingo or lottery in the Nebraska statutes.

You state that you need this information for the possible drafting of legislation.

Section 9-127 (Supp. 1983), effective August 26, 1983 defines bingo as follows:

> (1) The winning chances are determined by a random selection of a subset of numbers or designators or objects numbered, lettered, or otherwise designated by some medium among a total set of numbers or designators or objects numbered, lettered, or otherwise designated by some medium; and
> (2) The card or cards held by the player by which a winner or winners are ascertained is sold, rented, or used only at the time and place of the gambling activity.

You have described the game of Keno as follows:

Basically, the game starts with a blank card on which the player writes done [sic] five numbers within a certain group of numbers, i.e. 1-50. The card is then turned in and the operator draws numbers at random, consecutively. If the player's numbers are drawn within a certain amount of numbers, he wins. The fewer numbers drawn for the win, the more money is won. The times necessary to draw determine the amount won.

As in the definition in §9-127 above, the winning chances in the game you describe are determined by a random selection of a subset of numbers among a total set of numbers and the card held by the player is used only at the time and place of the gambling activity.

In view of the broad definition in the above section, it is our opinion that Keno as described would come therein and would therefore be subject to the provisions of the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Act, of which the above section is a part.

Lottery is defined by §28-1101 (6) (Supp. 1983) as follows:

> Lottery shall mean a gambling scheme in which (a) the players pay or agree to pay something of value for chances, represented and differentiated by numbers or by combinations of numbers or by some other medium, one or more of which chances are to be designated the winning ones, (b) the winning chances are to be determined by a drawing or by some other method based on an element of chance, and (c) the holders of the winning chances are to receive something of value.

In Contact, Inc. v. State, 212 Neb. 584, 324 N.W. 2d 804 (1982) the Supreme Court of Nebraska, interpreting identical language to that quoted above contained in 28-1101 (6) held that the necessary elements of a lottery in said definition were chance, prize, and consideration.

Therefore, it seems clear, that the game of Keno, as well as bingo, would fall within the definition of a lottery when the players agree to pay something of value for the chance to play.

While you did not inquire, we should further point out that under§28-1101 (4) a person engages in gambling if he conducts or participates in any bingo not authorized or conducted pursuant to the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Act.

Since Keno, as defined herein, would come within the definition of either bingo or lottery, it cannot be legally played when a prize is awarded and consideration is charged to a player, except pursuant to the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Act.

Respectfully Submitted,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Re: Authority for City of Omaha and Douglas County to Make the County Solely Responsible for the Health Department in Douglas County

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You indicate that the City of Omaha and Douglas County have agreed that the present county-city health department will become a county health department as of July 1, 1984. That is,they have agreed that after that date the health department will be under the control of the county and the city will not contribute to the funding of such department or have a department of its own. You ask if there are any statutory provisions which would need to be changed by legislation in order for this change to occur. There are not, as discussed below.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1627 (Reissue 1981) authorizes a county to establish a county health department. Under Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1635 (Reissue 1981), when the county board of any county thus creates a health department, every municipal health agency or department, except city hospitals, may be abolished, and said county health department may be given full control over all health matters in the county.

Under Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1628 (Reissue 1981) a county health department may cooperate with any city which has an established department of health in the establishment and maintenance of a city-county health department. The duration and nature of such an agreement shall be evidenced by resolutions of the city council of the city and county board participating. Such agreement shall be submitted to and approved by the Department of Health. This option was chosen by Douglas County and the City of Omaha back in 1949, effective January 1, 1950.

Now that the parties to that agreement want to exercise the option of a county health department with full control in the county and no city health department, we see no impediment in the above statutes. Thus no legislative changes are needed for the change from a city-county to a county health department to occur in this case.

Opinion No. 158

Dear Senator Wesely:

You have asked our opinion as to whether current Nebraska law provides for a guarantee of the employee account value for members of the State Employees Retirement System. We conclude that it does not.

You refer to our letter of July 25, 1983, to the State Investment Officer, in which we concluded that Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-1310 (Reissue 1981) did not guarantee that the employee accounts would never decrease. You express concern, however, that the amendments to §84-1310 by LB 313 in the last session of the Legislature might have changed that answer.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-1310 (Supp. 1983) now provides:

> A member's share of the fund arising from the salary deductions made in accordance with the provisions of section 84-1308 shall be known as his or her employee account. Each year commencing January 1, 1975, regular interest shall be credited to the employee account. As of January 1 of each year, a member's employee account shall be equal to one hundred per cent of his or her employee account as of the next preceding January 1, increased by any regular interest earned and any amounts deducted from the member's salary since the next preceding January 1 in accordance with the provisions of section 84-1308.

As you point out, the statute, in stating that the member's employee account shall be equal to one hundred percent of his or her employee account as of the preceding January, increased by interest earned and contributions, seems to contemplate that it shall not diminish. It appears that the Legislature may have contemplated that, and not taken into account the possibility that the account would decrease in value, but we find nothing in the act which would remedy the situation, should a loss occur.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-1308 (Reissue 1981) provides that the funds deducted from employee salaries shall be paid to the State Investment Officer. He is charged with the responsibility of investing them. To date, at least, he has executed this responsibility by turning them over to a primary carrier. However, whether he entrusts the funds to a primary carrier, or invests them in some other fashion, there is always the possibility of a loss. The question is whether §84-1310 provides that the state will make up any such loss by appropriation from the General Fund.

An examination of the entire act furnishes no basis for concluding that the Legislature had any such intention. We would certainly not infer such an important provision in the absence of unequivocal statutory language. We have examined the committee hearing and the floor debate on LB 313, and find absolutely nothing which indicates such an intention.

The Director of the Retirement Systems testified at the committee hearing, and said that the purpose of the bill was to make technical corrections to clarify current law. Senator Fowler, discussing the bill on the floor, said that all the bill did was to bring the statute into conformity with policy changes adopted two years previously, and that it had no fiscal impact. This would hardly be consistent with a change so fundamental as having the Legislature undertake to appropriate funds to make up any losses suffered by the investment of the employee accounts by the State Investment Officer, or by the insolvency of the primary carrier.

We therefore conclude that the Legislature, in using the language you refer to in §84-1310, simply did not take into account the possibility of a loss incurred by the employee accounts. It did not intend to guarantee them.

Opinion No. 159

Dear Senator Pappas:

In your letter of November 18, 1983, you ask whether new legislation, or amendatory legislation, is needed to correct what you apparently perceive as a lack of uniformity of assessment between urban and agricultural real property. We cannot answer your question as to the need for legislation, but can only give you a general background as to equalization of assessments of property.

Article VIII, Section 1, of the Nebraska Constitution requires that taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all tangible property. This means that, theoretically, at least, the assessment of all real estate must be uniform, regardless of class. In County of Gage v. State Board of Equalization & Assessment, 185 Neb.

749, 178 N.W. 2d 759 (1970), the court said:

> Many witnesses seem to assume that real property taxes may be equalized if property is classified, and the same values applied to the same classification of property in all counties. The Constitution itself flatly contradicts such a conclusion. Art. VIII, §1, Constitution of Nebraska.

Not only is all real property required to be assessed uniformly, but it is required to be assessed uniformly with taxable personal property. In Grainger Brothers Co. v. Board of Equalization, 180 Neb. 571, 144 N.W.2d 161 (1966), the court said:

> Under the Constitution of Nebraska, Article VIII, section 1, business inventories and real estate are in the same class for taxation purposes, and properties within the same class are required to be valued and assessed uniformly and proportionately in order that equalization obtain.

While uniformity of assessment is constitutionally required, uniformity in the method of determining actual value is not. In Banner County v. State Board of Equalization & Assessment, 206 Neb. 715, 295 N.W.2d 682 (1980), we find:

> The statute further authorizes the Tax Commissioner to use any other relevant matter in considering intercounty equalization. The use of the Land Valuation Manual certainly comes within the definition of "other relevant matter." The Tax Commissioner is not limited to the use of one method of valuing property. "It is possible, and probably necessary, to use different methods for some of the counties, but the record must show the correlation between the various methods used in the attempt to achieve a reasonable degree of uniformity." County of Sioux, supra at 747, 178 N.W.2d at 758. The question of correlation is dealt with in Box Butte County v. State Board of Equalization and Assessment, supra.

You ask whether the Tax Commissioner needs "to have the Board equalize assessments fairly in order to equalize taxation among the class." While the Tax Commissioner is a member of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, that board is clearly not subject to his control. Whether it has equalized fairly is a factual question, subject to review by the Supreme Court, not by the Tax Commissioner.

You also ask whether the state board, "through its nonaction" is allowing improper taxation. This is purely a factual question, subject to dispute by the contending factions, and is not something that we can answer.

You also ask whether persons, counties, or municipalities which have appealed to the state board have standing to appeal the equalization that has not been achieved throughout the county. We assume you are not talking about any current appeals, but as to rights in the future.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-510 (Reissue 1981) gives any person, county, or municipality affected by a final decision of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment authority to appeal to the Supreme Court. Obviously, such persons or entities have authority to appear before the State Board of Equalization and Assessment and present evidence to support their contentions. However, we point out that the function of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment is primarily to achieve intercounty equalization, not intracounty equalization. It can, and does, however, sometimes apply different rates of increase or decrease to various classes of taxable property in a particular county. Its goal in this, however, is to achieve intercounty rather than intracounty, equalization.

Dear Senator DeCamp:

This is in response to your inquiry concerning LB 259 of the 1982 session which created the Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Commission. You indicate you are considering remedial legislation. You ask:

1. Without changing the Nebraska Statutes, can a license be granted to a group that currently has a valid bingo license even though they have not been in existence for five years, but were granted a license previously by the State Treasurer's Office?
2. In Article III, Section 24 of the Nebraska State Constitution, is a nonprofit association the same thing as a nonprofit organization and if so, can the parent organization qualify for the group if it has been in existence for five years?

The answer to the first question is no. Section 9-141(f)(Supp. 1983) requires that an organization listed as being qualified to obtain a bingo license must have been in existence for five years immediately preceding its application for a license. This requirement of five years in existence has been in the statutes since 1978 and was not newly enacted in 1982 by LB 529. See, §9-141(f) (Supp. 1982).

Therefore, any license granted previously by the State Treasurer's Office to a group not in existence for five years was not a valid license as assumed in your question. There is no legal doctrine to support a suggestion that an unauthorized issuance of a license in one year requires its reissuance. Even if the previous license had been valid, §9-141(4) (Supp. 1983) provides that each valid bingo license issued prior to August 26, 1983, shall terminate 30 days after August 26, 1983.

In answer to your second question, it does not appear to us that there is any legal distinction between the words "association" and "organization." The parent organization may qualify in some cases but would be limited, the same as any single licensee.

The constitution requires that bingo games be "conducted by nonprofit associations which have been in existence for a period of five years immediately preceding the application for license."

Assuming a parent organization which has been in existence for five years were granted a license, it would have to "conduct" the bingo games since it would be the licensee and its subchapters would not meet the five year requirement. There are other provisions of the statutes which it would have to comply with, the same as any single licensee. For example, §9-144 provides in part: "No licensed organization may conduct a bingo occasion outside of the county in which the licensed organization has its principle office." Under the foregoing section, a licensee is restricted to conducting bingo in one county only.

There are a number of other requirements contained in Article I, Section 9 (Supp. 1983) which bingo licensees are required to comply with. In addition, the commission is required to adopt and promulgate rules and regulations to carry out the act.

We cannot flatly say that all parent organizations in existence more than five years could not qualify and comply as a licensee under the act, but it would require careful attention to a number of statutes and regulations to lawfully use such license. Each such application would have to be examined as to its own individual make up to determine if it were qualified under the act.

You also state in your letter that you are troubled by senior citizens groups that can no longer play bingo if any members who play are under 62 years of age.

Section 9-141 (g) (Supp. 1983) exempts certain senior citizens groups from meeting the requirements that other nonprofit organizations must met to obtain a license; this subsection provides:

> None of the provisions of this section shall prohibit senior citizens groups from organizing and conducting bingo pursuant to the Nebraska Bingo and Pickle Card Regulatory Act when bingo is played only by members of the senior citizens groups conducting the bingo. For purposes of this section, senior citizens group shall mean any organization whose membership consists entirely of persons who are at least sixty-two years old.

The last sentence of the foregoing subsection was added by the 1983

Legislature.

Opinion No. 163

Dear Senator Wesely:

This is in reply to your inquiry concerning the return of cash bail deposited to assure the appearance of the defendant in a criminal case. You state this opinion is needed for a legislative purpose to determine if legislation is needed.

You specifically ask if the court may return all of the cash bond to a defendant, instead of retaining ten percent for costs as directed by Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-901 (3) (Reissue 1979), particularly in the case where the charges are dismissed and the person is no longer required to appear.

Enclosed is a copy of Opinion No. 142 issued November 12, 1975, by this office concerning a similar question which we have reviewed and find to still be valid. As concluded in that opinion, the wording of the statute that "ten percent to be retained by the clerk as appearance bond costs" compels the conclusion that this amount is to be kept irrespective of the later processing of the case.

This bill was a result of an extensive study by the Legislative Council on bail bonds and the provision in question here was adopted verbatim from the Illinois law. The practice in Illinois was to retain the ten percent and return the ninety percent of the cash bond when the condition was fulfilled or when the defendant was acquitted after trial or the case dismissed.

A class action was commenced on behalf of all persons who had put up cash bonds contending that keeping the ten percent for bond costs after a dismissal or acquittal after trial was unconstitutional. However, the Supreme Court of Illinois upheld the constitutionality of the act in all respects. It concluded that those who elected to use the ten percent bond provision constituted a separate class and that all persons within that class were treated equally. The argument that the retention of the bond costs discriminated against the poor because rich persons could use some other type of bail, which did not contain such provision, was also dismissed by the court. The court stated that there was no evidence to support the contention that this discriminated against the poor; that it could be as logically argued that the one percent of the total bond retained for costs was a reasonable fee that the relatively affluent might rather pay than tie up large amounts of cash or property for an indefinite period. The court concluded that in any case it was clear that the choice between the different kinds of bail was not necessarily dictated by whether the defendant was wealthy or poor.

As to the contention that a flat one percent cost bond was arbitrary since one percent on a large amount would provide much greater costs than on a smaller amount, the court dismissed by listing a number of different forms of taxation based upon a flat percentage which have been held not to be discriminatory.

The court concluded by saying that the classification bears a reasonable relationship to the objects sought to be obtained which were, as evidenced by the record and legislative studies, to eventually eliminate the power of bail bondsmen over criminal defendants and get this matter back in the hands of the court. It pointed out that the ten percent bail was customarily the percentage the criminal defendant had to pay a bail bondsman as commission which was never returned to the defendant. Schilb v. Kuebel, (S.Ct. Ill.), 264 N.E.2d 377, 46 Ill.2d 538.

A study of the two largest counties in Nebraska indicates that the practice is uniform, that upon dismissal of a case before appearance that ninety percent of the original ten percent is refunded to the defendant and the other ten percent is retained as bail bond costs.

It is therefore our opinion that in all cases where a defendant puts up a ten percent cash bond under the provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-901 (3) (Reissue 1979) that ten percent thereof is to be retained as bail bond costs.

You also ask about Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-901.04 (Reissue 1979). This section authorizes a judge who shall order release of a defendant on any condition specified in §29-901 to later amend his order to impose additional or different conditions of release. You ask, in the case where the court has authorized, and defendant has deposited, the ten percent cash bond under §29-901 (3) (a), if this may be returned in full on amended order of release.

We think this question has been answered by the enclosed opinion which contains the computation of the amount to be returned and the amount to be retained upon reduction of the bond by the court.

Opinion No. 165

Dear Senator Pirsch:

This is in response to your inquiry concerning the administration of Community Development Block Grant Funds by the State Department of Economic Development.

You state that you need this information for your legislative duties.

Specifically, you ask: Is the Department of Economic Development legally required to draft rules and regulations to administer the federal funds under the above program? Answer, no.

As you state, the federal regulation concerning the administration by the state of CDBG non-entitlement funds are contained in 24 C.F.R. §570.

These federal regulations require, among other things, record keeping by the state; §570.497; performance reports sufficient to provide an adequate basis for the determinations required to be made by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development; §570.498; certification by the state that the grant "will be conducted and administered in conformity with Public Law 88-352 and Public Law 90-284," and that the grantee will comply with the other provisions of the Act and other applicable laws.

In the comments explaining said regulations it is pointed out that numerous persons requested greater specification of the content and form of the state's annual report to the Secretary beyond the general requirement in the regulations. However, the department determined that the necessity of further prescription of the contents of the annual performance reports had not been established.

We find nothing in said regulations requiring the recipient state to promulgate formal rules and regulations.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-1228 (Reissue 1981) provides in part:

> The Department of Economic Development shall have the following powers:
> . . .
> . . .
> (3) To adopt, amend, and repeal rules, regulations, and bylaws governing its procedures and activities;
> . . .
> (5) To submit and adopt all necessary plans, enter into contracts, and accept gifts, grants, and federal funds; and . . .

While the department has the authority to adopt rules and regulations, we find nothing requiring them to do so to administer the block grant funds here in question.

RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions introduced during the Eighty-Seventh Legislature, First Session and still under consideration.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 37.

Introduced by Landis, 46th District; Kilgarin, 7th District; Fowler, 27th District; Wesely, 26th District; DeCamp, 40th District.

WHEREAS, President Ronald Reagan on Saturday, February 26, 1983 announced that he is planning to ask the U.S. Congress to enact federal legislation to provide for the immediate decontrol of the natural gas industry;

WHEREAS, Nebraska is a natural gas importing state and would stand to be harmed by this action;

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol by the federal government of natural gas would add next year about 24” per bushel to the cost of production for corn and about 19” per bushel for the cost of production for wheat according to the U.S. Congressional Research Service;

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol of natural gas would cost all Nebraska natural gas consumers over $1.5 billion in higher gas prices than we are expected to pay during the next five years - over $300 million more per year than would probably occur under the current federal policy;

WHEREAS, over 75 percent of Nebraska's current supply of natural gas is contracted for "old gas" (i.e., discovered and developed prior to 1977) which is priced at about $1.00 per 1000 cubic feet;

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol of natural gas would allow old gas prices to rise to the average wellhead price of nearly $3.00 per 1000 cubic feet — immediate decontrol could mean a doubling to tripling in the wellhead price of gas entering Nebraska;

WHEREAS, the current federal policy of particial decontrol provided for in the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 has provided gas producers significantly higher prices and greater incentives to develop new gas supplies;

WHEREAS, additional decontrol and the resulting higher prices would not provide any additional incentive for gas reserve development due to the current U.S. glut of gas supplies;

WHEREAS, the natural gas industry is a monopolistic industry and if fully deregulated would not function as a free market were the market forces of supply and demand would result in the most reasonable prices for consumers;

WHEREAS, the current problem with "take or pay contracts" often cited as a major reason for immediate decontrol can be resolved by the U.S. Congress without immediate decontrol and through alterations in the current Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NEBRASKA LEGISLATURE, 88TH LEGISLATIVE SESSION:

1. That this Legislature finds the immediate decontrol of natural gas as proposed by President Reagan would unduely cause natural gas prices to rise without the benefits of enhanced supplies or the development of a free market;
2. That this Legislature is opposed to the Congression enactment of the immediate decontrol of natural gas as proposed by the Reagan Administration; and
3. That the Clerk of the Legislature send copies of this resolution to President of the United States, the Nebraska Congressional Delegation, and the Speaker of the United State House of Representatives, and the President of the United States Senate

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 38.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

WHEREAS, the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, through the issuance of tax-exempt single family mortgage revenue bonds, has made it possible for nearly six thousand low- and moderate-income families in Nebraska to realize the American dream of home ownership and for over five hundred low- and moderate-income families in Nebraska to improve and make energy efficient their existing single family homes; and

WHEREAS, realization of home ownership and home and energy conservation improvements would otherwise have been denied those families because of their inability to meet the high down payment requirements and high monthly mortgage payments of conventional financing; and

WHEREAS, the housing industry in Nebraska, beleaguered by high interest rates and the high cost of housing, fueled by runaway inflation, has been materially benefited by the additional financing provided by the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund; and

WHEREAS, the 96th Congress enacted the Mortgage Subsidy Bond

Tax Act of 1980, which was signed into law on December 5, 1980, as Public Law 96-499, and which provides that no such tax-exempt single family mortgage revenue bonds may be issued after December 31, 1983; and

WHEREAS, such provision of the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 nullifies the action of the Nebraska Legislature in creating the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund with respect to the financing of the ownership and improvement of single family homes through the issuance of tax-exempt obligations.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

(1) That the 98th Congress be urged to take prompt action in amending the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 to extend the sunset date of December 31, 1983 to permit the issuance of tax-exempt single family mortgage revenue bonds subsequent to December 31, 1983.

(2) That each member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation be urged to support such amendment in order that the fine record of the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund may be continued.

(3) That the Clerk of the Legislature forward a copy of this resolution to the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, the President of the U.S. Senate and each member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 62.

Introduced by Jacobson, 33rd District.

WHEREAS, President Ronald Reagan on Saturday, February 26, 1983 announced that he is planning to ask the U.S. Congress to enact federal legislation to provide for the immediate decontrol of the natural gas industry;

WHEREAS, Nebraska is a natural gas importing state and would stand to be harmed by this action;

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol by the federal government of natural gas would add next year about 24” per bushel to the cost of production for corn and about 19” per bushel for the cost of production for wheat according to the U.S. Congressional Research Service;

WHEREAS, immediate decontrol of natural gas would cost all Nebraska natural gas consumers over $1.5 Billion in higher gas prices than we are expected to pay during the next five years - over $300 million more per year than would probably occur under the current federal policy;

WHEREAS, the current problem with “take or pay contracts” often cited as a major reason for immediate decontrol can be resolved by the U.S. Congress without immediate decontrol and through alterations in the current Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NEBRASKA LEGISLATURE, 88TH LEGISLATIVE SESSION:

1. That this Legislature finds the immediate decontrol of natural gas as proposed by President Reagan would unduly cause natural gas prices to rise without the benefits of enhanced supplies or the development of a free market;
2. That this Legislature is opposed to the Congressional enactment of the immediate decontrol of natural gas as proposed by the Reagan administration;
3. That the regulation of old gas should remain under the NGPA, but that the deregulation of new gas is essential and should take place on a gradual basis as scheduled;
4. That there should be a reduction in take-or-pay requirements that call for a pipeline company to pay for a specific portion of gas from a well whether or not that gas is actually used, and that pipelines are allowed to blend more of their older, less expensive supplies with the new higher cost gas;
5. That gas contracted for after enactment of NGPA modifications should be deregulated and classified as "new new" gas;
6. That a price cap, based on an annual national average price paid for "new new" gas, should be placed on all gas currently controlled under the NGPA and which is scheduled for decontrol by the Act;
7. That there should be provided a one-time "market-out" for any gas purchased which is presently decontrolled or subject to special pricing, and that this one-time termination option by either the pipeline or the producer would allow for the renegotiation of the price by the pipeline or the sale of this high priced gas by the product to another purchaser; and
8. That the Clerk of the Legislature send copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Nebraska Congressional Delegation, and the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the President of the United States Senate.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 70.

Introduced by Newell, 13th District; Pappas, 42nd District; Marsh, 29th District; Eret, 32nd District; Kahle, 37th District.

WHEREAS, the third phase tax cut of the Economic Recovery Act of 1981 is scheduled to take effect on July 1, 1983; and

WHEREAS, the Nebraska tax structure is tied directly to the Federal tax liability and thus is affected by the proposed tax cuts; and

WHEREAS, the federal loss of revenue due to the tax cut is projected for fiscal year 1983, 1984, and 1985, at $7.2 billion, $30.2 billion, and $32.9 billion respectively, as calculated by the Congressional Budget Office; and

WHEREAS, the budget deficit, when this third phase tax cut occurs and current federal policy is left unchanged, is projected by the Congressional Budget Office for fiscal years 1983, 1984, and 1985, at $194.6 billion, $200.9 billion, and $210.5 billion respectively, or if one uses the President's more optimistic deficit figures of $208 billion, $189 billion, and $194 billion in those respective years; and

WHEREAS, the interest on the federal deficit as calculated by the Congressional Budget Office for fiscal years 1983, 1984, and 1985, at $87.3 billion, $96 billion, and $106.9 billion, respectively, or as projected by President Reagan's staff at $87.3 billion, $96 billion, and $105 billion in those respective years; and

WHEREAS, the most recent estimate by the Nebraska Department of Revenue as to the effect of federal tax cuts on Nebraska was in 1982 and was then projected to decrease state revenue by approximately $60 million; and

WHEREAS, there is a need to balance the federal budget and the Nebraska Constitution requires a balanced budget; and

WHEREAS, the proposed tax cuts are financed through deficit spending and force future generations to pay for these cuts for years to come; and

WHEREAS, the tax cuts will primarily go to those individuals and corporations in the higher income tax brackets; and

WHEREAS, the premise of supply-side economics has been unsupported by actual experience.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That this Legislature go on record urging our Representatives in Washington to delay the implementation of the third phase tax cuts as authorized by the Economic Recovery Act of 1981 and scheduled for July 1, 1983.
2. That this Legislature go on record urging our Representatives in Washington to renew efforts to balance the federal budget and/or decrease the rate of increase of the federal budget deficit.
3. That this Legislature go on record urging our Representatives in Washington to cut back on defense spending and freeze domestic spending so that we can move toward a more balanced budget.
4. That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the President of the United States and Nebraska's Congressional Delegation.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District; Cullan, 49th District.

WHEREAS, 13,900 citizens of the State of Nebraska are now receiving railroad retirement benefits which they expect to receive upon retirement; and

WHEREAS, 12,600 railroad employees in Nebraska are now working with the expectation of reasonable protection of their retirement benefits; and

WHEREAS, any reduction in the amount of benefits received by beneficiaries under the railroad retirement system would have a drastic affect on the ability of these beneficiaries to meet normal living expenses; and

WHEREAS, projections of the financial condition of the railroad retirement system show that unless corrective action is taken, monthly annuities will have to be reduced significantly beginning with the annuity checks to be sent out October 1, 1983, with additional reductions required in the future; and

WHEREAS, a bill, H.R. 1646, the Railroad Retirement Solvency Act of 1983, was introduced in the United States House of Representatives on February 24, 1983, by Mr. Florio; and

WHEREAS, H.R. 1646 would resolve the short-term and long-term financial problems of the railroad retirement system, through tax increases on railroad employers and employees and adjustments of benefits to current and future beneficiaries, thereby preserving and protecting the rights and expectations of those currently receiving and those who would receive such benefits in the future.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature urges the Members of Congress representing the State of Nebraska to actively support and vote favorably on H.R. 1646, the Railroad Retirement Act of 1983.
2. That the Clerk of the Legislature send copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Nebraska Congressional delegation, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the President of the United States Senate.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 87.

Introduced by Haberman, 44th District.

WHEREAS, the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 as amended by the Cargo Preference Act of 1954 requires that 50% of government-sponsored commodity shipments (PL480 cargoes) move in U.S. vessels; and

WHEREAS, such requirement has cost $337 million since fiscal year

WHEREAS, had those shipments moved on the most competitive and cost efficient vessels available, the savings could have financed approximately 62 million bushels of additional wheat exports, an amount equal to 60% of Nebraska's annual wheat crop; and

WHEREAS, the increased cost of subsidizing the maritime industry came out of the pockets of Nebraska farmers and the state's economy as a result of reduced foreign demand, lower commodity prices and negative economic spinoffs to the state; and

WHEREAS, maritime subsidies amounted to $21,853 per maritime employee in 1981 and were more damaging to the U.S. agricultural economy than they were beneficial to other sectors; and

WHEREAS, the required use of U.S. vessels increases the freight cost of exporting U.S. agricultural commodities by as much as $2.12 per bushel over world freight rates, making U.S. commodities less competitive in world markets.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature of Nebraska opposes cargo preference laws that require 50% of all "concessional" export credit sales be carried on U.S. ships.
2. That the Legislature of Nebraska is concerned with the effectiveness of present governmental policies and programs relating to cargo preference.
3. That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Nebraska Congressional Delegation.

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Interior in 1978 designated a 50-mile reach of the Platte River in central Nebraska as a "critical habitat area" for the endangered whooping crane; and

WHEREAS, this action followed a rejection by Nebraska and federal entities of proposed national wildlife refuge designation for the same area; and

WHEREAS, the critical habitat designation was made on the basis that the Platte River was crucial to the future survival of the whooping crane; and

WHEREAS, the designation of the Platte River as a critical habitat area for the whooping crane threatened any future water resources development or beneficial use of the Platte River and its water for agriculture and other human necessities; and

WHEREAS, the critical habitat area is by definition an area which if lost would appreciably decrease the likelihood of the survival and recovery of an endangered species (Federal Register rulemaking notice, May 15, 1978, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 4310-55); and

WHEREAS, no scientific evidence has been put forward to establish that the Platte River and maintenance of its environment as it is today is necessary for the survival of the whooping crane, and evidence does exist to the contrary; and

WHEREAS, the endangered whooping crane that has a small known population is a close relative of the highly abundant Sand Hill crane; and

WHEREAS, the earliest known records of cranes include a fossil find of the Sand Hill crane in northeast Nebraska that is known to have lived 9 million years ago; and

WHEREAS, the earliest records of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service on the migration patterns of the whooping crane indicate that it existed and migrated across a vast breadth of the United States from Illinois to the west coast; and

WHEREAS, whooping crane fossils have been found in the Pleistocene formation which dates from 10,000 to 2 million years ago, in the States of California, Idaho, Michigan, Virginia, Florida, and Arizona; and

WHEREAS, whooping crane fossils in a 1977 Kansas find dated back 25,000 to 30,000 years ago; and

WHEREAS, the last ice age across Nebraska and the Plains States, was the Wisconsinan period from about 70,000 to 100,000 years ago, and the present breeding areas of the whooping crane were under the Continental ice sheet of that period; and

WHEREAS, the geologic records indicate the adaptability of the whooping crane to climatic changes for migration and breeding purposes, and as such a single area such as the Platte River could not and should not be considered crucial or vital to the survival of the species; and

WHEREAS, the Platte River as it is today is a very young river, and it and the Great Bend area of the Platte did not exist before 25,000 years ago; and

WHEREAS, in the last 50 years (1933 through 1982) there have been only seven confirmed sightings of whooping cranes anywhere in the designated critical habitat reach of the Platte River, and only five of those seven sightings were actually on the Platte River; and

WHEREAS, one of those seven sightings involved five whooping cranes that were physically hazed off a lagoon infected with fowl cholera 13 miles from the Platte River, to the Platte River; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service report authored by Curt Johnson and Stan Temple states "We have no evidence that whooping cranes converge on the Platte River during both migrations...," and further, "that the Platte River between Gothenburg and 10 miles east of Grand Island may have had many sightings in years past, but have been altered to the extent that they are either marginal or unsuitable for roosting;" and

WHEREAS, proposed designations by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in August, 1978, of critical habitat areas for the whooping crane included man-made dams and reservoirs, among them: Kirwin Reservoir in Kansas, Medicine Lake in Montana, Oahe Dam in South Dakota and Oahe Reservoir in South Dakota and North Dakota, and Garrison Dam and Lake Sakakawea in North Dakota; and

WHEREAS, the Fish and Wildlife Service proposal indicates that man-made reservoirs in irrigation and other multiple purpose water projects can and do provide desirable habitat for the whooping crane; and

WHEREAS, conclusive evidence should either be established for the need of the Platte River as crucial to the survival and preservation of the whooping crane, or critical habitat designation of the Platte River should be removed;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the U.S. Department of Interior is urged to reevaluate the reasons for designation of a portion of the Platte River in Nebraska as a critical habitat area for the whooping crane; and
2. That the Interior Department is urged to evaluate the evidence presented in this resolution, and any and all other scientific evidence relative to the designation and maintenance of an area of the Platte River in Nebraska for critical habitat for the whooping crane; and
3. That if there is conclusive evidence to establish scientifically the absolute need for critical habitat designation of the Platte River to ensure the survivability of the whooping crane, such evidence and conclusions should be put forward for public information, understanding, and scrutiny; and
4. That if there is no conclusive evidence to prove the necessity of a critical habitat area designation in the Platte River for the future survivability of the whooping crane, the Department of Interior is urged to remove such designation.

COMMUNICATION FROM SPECIAL ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL

Re: Commonwealth Savings Co. Matters 13136

Dear Senator Harris:

On November 9, 1983 you directed two inquiries to Mr. Paul Douglas, Attorney General of Nebraska, concerning matters related to Commonwealth Savings Co. of Lincoln, and potential legislation to assist its depositors. Your correspondence has been referred to me, in my capacity as Special Assistant Attorney General, for response. In accordance with guidelines established by Mr. Douglas and myself in connection with the discharge of my duties, I must inform you that the opinions expressed in this correspondence are exclusively mine. This correspondence does not, in any manner, reflect the opinion of Mr. Paul Douglas, Attorney General, or any of his assistants.

Inquiries presented.

The two questions which you have posed are:

1. May the State of Nebraska, by legislative action, appropriate State funds to the Nebraska Depository Insurance Guaranty Corporation for the benefit of depositors of Commonwealth Savings Co., to enable the NDIGC to pay claims of Commonwealth Savings Co. depositors in amounts which do not exceed $30,000.00 per account?
2. Does the Nebraska Constitution prohibit the Legislature from approving miscellaneous claims presented against the State from Commonwealth Savings Co. depositors, which claims assert liability against the State of Nebraska by reason of estoppel or any other legal theory which asserts that depositors of Commonwealth Savings Co. have detrimentally relied upon the ostensible assurance that their deposits were insured to $30,000.00?

My responses follow.

I. By virtue of Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3, the Nebraska Legislature may not extend the Credit of the State in aid of any individual, association or corporation, including depositors of Commonwealth Savings Co., or the NDIGC.

Certain fundamental constitutional principals must be observed in any review of the bounds of legislative authority to control the treasury of Nebraska. Succinctly:

> "The first principal is the Legislature has plenary legislative authority limited only by the State and Federal Constitutions.

Swanson v. State, 132 Neb. 82, 271 N.W. 264, (1937); Dwyer V. Omaha-Douglas Public Building Commission, 188 Neb. 30, 195 N.W. 2d 236 (1972); Orleans Education Assn. v. School Dist. of Orleans, 193 Neb. 675, 229 N.W. 2d 172 (1975). The Nebraska Constitution is not a grant but, rather, a restriction on legislative power, and the Legislature may legislate on any subject not inhibited by the Constitution. State ex rel. Meyer v. County of Lancaster, 173 Neb. 195, 113 N.W. 2d 63 (1962). The state Constitution is not a grant but a restriction of legislative power. Consequently, courts can enforce only those limitations which the Constitution imposes. United Community Services v. The Omaha Nat. Bank, 162 Neb. 786, 77 N.W. 2d 576 (1956). Unless restricted by some provision of the state or federal Constitution, the Legislature may enact laws and appropriate funds for the accomplishment of any public purpose. It is for the Legislature to decide in the first instance what is and what is not a public purpose, but its determination is not conclusive on the courts. However, to justify a court in declaring a statute invalid because its object is not a public purpose, the absence of public purpose must be so clear and palpable as to be immediately perceptible to the reasonable mind." Lestrom v. Thone, 209 Neb. 783 at 789, 311 N.W. 2d 884 (1981).

With respect to the first of the questions noted above, the relationship of Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3 to the plenary authority of the Legislature to control the general funds of Nebraska must be inspected. Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3 provides:

> "The credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association, or corporation, except that the state may guarantee or make long term, low interest loans to Nebraska residents seeking adult or post high school education at any public or private institution in this state. Qualifications for and the repayment of such loans shall be as prescribed by the Legislature. (Amended, 1968.)"

In recent years, substantial litigation has developed concerning the foregoing constitutional provision. In United Community Services v. Omaha National Bank, 162 Neb. 787, 77 N.W. 2d 576 (1956), the Supreme Court was required to resolve litigation brought to determine whether the Omaha Public Power District had legal authority to make pledges to United Community Services, a non-profit charitable organization without capital stock. In passing upon the issue before the Court in 1956, Judge Wenke wrote:

> "In State ex rel. Haberlan v. Love, 89 Neb. 149, 131 N.W. 196, 34 L.R.A.N.S. 607, Ann. Cas. 1912C 542, we said of this section: 'Sec. 3, Art. XII (now XIII) of the Constitution, was intended to prevent the State from extending its credit to private enterprises.'
> Also in Oxnard Beet Sugar Co. v. State, n rehearing, 73 Neb. 66, 105

> N.W. 716, we said: 'The Legislature cannot appropriate the public moneys of the State to encourage private enterprises.' " 162 Neb. at 799-800.

Clearly, the constitional mandate of Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3 is to prevent the Legislature from appropriating public moneys of the State to encourage private enterprises, or serve purely private purposes. As the Supreme Court stated in Oxnard Beet Sugar Co. v. State, 73 Neb. 66, 105 N.W. 716 (1905), a case in which the Court held that an act providing a state bounty for the manufacture of sugar and chicory was unconstitutional:

> "The Legislature cannot appropriate the public moneys of the State to encourage private enterprises. The manufacturing of sugar and chicory is a private enterprise and the public money or credit cannot be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association, or corporation carrying on such enterprises." 105 N.W. at 717.

Based on the foregoing authorities, it is clear that the appropriation under consideration to NDGIC may be made only if it is for a "public" purpose. However, any appropriation made exclusively for the benefit of Commonwealth Savings Co. depositors is impermissible if, as a result, a "private" purpose is served. What, then, constitutes a "public" or "private" purpose?

InChase v. County of Douglas, 195 Neb. 838, 241 N.W. 2d 334 (1976), a taxpayer of the City of Omaha challenged the constitutionality of Neb. Rev.Stat. Sec. 18-1401 which authorized City Councils to appropriate "an amount to exceed 1% of the assessed valuation of the city. . . for the purpose of encouraging immigration, new industries and investment, and to conduct and carry on a publicity campaign". The Plaintiff attacked the statute as permitting the expenditure of funds for "private purposes". The Supreme Court rejected the taxpayer's contention and held:

> "The first proposition is that it is for the Legislature to decide in the first instance what is and what is not a public purpose, but its determination is not conclusive on the courts. However, to justify a court in declaring a tax invalid because it is not for a public purpose, the absence of a public purpose must be so clear and palpable as to be immediately perceptible to the reasonable mind. State ex rel. v. Cornell, 53 Neb. 556, 74 N.W. 59. The second proposition is that the general encouragement of growth and industry through such devices as publicity and advertising are public purposes." Id. at 195 Neb. 845-846.

Accord, Lenstrom v. Thone, 209 Neb. 783, 311 N.W. 2d 884 (1981); Prendergast v. Nelson, 199 Neb. 97, 256 N.W. 2d 657 (1977) (holding that the Nebraska Hospital-Medical Liability Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. Sec. 44-2801 et seq. is constitutional.) See also, State ex rel. Meyer v. Duxbury, 183 Neb. 302, 160 N.W. 2d 88 (1968).

The appropriation hypothesized in your inquiry would be to the Nebraska Depository Institution Guaranty Corporation, a corporation created pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. Sec. 21-17, 127 et seq., as amended. The NDIGC is, by virtue of the nature of its statutory existence, a private corporation formed, controlled and operated for the benefit of its member institutions. The NDIGC is, of course, a special type of corporation, in that its assessments of members are regulated by statute, and its operating rules, procedures and activities are subject to regulation by the Department of Banking and Finance. Neb. Rev. Stat. Sec. 21-17, 132 et seq., as amended. However, in its ultimate essential character, the NDIGC is a private corporation, operated and funded for private purposes, with optional membership.

The hypothesized appropriation to which reference is made in the first section of your letter of November 9, 1983 suggests a legislative appropriation to NDIGC for the exclusive benefit of Commonwealth Savings Co. ("CSC") depositors who relied upon the NDIGC guarantee of $30,000.00 per account. If the appropriation contemplated is made, the singular beneficiaries of the appropriation will be the depositors of CSC who have lost funds up to the $30,000.00 level. There would appear to be no direct or incidental "public" purpose or benefit in any such appropriation.

The appropriation contemplated appears to be decidedly different from the expenditure of public funds for the purpose of attracting industry, creating jobs, encouraging economic growth, welfare and prosperity. This appropriation would appear to have, as its purpose, reimbursement of funds lost in a business venture by CSC depositors who relied upon two private enterprises, CSC and NDIGC, to protect their deposits against loss.

Arguments suggesting ostensible "public" purposes of such an appropriation can certainly be made. However, in the language of the Nebraska Supreme Court in Chase v. Douglas County, supra, it is my opinion that the private purpose and character of the contemplated appropriation is so "clear and palpable as to be immediately perceptible to the reasonable mind". Accordingly, it is my opinion that the appropriation under consideration cannot be made by the Nebraska Legislature without contravening the mandate of Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3.

II. The Nebraska Legislature may not approve "Miscellaneous Claims" filed against the State on an estoppel legal theory by CSC depositors who claim to have relied, to their detriment, upon the State of Nebraska for insurance of their accounts to the extent of $30,000.00.

There are two general categories of claims which may be filed against the State, i.e. tort claims and miscellaneous claims. The allowance or disallowance of tort claims is governed by a specific statutory procedure. See, Neb. Rev. Stat.Sec. 81-8, 209 et seq. as amended.

Miscellaneous claims, on the other hand, may be allowed by legislative action. In allowing a miscellaneous claim, the Legislature may not contravene the mandate of Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3; any expenditure made to pay a claim must have a "public" purpose.

For the reasons delineated in Part I of this correspondence, it is my opinion that any allowance of miscellaneous claims for the purpose of paying CSC depositors would be for a private purpose, in contravention of Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3. Unfortunately for the CSC depositors, the State of Nebraska has not actually guaranteed the deposits of any depository institution in this state. Indeed, legislation which would do so might, itself, contravene the constitutional mandate in question.

Rather, the NDIG Act (Neb. Rev. Stat. 21-17, 127 et seq., as amended) merely authorized the formation of a corporation by member institutions and created a mechanism for accumulating reserves to be held and administered by the corporation as an insurance fund. The reserves so accumulated are inadequate to cover all potential losses; member institutions may have been permitted nonetheless (if they chose to do so) to project the image of fully insured deposits to the extent of $30,000.00 each.

Nonetheless, assuming that a miscellaneous claim could be appropriately filed by a CSC depositor asserting estoppel theory, it is my opinion that the appropriation of funds for the purpose of allowing the claim would be for a "private" purpose exclusively, and would contravene Neb. Const. Art. XIII, Sec. 3.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 221.

Introduced by DeCamp, 40th District; H. Peterson, 35th District.

The Legislature hereby finds and declares as follows:

1. That stability and predictability of reasonable tax rates is one of the most important things Nebraska citizens seek from their government;

2. That this stability and predictability can be effectively achieved if all participants in the governmental process are advised in advance of the intent and goals for the Legislature with respect to budgets of the State and tax rate parameters within which the Legislature intends to function;

3. That direct rebate or refund of sales and income tax monies to property taxpayers is a form of decreasing overall tax rates and tax expenditures;

4. That economies in state government resulting from elimination of unnecessary programs, development of higher productivity in all programs of government, utilization of business practices and methods and elimination of duplication can and should be accomplished which will result and can result in a budget for the State of Nebraska which should not exceed $750 million for the year 1984-85 versus the previous budget of $746 million;

THEREFORE, recognizing the above general principals, the Legislature hereby finds, declares and resolves as follows:

1. That it shall be the policy of the individuals voting and supporting this resolution to prevent any increase in tax rates from the existing rates for the next fiscal year;

2. That it shall be a policy of the individuals voting for this resolution to accomplish a decrease in tax rates and tax expenditures through non support of budgets which exceed recommendations contained herein or for budget proposals which would result in any tax rate increase;

3. That for purpose of this policy of tax rate decrease it shall be deemed and viewed as a tax rate decrease and a tax expenditure decrease for any amounts now being collected from the taxpayers by any form of taxation which are then directly reimbursed to the taxpayers;

4. That tax rates in the general area of approximately three percent maximum for sales tax versus the present four percent, which is a twenty-five percent reduction in sales tax, and an income tax rate in the general area of approximately sixteen percent versus the current twenty percent, which is a twenty percent reduction in income tax rates, are achieveable and reasonable goals for this Legislature to work for based on a $750 million budget and projected revenues now resulting from the economic recovery that is occurring and are the goals of those supporting this resolution.

The Legislature shall redistrict the state after each federal decennial census. Such districts shall not be changed except upon the concurrence of a majority of the members of the Legislature. In any such redistricting, county lines shall be followed whenever practicable, but other established lines may be followed at the discretion of the Legislature. Whenever the state is so redistricted the members elected prior to the redistricting shall continue in office, and the law providing for such redistricting shall where necessary specify the newly established district which they shall represent for the balance of their term.

Article VII, Sec. 13. ~~The~~ Until January 8, 1987, the general government of the state colleges as now existing, and such other state colleges as may be established by law, shall be vested, under the direction of the Legislature, in a board of seven members to be styled as designated by the Legislature, six of whom shall be appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Legislature, two each for a term of two, four, and six years, and two each biennium thereafter for a term of six years, and the Commissioner of Education shall be a member ex officio. RESOLUTION

Introduced by Schmit, 23rd District.

A Resolution to propose an amendment to Article VIII, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1984 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article VIII, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 1. The necessary revenue of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall be raised by taxation in such manner as the Legislature may direct. Taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all tangible property and franchises, except that the Legislature may provide for a different method of taxing motor vehicles and may also establish a separate class of motor vehicles consisting of those owned and held for resale by motor vehicle dealers which shall be taxed in the manner and to the extent as provided by the Legislature and may also establish a separate class for trucks, trailers, semi-trailers, truck-tractors, or combinations thereof, consisting of those owned by residents and nonresidents of this state, and operating in interstate commerce, and may provide reciprocal and proportionate taxation of such vehicles, on the condition~~;~~ ~~Provided,~~ that such tax proceeds from motor vehicles taxed in each county shall be allocated to the state, counties, townships, cities, villages, and school districts of such county in the same proportion that the levy of each bears to the total levy of ~~said~~ the county on personal tangible property.

The Legislature may enact laws to provide that the value of land actively devoted to agricultural or horticultural use shall, for property tax purposes, be that value which such land has for agricultural or horticultural use without regard to any value which such land might have for other purposes or uses, and prescribe standards and methods for the determination of the value of real or other tangible property at uniform and proportionate values. The Legislature may enact laws to provide that agricultural land shall, for property tax purposes, constitute a separate and distinct class of property. Taxes uniform as to class of property or the ownership or use thereof may be levied by valuation or otherwise upon classes of intangible property as the Legislature may determine, and such intangible property held in trust or otherwise for the purpose of funding pension, profit-sharing, or other employee benefit plans as defined by the Legislature may be declared to be exempt from taxation. Taxes, other than property taxes, may be authorized by law. Existing revenue laws shall continue in effect until changed by the Legislature. The Legislature may provide that livestock shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may further provide for reciprocal and proportionate taxation of livestock located in this state for only part of a year.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska. The proposition for the submission of the proposed amendment shall be placed upon the ballot in the following form:

Referred to the Executive Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 168

Dear Senator DeCamp:

In your letter of November 29, 1983, you indicate a desire to sponsor legislation relating to members of the Legislature which would require that each member of the Legislature or each person elected to the Legislature prior to assuming that position file with the Clerk of the Legislature a disclosure statement specifically listing all assets and liabilities and business interests of the legislator and the legislator's next of kin.

You ask whether or not, in our opinion, such a proposal would pass constitutional scrutiny. A leading case in this area is the United States Supreme Court's decision in Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1 (1976). In that case and in subsequent cases, the United States Supreme Court has upheld disclosure requirements, however, in doing so they have made it abundantly clear that participation in political activities is closely protected by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution and that significant encroachments on these First Amendment rights cannot be justified by a mere showing of some legitimate governmental interest, but have required the stated interest to survive exacting scrutiny.

Inasmuch as you are proposing rules of disclosure for members of the Legislature, we call to your attention the provisions of Article III, Section 10 of the Nebraska Constitution which states that the Legislature shall be the sole judge of the qualifications of its members and the provisions of Article III, Section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution which prohibits conflicts of interests by members of the Legislature and provides that the Legislature shall proscribe standards and definitions for determining whether or not conflicts of interest exist. It may be in light of these two specific state constitutional provisions that the Legislature itself can proscribe rules for its own members and persons seeking to be seated as members which might not be constitutionally permitted to be imposed upon persons seeking office generally.

With respect to the members' next of kin, we have reservations about the constitutional validity of requiring disclosure of persons not directly involved in the political process. By this we mean it is one thing to require a member to make a disclosure, even as to his knowledge of the financial affairs of his next of kin, and quite another to require disclosure under penalty of law of persons who, but for their blood or marital relationship to a member of the Legislature, are not directly involved in any way in the political process.

Generally speaking, therefore, we are of the opinion that the Legislature could fashion requirements to be imposed upon its members and those seeking to become members, however, the constitutional validity of these requirements would ultimately depend to a large extent upon the adequacy of the declaration of the Legislature's intent, the specific language utilized, and the breadth of the requirements.

In conclusion, it is difficult for us to say with certainty without seeing the actual proposal whether or not the requirements selected would pass constitutional scrutiny, however, we do believe in a general sense that the Legislature could constitutionally require such a disclosure on the part of its members, if not, perhaps of the members' next of kin.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

RE: Libraries—Effective LB 229

Dear Senator Beutler:

You have asked a number of questions concerning LB 229 which is presently on general file. You state this information will assist you in determining your future efforts with regard to this bill.

You first ask if §29-402.01 (Reissue 1979) makes offenses against libraries criminal offenses and adequately addresses the concerns set forth in Sections 2 through 6 of the bill.

Section 29-402.01 (Reissue 1979) gives immunity to merchants and merchants' employees who have probable cause to believe that goods held for sale have been unlawfully taken by a person and causes such person to be taken into custody. This section does not adequately address libraries or library employees.

In the case of Bishop v. Bockoven, Inc., 199 Neb. 613, the Supreme Court of Nebraska held that the term "a merchant's employee" did not include a merchant's "agent" (in this case a contractual security service). The court held that this statute must be strictly construed. Therefore, it is doubtful that it would apply to a library. However, Section 6 of LB 229 provides a similar protection to a library, its agent or employee. The passage of this provision would remove all doubt.

You next ask whether present provisions of the criminal code such as §§28-511, 28-513, 28-514 and 28-519 which define unlawful taking, theft by deception, theft by mistake, and criminal mischief, adequately address the library's concerns as outlined in LB 229.

Sections 2, 3, and 4 of LB 229 provide specific criminal provisions relating to libraries. These provisions provide that such violations shall be infractions under §§29-431 to 29-438 (Reissue 1979). Infractions are defined under §29-431 as a violation of any law, ordinance, order, rule, or regulation, except traffic offenses, which is not otherwise declared to be a misdemeanor or a felony. Penalties for infractions are provided by §29-436 (Reissue 1979) and provide for a fine of not more than $100 for the first offense with higher fine limits for subsequent offenses, but no provision for jail or imprisonment. In addition, §29-437 (Reissue 1979) takes away the right of trial by jury for persons charged with infractions.

The crimes defined in Chapter 28, Article 5 mentioned above generally cover the same types of acts made criminal by LB 229; however, the Chapter 28, Article 5 crimes are either felonies or misdemeanors, with right of trial by jury, whereas the LB 229 crimes are infractions. Therefore, you may wish to consider whether it would be more likely to obtain enforcement, prosecution and a conviction under the infraction statutes, especially when the amount involved is very small, as opposed to securing a prosecution and conviction under the misdemeanor or felony statutes.

You next ask if Section 7 of LB 229, which provides for the court ordering restitution of property to a library in kind or value, when a person is convicted under Sections 2 to 5 of the act, will cause any problems. This section is in effect a part of the penalty for violations of Sections 2 to 5. It should cause no trouble insofar as standard of proof or other procedural matters are concerned, since it is criminal penalty. However, it conflicts with the limits for penalties for infractions in §29-436, discussed earlier. You may wish to change either Section 7 of LB 299 or §29-436 to achieve the result you seek.

Your concern that a judgement may be entered in favor of a library for less than the full value because a library is not represented at the hearing to offer evidence is a possibility. Such a judgment would probably not bar the library from seeking the balance due, but may make it impractical. We would suggest that a provision be added requiring notice to the library in question to present evidence at the sentencing hearing when the court contemplates restitution.

January 4, 1984

Re: Neb.Rev.Stat. §60-106(7)

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have requested an opinion from our office concerning the constitutionality of two proposed amendments to Neb.Rev.Stat. §60-106(7), formerly LB 234 (1983). That section provides in part that:

> (7) An application for a certificate of title shall include a statement that an identification inspection has been conducted on the vehicle unless (a) the vehicle is a motorcycle as defined in section 60-301,(b) the surrendered ownership document is a Nebraska certificate of title, a manufacturer's statement of origin, or an importer's statement of origin, or (c) the application for a certificate of title contains a statement that such vehicle is to be registered under section 60-305.09.

You indicate in your letter that you intend to remove the exception for motorcycles contained in subparagraph (a), and have asked whether or not there is a constitutional infirmity in requiring these vehicles to be inspected as are other vehicles for which application is made for a certificate of title and for which the previous title is a foreign certificate of title. In our opinion the removal of this exception for motorcycles is constitutionally sound. The general rule of construction is that a statute must be general and uniform throughout the state, and it must operate alike on all persons of a class with reference to relations and circumstances provided for. State Securities Company v. Ley, 177 Neb. 251, 128 N.W.2d 766 (1964). The Nebraska Certificate of Title Act applies to motor vehicles, commercial trailers, semi trailers and cabin trailers required to be registered under the provisions of §§60-301 to 60-306, with certain exceptions. Neb.Rev.Stat. §60-102 (Reissue 1978). Motorcycles are not specifically exempted, and are defined as "motor vehicles" in §60-301(21). Therefore, it is clear that motorcycles are included within the class of those vehicles subject to the title act.

The general purpose of LB 234 of the 1983 Legislative Session was to eliminate or curtail the practice of title washing in the State of Nebraska, as well as to verify odometer mileage readings and the identity of stolen vehicles. Motorcycles are subject to the requirement of odometer certification; they are subject to title abuses; and they are frequently the subject of theft. Given the purpose of the legislation, and the requirement of uniformity, it would appear that these vehicles may constitutionally be required to be inspected pursuant to the proposed amendment.

Your second question involves the continued exception of vehicles registered pursuant to §60-305.09 from the identification inspection required in §60-106(7). We feel that this exception poses different questions, and that this classification does rest upon reasonable distinctions from other subjects of regulation. Section 60-305.09 provides for an alternative method of registration from the general registration provisions contained in §60-301 to §60-344. These vehicles are not registered individually at the county level, but rather an entire fleet of vehicles is registered centrally through the Department of Motor Vehicles. These vehicles are then considered to be validly registered for operation intrastate in Nebraska and interstate commerce in those jurisdictions which are members of the International Registration Plan.

The inspection required under §60-106 includes the verification of the odometer reading on vehicles to be inspected. It should be noted that §60-2301 regarding the requirement for odometer verification specifically exempts gross rated motor vehicles of more than 16,000 pounds. By definition in the International Registration Plan, apportionable vehicles are defined to mean power units having a gross vehicle weight in excess of 26,000 pounds, power units having three or more axles regardless of weight, or combinations of such vehicles in excess of 26,000 pounds gross vehicle weight. Consequently, the majority of vehicles registered under §60-305.09 are already exempted from the odometer requirements contained in §60-2301. The other requirement contained in §60-106(7) is that the vehicle identification number be checked for entry in the National Crime Information Center and the Nebraska Crime Information Service to determine whether or not such vehicle has been reported as stolen. While it is certainly possible that apportioned vehicles may be stolen, it should be remembered that these vehicles are constantly required to produce registration credentials containing their vehicle identification numbers upon demand at the various weigh stations under the supervision of the Nebraska Department of Roads. Additionally, experience in the industry has been that very few power units are stolen. Rather, the bulk of theft has occurred in the cargo which is carried..

Therefore, it would appear that applications for titles to vehicles registered pursuant to §60-305.09 can reasonably and rationally be treated differently than can other applications. Present statutes already exempt a large percentage of these vehicles from the odometer requirement. Furthur, the present statutes require frequent and constant verification of vehicle identification numbers at weigh stations by the Carrier Enforcement Division of the Department of Roads.

> Classification is proper if the special class has some reasonable distinction from other subjects of a like general character, which distinction bears some reasonable relation to the legitimate objectives and purposes of the legislation. The question is always whether the things or persons classified by the act form by themselves a proper and legitimate class with reference to the purpose of the act.

State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, Id., consequently, it is our opinion that vehicles registered pursuant to §60-305.09 constitute a valid class of vehicles which can be exempted from the requirements contained in §60-106(7).

Finally, we would agree with your concern that including apportionable vehicles in the inspection requirement could create an impermissible burden on interstate commerce. As indicated previously, these vehicles are registered as fleets. There is no requirement that individual vehicles be operated within the confines of the State of Nebraska. It is quite possible, if not probable, that an application could be made for a Nebraska certificate of title to a vehicle which is located in any one of the various International Registration Plan jurisdictions. Assuming that an owner desired a Nebraska title, he could not obtain such title without an inspection. In turn, he could not secure registration credentials for that vehicle. Consequently, it would be impossible for that vehicle to return to Nebraska to be inspected absent valid registration credentials. Therefore, given the potential burden on interstate commerce and the substantial differences in situation of these vehicles, it is our opinion that the exception proposed is constitutionally valid.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Introduced by Newell, 13th District; DeCamp, 40th District.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA,

SECOND SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1984 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article VIII, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 1. The necessary revenue of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall be raised by taxation in such manner as the Legislature may direct. Taxes shall be levied upon separate and distinct classes of property by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon each class and there shall be classes for land actively used for agriculture, land not used for agriculture, all improvements to real estate, and all other ~~all~~ tangible property and franchises, except that the Legislature may provide for a different method of taxing motor vehicles and may also establish a separate class of motor vehicles consisting of those owned and held for resale by motor vehicle dealers which shall be taxed in the manner and to the extent as provided by the Legislature and may also establish a separate class for trucks, trailers, semi-trailers, truck-tractors, or combinations thereof, consisting of those owned by residents and nonresidents of this state, and operating in interstate commerce, and may provide reciprocal and proportionate taxation of such vehicles; PROVIDED, that such tax proceeds from motor vehicles taxed in each county shall be allocated to the state, counties, townships, cities, villages, and school districts of such county in the same proportion that the levy of each bears to the total levy of said county on personal tangible property. The Legislature may enact laws to provide that the value of land actively devoted to agricultural or horticultural use shall, for property tax purposes, be that value which such land has for agricultural or horticultural use without regard to any value which such land might have for other purposes or uses, and prescribe standards and methods for the determination of the value of real or other tangible property at uniform and proportionate values. Taxes uniform as to class of property or the ownership or use thereof may be levied by valuation or otherwise upon classes of intangible property as the Legislature may determine, and such intangible property held in trust or otherwise for the purpose of funding pension, profit-sharing, or other employee benefit plans as defined by the Legislature may be declared to be exempt from taxation. Taxes, other than property taxes, may be authorized by law. Existing revenue laws shall continue in effect until changed by the Legislature. The Legislature may provide that livestock shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may further provide for reciprocal and proportionate taxation of livestock located in this state for only part of a year.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska. The proposition for the submission of the proposed amendment shall be placed upon the ballot in the following form:

Introduced by Von Minden, 17th District; Hefner, 19th District; Warner, 25th District; Vickers, 38th District.

A Resolution to propose an amendment to Article V, section 30, of the Constitution of Nebraska.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY -EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1984 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article V, section 30, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 30. (1) A Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or judge of any court of this state may be reprimanded, disciplined, censured, suspended without pay for a definite period of time, not to exceed six months, or removed from office for (a) willful misconduct in office, (b) willful disregard of or failure to perform his or her duties, (c) habitual intemperance, (d) conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, (e) disbarment as a member of the legal profession licensed to practice law in the State of Nebraska, or (f) conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or he or she may be retired for physical or mental disability seriously interfering with the performance of his or her duties if such disability is determined to be permanent or reasonably likely to become permanent. Any citizen of the State of Nebraska may request the Commission on Judicial Qualifications to consider the qualifications of any Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge, and in such event the commission shall make such investigation as the commission deems necessary and shall, upon a finding of probable cause, ~~privately~~ reprimand such Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge or order a formal open hearing to be held before it concerning the reprimand, discipline, censure, suspension, removal, or retirement of such Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge. In the alternative or in addition, the commission may request the Supreme Court to appoint one or more special masters who shall be judges of courts of record to hold a formal open hearing to take evidence in any such matter, and to report to the commission. If, after formal open hearing, or after considering the record and report of the masters, the commission finds that the charges are established by clear and convincing evidence, it shall recommend to the Supreme Court that the Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge involved shall be reprimanded, disciplined, censured, suspended without pay for a definite period of time not to exceed six months, removed, or retired as the case may be.

(2) The Supreme Court shall review the record of the proceedings and in its discretion may permit the introduction of additional evidence. The Supreme Court shall make such determination as it finds just and proper, and may order the reprimand, discipline, censure, suspension, removal, or retirement of such Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge, or may wholly reject the recommendation. Upon an order for retirement, the Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge shall thereby be retired with the same rights and privileges as if he or she had retired pursuant to statute. Upon an order for removal, the Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge shall be removed from office, his or her salary shall cease from the date of such order, and he or she shall be ineligible for judicial office. Upon an order for suspension, the Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge shall draw no salary and shall perform no judicial functions during the period of suspension. Suspension shall not create a vacancy in the office of Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge.

(3) Upon order of the Supreme Court, a Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge shall be disqualified from acting as a Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge, without loss of salary, while there is pending (a) an indictment or information charging him or her in the United States with a crime punishable as a felony under Nebraska or federal law or (b) a recommendation to the Supreme Court by the Commission on Judicial Qualifications for his or her removal or retirement.

(4) In addition to the procedure set forth in subsections (1) and (2) of this section, on recommendation of the Commission on Judicial Qualifications or on its own motion, the Supreme Court (a) shall remove a Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge from office when in any court in the United States such justice or judge pleads guilty or no contest to a crime punishable as a felony under Nebraska or federal law, and (b) may suspend a Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge from office without salary when in any court in the United States such justice or judge is found guilty of a crime punishable as a felony under Nebraska or federal law or of any other crime that involves moral turpitude. If his or her conviction is reversed, suspension shall terminate and he or she shall be paid his or her salary for the period of suspension. If he or she is suspended and his or her conviction becomes final the Supreme Court shall remove him or her from office.

(5) All papers filed with and proceedings before the commission or masters appointed by the Supreme Court pursuant to this section prior to a reprimand or ~~any~~ formal open hearing shall be confidential. The filing of papers with and the testimony given before the commission or masters or the Supreme Court shall be deemed a privileged communication. When the Commission on Judicial Qualifications determines that discipline is warranted, whether it be a reprimand or otherwise, in a proceeding in which (a) the subject matter is generally known to the public, (b) there is broad public interest, or (c) confidence in the administration of justice is threatened due to lack of information concerning the status of the proceedings and requirements of due process, the Commission on Judicial Qualifications shall issue one or more short announcements confirming that a complaint has been filed; stating the subject and nature of the complaint, the discipline recommended or reprimand issued, and the date of the hearing; clarifying the procedural aspects; and defending the right of a judge to a fair hearing. The Supreme Court shall by rule provide for procedure under this section before the commission, the masters, and the Supreme Court.

(6) No Justice or Judge of the Supreme Court or other judge shall participate, as a member of the commission, or as a master, or as a member of the Supreme Court, in any proceedings involving his or her own reprimand, discipline, censure, suspension, removal, or retirement.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska. The proposition for the submission of the proposed amendment shall be placed upon the ballot in the following form:

> "Constitutional amendment to change provisions and procedures relating to disciplinary actions against judges.

For

Sec. 3. That the proposed amendment, if adopted, shall be in force and take effect immediately upon the completion of the canvass of the votes, at which time it shall be the duty of the Governor to proclaim it as a part of the Constitution of Nebraska.

Mr. Lundy moved that a committee of five be appointed to escort the Governor to the Chamber to deliver his State of the State and Budget Message.

The Chair appointed Miss Kilgarin, Messrs. L. Johnson, R. Johnson, V. Johnson, and Eret to serve on said committee.

The Committee returned and escorted Governor Robert Kerrey to the Rostrum where he delivered the following State of the State and Budget Address:

"PROMISE OF THE PRAIRIE"
GOVERNOR ROBERT KERREY'S STATE OF THE STATE MESSAGE
JANUARY 6, 1984

In her finest moments, Willa Cather wrote of what she knew and loved best: the Nebraska frontier and the men and women who settled it. When Cather set out to write O Pioneers, she succeeded in creating a character — Alexandra Bergson — who captures the essence of those men and women, past and present, who have seen the infinite possibilities in Nebraska and have been willing to devote their lives to realizing them.

Unable to purchase the land thought best by other farmers and surrounded by those who submitted to back-breaking toil and hardship, Alexandra is, nevertheless, undaunted. With unshakeable faith in the land, in herself, and in the promise of the future, she succeeds. Where others saw certain failure, she saw opportunity. And so, Cather writes, "For the first time, perhaps, since that land emerged from the waters of geologic ages, a human face was set toward it with love and yearning. It seemed beautiful to her, rich and strong and glorious. Her eyes drank in the breadth of it, until her tears blinded her. Then the Genius of the Divide, the great, free spirit which breathes across it, must have bent lower than it ever bent to a human will before. The history of every country begins in the heart of a man or a woman."

To know Nebraska and to plan prudently for her future is to know those men and women in whose robust hearts our history was born and in whose untiring hands it was carried to the present. It is to recall our victories and our defeats; our advances as well as our retreats. It is to know what we have done, what we are doing for this state. And most of all, it is that this is the state in which opportunity has thrived and continues to thrive.

We have been, in the main, a people aware of the chance to develop and exercise uncommon courage and tenacity — qualities our homesteading ancestors possessed in abundance. Nearly every season of the year has brought us new challenges waiting to be addressed. Through blizzards and scorching heat, through parching winds and drenching rainstorms, through floods and droughts and insect infestations and crises made by people, we have historically summoned up our courage and resources to say that on the other side of apparent catastrophe we will be even better and even stronger. Through our actions, we have said time and time again that a problem is not a barrier, but a question awaiting answer, an idea awaiting development, a challenge awaiting action.

And we have seen the opportunities a young land provides for growing together. Our ancestors joined together to raise the rafters for their barns, to extinguish prairie fires, to hay, thresh, quilt, and preserve. Today, while the activities may have changed, the spirit has not. Nebraskans still understand that we have greater strength through sharing.

We have used our courage and tenacity, our sense of community, and our values of faith, hard work, and dogged determination wisely. We have used them to create and cultivate opportunities for Nebraskans to realize their fullest potential. The land has given us a rich and rewarding resource base from which to grow; we have brought to the land an unflagging vision of its infinite possibilities.

And I tell you now with unshakeable faith that no boundary has been set — no boundary will ever be set — to constrain what the individual Nebraskan can accomplish when they discover opportunity, when given the chance to fashion new opportunities, and when provided the skills to make those opportunities work.

We have seen it in agriculture, as we have brought a fertile oasis out of a desolate wasteland.

We have seen it in education, as we have moved from unremarkable frame schoolhouses to a system of education which will not be deterred in its quest for still higher levels of excellence.

We have seen it in our productive, prosperous, and innovative businesses and industries.

We have seen it in our cultural environment, which has produced institutions, painters, writers, composers, musicians, and actors of the highest rank.

We have seen it in our efforts to use, but use wisely, the resources we enjoy, and to provide Nebraskans the degree of safety and security required to make use of their opportunities.

We have seen it in many other ways and in many other efforts. And through it all, we must know that state government has been and must continue to hold as its objective: INDIVIDUAL FREEDOM AND OPPORTUNITY.

This legislative body enjoys an honorable heritage evoked by the names of Arthur Mullan, John Norton, Sara Muir, Gilbert Hitchcock, and William Hasebrook. It is a heritage reflected in the names of recent legislative leaders: Jensen, Gerdes, Marvel, Burbach, Carpenter, and Mahoney. And there is no shortage of leadership here today. Your names will be remembered as well: for courage, for service, and for sacrifice.

It is also a heritage shared by the Executive and Judicial branches of this state government, and it reaches back to 1864, when Congress provided enabling legislation authorizing Nebraskans to form a state government — a government which has continuously undergone progressive developments. What remains unchanged is that this is a government whose roots are in the law — a government which expresses that we are a society of the law, that we live by the law, and that if we do not, we will pay the penalties. What remains unchanged is that this is a government cognizant of the charge forever inscribed on this building: "Political society exists for the sake of noble living."

And so this government taxes and invests that revenue to provide the people of this state with freedom and opportunity. We invest in Nebraska's number one industry — agriculture — an industry which is young by historical standards but remarkable in its rapid and successful development. A century and a half ago, the land was scorned as unproductive; today, it is a land which literally helps feed the world by providing millions of bushels of corn and wheat and tons of beef and pork each year. The Nebraska farmer of 150 years ago produced enough food for four people; today the Nebraska farmer produces enough food for 80.

We invest in the education of our people so that they will be prepared to confront challenges and make the most of opportunities presented them. Our belief remains similar to that expressed by the first settlers who hoped to give their children all the education possible so they "would not go forth to fight their world battles handicapped by ignorance." We have come a substantial distance from the days when pioneering teachers taught in small frame or log houses so open that sun and wind could enter the crevices. From these humble but sincere beginnings has evolved an educational system embracing elementary and secondary schools, colleges, universities, and institutions which provide special training to meet the needs of our citizens. Although every facet of state endeavor should remain eager for improvement, I can say with confidence that Nebraska's educational system has achieved a clear record of excellence.

We invest in economic development with a view to planning, promoting, and developing the state's economy; working to achieve the full potential of our human, natural, and physical resources; and stimulating commerce, agriculture, industry, and job opportunities.

We regulate to provide Nebraskans with a degree of safety and security. We want to make certain that the diseases like diptheria and tuberculosis, which robbed families of their children and incapacitated their adult members, never again become a scourge in this land. We want to make certain that the food we eat, the water we drink, and the air we breathe are pure and healthful. We want to make certain that hazards which present danger to our people are responsibly controlled or eliminated.

We innovate so that Nebraskans can successfully avail themselves of new and important developments in areas such as communications, and so that Nebraskans can make the most of what is already possessed through institutions like our Food Processing Center.

We advocate on behalf of Nebraskans in many forums to ensure that the individual and collective voices of this state are heard and heeded across the nation.

We have done and continue to do all of these things because we love this land.

We do it because we are the descendants of men and women of faith and solid values. Men and women known and nameless who were unafraid to give themselves to the future. Men and women who gave us a solid platform on which to construct this society.

We do it because there is not a singular American Dream but a multitude of diverse individual dreams deserving of realization — deserving of the opportunities for realization.

We do it despite the fact that there are functions of this state government we ourselves may never make use of — may never need. We may never directly need services for the mentally ill or mentally retarded. But we provide help for those individuals who do. We may be employed and blessed with wealth, but we still provide job placement assistance and income maintenance for those who are not. We may be young, but we provide for our aged: their health, their housing, their security. Our freedoms may not be in jeopardy, but we provide protection for those who are. We are concerned about the denial of one person's freedom; we know that we could be next. We move to help our neighbor.

This is the spirit in which I give you my budget recommendations today. This government is here by the choice of the people; not by the chance of fate. In its myriad forms and activities, it is an expression of the wants and needs of the people of this state — wants and needs which, when addressed, open channels of opportunity. Our task is to maintain and improve those channels and chart a course for Nebraska through them.

Cather's Alexandra did not wait for her opportunities. With faith and values to guide her, she worked hard and she persevered. She worked tirelessly toward her goal. The opportunity lay in being able to choose that goal with freedom. Hard work and sacrifice turned the dream into reality.

It will take a good deal of hard work to accomplish all of our dreams as well; it will require more than the appropriation of dollars. We must push ahead with dedication, self-discipline, and a commitment to working long and hard. We must know that it is not enough to be content with what we have today; we must compete for the future. We must apply ourselves inside and outside state government. And if we are willing to do all this, we will succeed.

If there is any doubt, consider the response we have received from the members of our task forces. We had only to ask, and their service was committed to the betterment of Nebraska. I regret that all of the members could not join us today, but I want to introduce the task force chairs who are here: John Woods, Communications and Informations Systems Technology; Tom Potter, Small Business Equity; Jim Campbell and Lynn Roper, Pension Fund Investment; Brenda Warren, Excellence in Education; John Cavanaugh and Bob Daugherty, Water Independence Congress; Barry Kuhl, State Employee Insurance; Bob Spire, Christian School Advisory Panel; Tom Olson, Agricultural Finance and Rural Development; Jerry Hargitt and Harry Seward, Goveror's Advisory Committee for the Gifted and Talented; Maxine Moul, Small Business Equity Subcommittee Chair; and Dale TeKolste, Special Advisor to the Governor. Thank you again for your outstanding efforts.

OVERVIEW OF BUDGET

Now, I would like to provide you with an overview of my budget and enhancements.

Article IV, Section 7 of the Nebraska Constitution says that the Governor "shall present, by message, a complete itemized budget of the financial requirements of all departments, institutions and agencies of the state and a budget bill to be introduced by the Speaker."

This is the presentation of that budget. It calls for $803,155,723 in state spending, including capital construction. This is an increase over the current budget of 7.6%.

As I detail the components of this budget, we must remember that every dollar should be analyzed. It is always possible to achieve more while spending less. That is why, during the budget process, I frequently sent word back to my department heads that new programs they suggested should be funded by existing dollars; that they must, through reallocations and greater efficiency, find the resources to support these new directions.

The process used to arrive at these budget proposals was a thorough one. Last year, at the end of your legislative session, I established two goals for my next budget; I feel I have achieved them both.

First, I believed it essential that I should present this budget to you as soon as possible. Given that this is the short legislative session and that your agenda is filled with weighty issues, delays in budget action could jeopardize your success. Therefore, I was determined to present you with this budget during the first week of this session.

Second, I wanted these budget requests to be thoroughly scrutinized. We began with the issuance of the budget instructions in July. Larry Bare met individually with each code agency director to discuss budget goals and objectives. Agencies were asked to respond in writing to over 100 questions on particular policy issues. A special budget planning group was formed and briefed thoroughly on agency requests. This group then met with each code agency director and staff to discuss their individual requests in-depth.

By late November, the materials had been developed to begin presentations to me. I spent a great deal of time in November and December meeting with the planning group, agency directors, concerned citizens, and members of this body. Issues were thoroughly discussed, numbers continually revised, and priorities established. Out of this thorough dialogue comes the 1984-85 budget.

I want to begin by discussing issues affecting state employees. They are the backbone of our system, representing the single most important element in our government. Buildings, equipment, and the best laid plans mean nothing without a skilled, dedicated workforce which is both well-managed and well-trained.

Therefore, in light of the state's salary survey findings, I am recommending to the Legislature an eight percent increase in state agency salary budgets. My salary distribution proposal has been designed to reward good performers. It is a basic pay for performance system. Employees may receive up to a ten percent pay increase. Employees with less than satisfactory performance will receive lesser amounts, possibly nothing, and performance improvement standards will be established which will lead them to be better employees or potentially face termination. Hiring rates will generally be increased six percent. I am also recommending a revised health insurance plan for which an additional $2,827,510 will be necessary.

As you are also aware, I have recently approved new Personnel rules. With implementation of the new rules and regulations, we will, among other things, finally achieve merger of the State Personnel and Merit Systems.

In addition to the 1984-85 budget, I am presenting to you a deficiency bill for 1983-84 of $7,081,492 of General Funds. The 23 agency requests that I approved are, I believe, legitimate needs and should be funded.

Analyzing the $803,155,723 contained in this budget, we see that it requires:

$372,745,360 for state operations;

$415,510,334 for aid; and

$ 14,900,029 for capital construction. These numbers do not include funds for the new health insurance package.

Detailing the portions of this budget, we see that education requires $408,023,868 in General Funds. This includes:

$159,484,133 for the University;

$ 194,796 for the State College Board;

$ 25,488,637 for the State Colleges;

$ 23,088,850 for our Technical-Community Colleges.

$190,866,262 for the Department of Education;

$ 4,870,723 for Educational Television; and

$ 611,223 for the Nebraska Arts Council.

Turning to transportation, this budget necessitates $4,928,406 in General Funds and $294,467,068 in total funds.

Looking at economic development, this budget requires $6,615,956 in General Fund support, including:

$3,533,463 for the Department of Agriculture;

$ 565,875 for the Department of Labor; and

$2,504,147 for the Department of Economic Development.

In the natural resources area, my main line bill calls for $15,480,315 in General Fund appropriations. This includes:

$1,521,915 required for the Department of Water Resources;

$6,222,747 required for the Game and Parks Commission;

$4,689,768 required for the Natural Resources Commission; and

$3,011,934 required for the Department of Environmental Control.

The human services area need $190,215,685 in General Funds and another $260 million from other fund sources.

This area includes, in General Fund requirements:

$ 4,273,255 needed by the Department of Health;

$ 63,070,776 needed by our Department of Public Institutions;

$118,445,718 needed by our Department of Social Services; and

$ 2,212,447 needed by our Department of Aging.

Support of our general government operations requires $87,767,109 in General Funds, including:

$ 657,163 for the Governor's Office;

$ 5,548,857 for this Legislature;

$ 4,534,838 for the Department of Administrative Services;

$ 996,731 for the Department of Personnel; and

$36,383,362 for the Department of Revenue, and $34,683,773 for the State Treasurer.

In our public safety and regulatory functions, this budget calls for $68,638,457 in General Fund support. This provides funds for:

the Supreme Court at $10,216,290;
the District Courts at $6,252,135;
the State Fire Marshal at $159,298; and the Department of Correctional Services at $35,600,057.

In terms of new capital construction commitments for fiscal year 1984-85, my recommendation includes over $12.9 million of state General Funds and $6.0 million of cigarette tax funds. A continued effort is being made to maintain our existing buildings and to upgrade our older facilities, with a particular view toward energy conservation. I am therefore recommending that $5 million be allocated to the LB 309 Task Force. Among other recommendations, $1,000,000 is targeted for life safety improvements at the Department of Public Institutions, along with $500,000 for life safety improvements at the University, $250,000 at the Department of Correctional Services, and $200,000 at the state colleges.

EDUCATION

Last summer I commissioned a task force to study the status of primary and secondary public education in Nebraska and make recommendations for improvements. The Task Force on Excellence in Education found that our schools are sound, but not without room for improvement. This body will debate the merits of such recommendations as state established graduation requirements, the organization of school districts, and many others.

I am convinced that education is central to our continued growth and well-being as a state. That is why I am offering a bill to enhance education in Nebraska. The quality of that education depends to a great extent on the men and women who teach our children. We cannot afford to lose our best teachers to the private sector or to school districts in other states. In order to assure that Nebraska's educational system is second to none, we must pay competitively, and we must recruit competitively.

I am today challenging Nebraskans to set a goal of recruiting and paying a teaching force in the upper 10% in the nation. This is, I believe, a reasonable, aggressive goal given our own high individual aspirations. To achieve this goal will require commitment: financial and political.

By the end of the decade, Nebraska's teachers will be in the upper 10% nationally in terms of both quality and pay. We must be willing to set this goal and to work together with local school districts to achieve it.

But if we are to pay our teachers in the top 10%, we should expect that we have the top 10% of the teaching talent. In return for truly competitive salaries, teachers must be willing to sacrifice some of the protection they have traditionally enjoyed.

In examining our laws, I find that we do not have true "tenure" for teachers in Nebraska. Instead, we have a fair dismissal procedure that guarantees teachers due process. Nevertheless, there is a public concern that there are some teachers who are not doing an adequate job, and that they cannot be fired. In order to deal with that concern, we will revise personnel rules in statute to clarify that incompetence includes deficiencies or shortcomings in subject matter knowledge or in teaching skill. The State Board of Education should be required to expand on this definition and establish standards of competence which apply to all teachers in Nebraska, no matter how long they have taught.

Another problem in guaranteeing continuing competence, of course, is in the evaluation of teachers. We will increase our emphasis on ongoing, thorough, and reliable evaluation. In addition, administrators must be provided with the training and resources necessary to evaluate teachers and reward the most able, help those who can improve, and remove those who are not competent from the profession.

We will also remove artificial barriers which may impede potentially outstanding teachers from entering the profession. I will propose legislation which will enable uniquely qualified individuals to gain "lateral entry" to the teaching profession without necessarily returning to college to complete formal teacher training.

I am proposing a $25 million initiative for total education improvement, the lion's share of which will be used to enhance teacher salaries. By providing stipends from the state to teachers in school districts that maintain a minimum qualifying level of salaries, and by having that state stipend match local effort, I believe we can reach our top 10% goal.

The remainder of the $25 million will be used for several innovations, such as: a consortium to provide for technology in the schools; a "scientist-in-residence" program; and a program designed to identify and distribute especially effective and innovative curricula.

In addition, my bill will contain many items that are also included in the bill developed by Senator Vickers and your Education Committee.

We also need to concern ourselves this Session with the question of the appropriate balance between religious freedom and the legitimate interest this state has in the education of Nebraska's children. I have appointed an outstanding panel headed by Bob Spire of Omaha to analyze this entire issue and provide us with an objective, balanced, and independent judgment on the public policy questions involved. I expect a report from this panel in the near future so that you will have every opportunity to thoroughly analyze and review this difficult, complex area.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Looking at economic development, my legislative program will once again have a major emphasis. Let me share with you some of the significant concepts I used in developing my package.

First, the economy is not an abstract mathematical model. It is people; people making choices. It is individuals investing; families buying a home; a farmer plowing his or her field; a worker assembling a machine; an entrepeneur opening a business; a researcher developing new ideas and technologies.

Second, the more we invest in that individual's capacity to be economically productive, the more we as a society gain in return.

Third, although national and international forces shape our economic destiny, we cannot concede to them. We must make our own economic choices to build our own economy.

And fourth, economic development is the responsibility of all of state government. That is why I've directed all agencies from Energy to Social Services, from Agriculture to Labor, from Revenue to Water Resources to look at how they can help build upon the basic wealth of this state.

The following represent significant economic development investments and activities.

Number one, transportation.

Accessibility to resources, markets, and services is critical to the health and well-being of Nebraskans. The quality of our transportation systems determines in large measure the number and quality of economic choices available to us. Gone are the days when we hitched the horse to the buggy and rode into town to buy and sell our wares; today, we are a worldwide trader dependent on strong systems of transportation. For example, Japan now purchases $6 billion of grains and other food products from America each year.

We must continue to emphasize development and maintenance of our road, rail, and airport systems.

We have come a long way since 1927 when the state completed its first 100 miles of hard surface paving. Today we have a state road system of 10,000 miles, 413 railroad crossings, and 3,248 bridges. We commit 17.5% of the total state budget to the Department of Roads so that farms and businesses have access to markets.

Further, the use of aircraft has been a vital part of Nebraska's and our nation's growth. The allocation of $16 million to air programs demonstrates our resolve to keep Nebraskans linked to the outside world. In light of the importance of air service to economic activity, we must also be prepared to deal with the impact of airline deregulation.

Number two, telecommunications.

It is not just transportation that links our people to the world. More and more, telecommunications is the conduit for our transactions. I firmly believe Nebraska has the potential to be a world class center in telecommunications.

In line with that belief, my budget calls for a major increase in support to ETV. Much of this increase is targeted toward maintaining the high quality of the facility in which we have already so wisely invested.

Additionally, my capital construction budget continues our program of transmitter replacement.

Finally, my detailed economic development message, which I will deliver later this month, will contain additional recommendations in this area.

Number three, education.

In reviewing our investment in people, our greatest investment in individuals is through education. As I've said on other occasions: "Education is the conservative commitment of those of us who believe that it is people who solve our problems."

The education plan I've just given you is that kind of conservative commitment that we have maintained since our days as a rugged frontier. That commitment grew over time to include higher education. Today, we know that higher education is one of the surest means of providing both individual freedom and opportunity, and bettering society. It affords individual men and women chances to pursue their chosen fields and equip themselves for lives of learning. Those individual opportunities ripple out to the lives of others in myriad forms: new ideas, new technologies, new achievements and advances.

This budget bill provides over $208 million in General Funds for our three state higher education systems. Of the operations portion of state government, the University and state college system will absorb 49.1% of the General Fund budget.

I am also proposing that funds be allocated to begin construction of the University's Animal Science complex. Completion of this complex is another step toward building the food processing industry in our state. We know that solid research builds strong industry. We know that basic agricultural research pays off in greater productivity.

Additionally, I believe that the University should proceed with the Laboratory Science Building in Omaha as another sign of our belief that education is a component of economic development.

Finally, because new technologies offer us new opportunities, one million dollars is also provided for university computer development.

Number four, technical colleges and job training.

Our investment in individuals is also reflected in our technical-community colleges. Many times this last fall on the Industry Recognition Tour, business leaders spoke of the drawing power of these institutions for new industries as well as the contributions of our state colleges and University.

Job training is also a growing part of our state's investment in individuals. For the next fiscal year, I'm calling for an additional quarter of a million dollars to the Departments of Labor and Economic Development for these valuable services. This is to supplement the $10,450,387 federal dollars being spent for the Jobs Partnership Training Program.

Number five, NIFA.

Last year, you created the Nebraska Investment Finance Authority — NIFA. With a strong board in place, this agency is aggressively bringing dollars to Nebraskans to buy homes, build businesses and acquire farms. More can and will be done by NIFA in the coming years.

Number six, additional economic tools.

I will also be asking this Legislature to look favorably on creation of two new Nebraska economic tools. The first will be to aid small businesses needing to get started. The second is to assist beginning farmers. New farms and businesses are vital to a healthy economy. Their creativity and productivity inspire additional economic activity in our communities.

Number seven, pension funds.

Nebraska can further control its economic destiny by controlling the flow of capital. More effective targeting of state pension funds is another tool that we can use to gain investment dollars for our citizens. I will soon be urging our Retirement board and Investment Council to take further action in this regard.

Number eight, infrastructure.

Building our communities and their infrastructure is another means of asserting local economic control. Creative use of community development block grants, aggressive pursuit of Urban Development Action Grants, merging of public and private investments, and careful planning are all tools we will use to build economic independence.

Finally, if we look at how all our state agencies contribute to our economy, our potential economic development strategies become endless. Our public safety structure protects our farms and businesses. Our social service system builds our quality of life. Our regulatory system balances rights and responsibilities. Whether it is our dedication to an outstanding park system, our faith in the arts to inspire us, or our dedication to equal justice, all of our actions will build our economy because they build us as individuals.

WATER

Nebraska has also established a national leadership role in the development and conservation of water resources. This heritage is admirably reflected by the creation of local Natural Resources Districts, by the eight million acres of Nebraska farmland that have been brought under irrigation, by the commitment we have made to the conservation and proper management of our water resources, and by the investments that we have made to undertake studies in an effort to improve our system of water resources management.

We have had our share of disagreements about the best way to approach water policy in this state; nonetheless, Nebraska has remained a leader. We have fared well compared to other states, and we now stand at the brink of a tremendous opportunity to capitalize on this important resource.

The Water Independence Congress has been an exercise in this tradition. Forty Nebraska citizens from across the state with a variety of interests in Nebraska water resources came together for a common purpose: to work toward a consensus water policy that is predicated on the best interests of the entire state. Disagreements occurred; that was to be expected, since that is the nature of a democratic system. But in the end, the members of the Water Congress submitted a report that represented their consensus on what the direction of Nebraska water policy should be.

I would like to share a number of their recommendations, which I wholeheartedly support, and at the same time, commend Senator Schmit for his support of the Water Congress. I intend to support the following:

First, the Congress made several proposals relating to the structure of state government which are designed to clearly define administrative responsibilities and lines of accountability.

I strongly support the Water Congress consensus that the executive director of the Natural Resources Commission be appointed by the Governor with Commission approval. I also support the concept of a Water Management Board as a mechanism for resolving disputes and setting priorities for water projects. The board would work in conjunction with existing water agencies to provide a complete administrative system.

Second, the Water Congress made several outstanding recommendations concerning water conservation and management, which are key elements of sound water policy. The Congress recognized that the efficient use of water and the protection of its quality are essential to all Nebraska citizens, both urban and rural.

A very important component of Nebraska's water management policy must be the legal recognition of instream flows as a beneficial use of Nebraska water. Future development of our water resources must take into consideration the value of protecting habitat for fish and wildlife in our state.

Groundwater management plans which address existing and potential problems with regard to groundwater supplies and quality should be developed and implemented at the local Natural Resources District level. Emphasis should be placed on conservation practices and integrated management of surface and groundwater. Development is only part of the answer. To succeed, we have to manage this resource wisely.

Diminished water quality must be considered a serious threat to our abundant water resources. The underground storage of petroleum and chemical waste as well as the surface application of fertilizer and pesticides must be carefully managed in order to prevent groundwater contamination, which can be a serious threat to our health.

Third, the Water Congress has offered several water development recommendations. I agree with the consensus that additional development, if properly planned and managed, is both possible and desirable. To quote the Water Congress report, "Additional development can provide for environmental protection, economic development, and a large portion of the additional needs of agriculture."

A significant concern is the means by which this development will be financed. I concur with the Water Congress recommendation that the Nebraska Constitution be amended to authorize, with legislative approval, the use of general obligation bonds for water projects. This paves the way for a comprehensive water financing structure, which must include user fees as well as tax revenues.

I am including in my enhancement proposal an additional $4 million for water development, which would be administered by the Water Management Board.

Fourth, to ensure that water development in this state proceeds in an orderly fashion, sound planning is a must. The Water Congress has recommended that the state play a lead role in planning for water resources projects, and encourages local project sponsors to be involved as well. A continuing assessment of our efforts must be undertaken, and new development projects should proceed in stages to promote that assessment.

On a broader scope, the consensus of the Water Congress indicates that the Missouri Basin States Association should be used as the forum for resolving Missouri River water disputes. This informal group will provide a better environment for this task than would a formal interstate compact.

Two things are abundantly clear to me from the Water Congress report. First, we must maintain the tradition of local control in the mangement of our water resources. Second, the state's Chief Executive should be accountable to the people of Nebraska for the successes and failures in Nebraska water policy. The recommendations of the Water Congress provide the framework we need to move forward and continue our heritage as national leaders.

Right now, in 1984, we have an opportunity which has not existed in many years. We must act now, building on the courage of the Water Congress membership and the leadership of Senator Schmit and the Public Works Committee. History will judge us to be people of courage as well if we seize this opportunity to move decisively ahead.

SOCIAL SERVICES

Since our days as a Territory, Nebraska has maintained a commitment to social services. The name and structure of the administering agency have changed over the years, but Nebraskans have remained willing to assist each other in times of need. Provision of human services is one means of assuring that individual opportunity extends to all Nebraskans and not merely to the advantaged.

Some Nebraskans are only in need temporarily; some will always be in need. In either case, we provide social services because that's the kind of people we are. Our goal is to help; our number one priority is to try to assist the recipients — to try to provide them individual opportunities. And we should be proud that we care so much. We should be proud that we help without expecting a payback. We should be proud to help one another.

One important task for our Department of Social Services over the next year will be to complete the creation of a state social service system. The task is first and foremost a management issue. It demands total support from all who work within the Department, all who draw upon its services, and all other agencies which work with this Department. This Legislature has declared there will be one uniform system of delivery of social services in Nebraska, and this administration will act decisively on that mandate. Before we ask the Department to undertake new missions, we must make sure this one is well in hand.

Yet there are other tasks which the Department must continue to perform.

After all ... to the elderly, the disadvantaged, and the refugee; to the retarded, the single parent, and the disabled; to those struck by catastrophic illness; to the orphaned, abandoned, and abused, the Department of Social Services is a hot and nutritious meal, appropriate clothing, a warm, decent place to live, the security of knowing that nursing home care, and hospitalization are available, a trip to the doctor, proper pharmaceuticals, and care for children.

And so ... One hundred and sixty million dollars are provided for Medicaid; Fifty-four million for aid to dependent children; Seventeen million for energy assistance; Fourteen million for Title 20 Social Services; Eight million for child welfare foster care payments; Five million for Supplemental Security Income payments to the aged, blind and disabled; Twelve million for a variety of other programs and services.

Additionally, our state administers such federal programs as the food stamp program. In fiscal year 1984-85, $40 million worth of food stamps will be provided to needy individuals and households. Some $10 million will be used for food commodities distribution to 182,000 individuals.

One of the values that makes our society so good is that we take care of our aged. Included in this budget bill is an increase for aid to community services for the elderly. Our state government has a long-standing history of support for its senior citizens, as evidenced by the former Aid to Aged, Blind and Disabled Program; the creation of a state Commission of Aging in 1965; our leadership in community programs in the early 1970's; and the passage of LB 404, the Community Aging Services Act, in 1980. We support the programs in this area because we are a caring, compassionate people.

We also demonstrate how deeply we care in mental health and mental retardation services. Among the most critical issues we now face is the question of the chronically mentally ill. We cannot allow these individuals to be ignored, cast aside, or lost between service cracks. In an effort to raise the quality and efficacy of mental health and mental retardation services, Ron Jensen, our Director of the Department of Public Institutions, has embarked on two actions:

The first is completion of a state mental health plan providing consistent priorities for the use of mental health dollars across the state.

The second is a rewrite of our state mental retardation program statutes. As the first statutes developed for community-based services in Nebraska, these statutes can be updated based upon more than a decade of experience with these types of programs.

I urge your support of both of these initiatives.

PUBLIC SAFETY

Even as we seek to provide Nebraskans with opportunities in education, economic development, agriculture, and other areas, we must also recommit ourselves to the public safety. The goals, and actions of state government — the opportunities we provide for people — mean little if Nebraskans are not sufficienty healthy or safe to partake of and participate in them.

Our State Patrol stands in the mainstream of our public safety efforts. Today, the Patrol continues to perform its function of making the highways "a safer place for life, limb and property."

This budget calls for the funding of the State Patrol road operations from the Highway Allocation Fund. This is consistent with the Nebraska philosophy of users paying for the services they receive. It brings Nebraska into line with the majority of states in the nation that also pay for part or all of their Patrol operations from user fees. The point of contact for most of us with the Patrol is being stopped on our highways. However, the measure of safety provided by the Patrol is integral to our citizens' ability to explore their opportunities.

Likewise, the support we give our courts helps determine whether we will be a society of law or lawlessness. We raised our judges' salaries last year when we held the line on most other items, demonstrating our commitment to the Judiciary, so ably represented by our outstanding, progressive Supreme Court.

The Fire Marshal's Office also represents a state commitment to citizen protection. As early as 1909, our state established fire safety as a state responsibility with creation of a State Fire Commission. A policy of inspection, enforcement, and prevention has spared Nebraska disasters like those which have occurred in other states. The Fire Marshal's Office requires our support to meet new challenges in public protection.

The heritage of our Military Department extends back to our Territorial Government. Over the years, the Department has added several new functions of public protection and civil defense. I am proposing a budget of nearly $5 million for this Department and am giving General Carmona full support in his efforts to restructure and strengthen this division of state government. The Guard must stand ready to serve Nebraskans in the future as it has so well in the past.

In the areas of Corrections, we attempt to strike a difficult but necessary balance between protecting the public and supporting opportunities for individual rehabilitation.

This budget calls for completion of the Department of Corrections' construction program, envisioned by this Legislature over ten years ago.

My recommendation includes over $1.2 million for the next two budget years for the Omaha Post Care Center. The present facilities have been sold and will be demolished to make room for planned commercial development in the area. Due to the difficulty associated with leasing acceptable long-term space and the continued merit of this program, the construction of a Post Care Center housing a total of 90 male and female offenders in Omaha is vital. This new facility will also provide work or education release programs for women.

Further, a delay in the opening of the Omaha Center has provided one-time vacancy savings of budgeted dollars. I have directed that these funds be applied to expanding the correctional industries program at this location. Solving the question of inmate idleness is a high priority for me and this Legislature. These funds will be used to establish meaningful inmate work programs, such as wood furniture manufacture, book repair and bindery, and production of vinyl products.

In addition, I intend to recruit and hire an administrator in the tradition of outstanding Nebraska Corrections officials. The commitment we have made in the past to invest in capital expenditures, coupled with being one of two states with a stable or declining prison population, presents us with an opportunity to continue our work and achieve our dual goal of protecting the public and supporting individuals' opportunities for rehabilitation.

REGULATION

Regulation represents one of the principle functions of state government. We have a critical need to regulate and maintain a balance between competing interests. If an individual wants to earn a living manufacturing chemicals, we want that opportunity to exist. But at the same time, we want pure air and water and soil for ourselves and our children. As we regulate, we also recognize the pitfalls of the activity. We can regulate too much — too strenuously — too rigidly — and destroy individual freedom and opportunity.

But individuals can and do hurt other individuals. As extensions of people, corporations may do likewise. During the past year, we have witnessed another striking example illustrating the tremendous need for and difficulty of regulating people: that is the Commonwealth Loan and Investment insolvency.

I know that I speak for a great many Nebraskans when I express my deep gratitude to John Miller and Dave Domina for their willingness to step in and assist the state, and for the outstanding work they have done in a very short period of time.

Their report to me and to this body contains a series of recommendations for statutory changes designed to improve the state's method of supervising our financial institutions. I assure you that I will cooperate with Senator DeCamp and the Banking Committee as we analyze these recommendations in our joint effort to avert another tragedy.

We regulate under the auspices of many agencies: the Departments of Motor Vehicles, Revenue, Health, Agriculture, Banking, and Insurance, as well as the Professional Licensing Boards.

For the Department of Motor Vehicles, I am proposing in this year's budget that the fee charged for driver records be increased. The amount Nebraska charges for its service is considerably below most of the Midwest states. A further increase to help support Department costs is justified.

After discussion with Donna Karnes, our Tax Commissioner, I have decided to add funds for eight additional auditors for the Audit Division of the Department of Revenue. For our tax system to work, citizens must be confident that people are paying their fair share. Auditing of tax obligations is an essential part of this system.

Finally, the maintenance of public health is a key function of our government; a healthy citizenry is better equipped to take advantage of new challenges. As we limit dollars for health care, we must intensify our efforts at health promotion and disease prevention. Dr. Gregg Wright, the Director of the Department of Health, has determined that the first step will be the creation of a Governor's Committee on Health Promotion.

We expect that by March 1, a broad-based committee will be formed and already acting on its charge to develop a state health promotion plan. The recommendations of this committee will go to the Statewide Health Coordinating Council first. By encouraging a more healthy environment and increasing citizen awareness, we will not only reduce health care costs, but also lengthen healthy, productive lifespans.

REDUCTIONS

This budget also contains reductions and, in some cases, elimination of programs. These cuts are, as always, painful. They are not taken lightly, but rather have been thoroughly discussed and evaluated.

First, I believe that changes in certain aspects of our special education reimbursement system are warranted. This budget contains $43,789,887 for state assistance to special education. This year's increase is over $3,000,000. It is worth noting that when LB 403 passed in 1973, the total state appropriation for special education was less than $11 million.

My proposed changes would combine transportation costs with instructional costs and would reimburse all levels of special education programs equally, with an estimated savings of $2,706,582.

Second, I still believe that the state should not provide special aid to school driver's education programs. Elimination of this would reduce expenditures by $1,236,000.

Third, I remain convinced that we should not continue earmarking one cent of the cigarette tax for cancer research. After allowing for an adequate General Fund appropriation for the Eppley Institute of $500,000, this proposal reduces expenditures by $1,100,000.

Fourth, I am convinced that the State Fair and Fairgrounds Horse Racing cash revenues should absorb the $105,380 that the General Fund currently provides the State Board of Agriculture.

Fifth, it is periodically necessary to adjust upwards the fees charged for state services. It is clear to me that the time has come to adjust the fees charged counties for patients placed in state institutions. Those fees have not been increased since 1969. At that time, the average daily cost per patient at our three regional centers was $16.22. The average daily cost last year was $125.41, an increase of 670%. We have reached a point at which it costs counties less to have an individual institutionalized in a state facility than placed in a local community program. An increase of the county share to $15 per each day of care will raise almost $4 million to assist in the funding of institutional expenses.

Sixth, I believe that our State Historical Society should begin to charge admission to its facilities and thereby gain the state an additional $146,000.

Seventh, I feel that the witness assistance centers have demonstrated their worth, and should be a local funding responsibility. Elimination of this program saves the state $48,545.

Eighth, I feel it is time that the Kearney Safety Center became self-sufficient and that the $60,000-plus in General Funds which it uses should be applied elsewhere in the state budget.

Ninth, I am supportive of the changes in the Medicaid program that have saved $705,000 and expect more cost-saving proposals to be forthcoming in this program.

Tenth, I feel that the students at the state colleges should pay higher tuition next year, as will University students, providing an additional $649,000 in cash funds.

Finally, I ask you once again to consider closing the state-run gift shop in the Capitol Building.

I am also asking you to take three legislative actions that will save General Fund dollars in the future. The first is to amend the statute on payments for the Fairgrounds grandstand to guarantee that existing balances from past appropriations and investment income are available to be used to make bond payments. This change could save the General Fund as much as $3.5 million over future years.

Additionally, I am asking you to place a cap on the state's share of the wastewater facilities grant program. Changes in the federal contribution will almost double the state cost of this program unless we change our state law. Environmental policy is dictating that more of these costs should be borne by the polluter. Enactment of this change will save the state $2.5 million a year.

Finally, I am asking that you limit the scope of review for the Foster Care Review Board to private placements. The state should not have to establish an agency to watch another state agency. Concentrating the work of this board on placements outside of existing government programs will target these resources to the areas in which we have the least influence and the greatest need for oversight.

These three proposals, if adopted, will slow future growth of government costs and more efficiently use Nebraska taxpayer dollars.

TAX RELIEF

Turning to questions of property tax relief, this total package, the budget bill plus my additional proposals, provides another $50 million in aid to local government functions.

Included in this $50 million are: $ 850,000 for additional reimbursement to schools for wards of the court; $ 1,032,000 in higher homestead exemption payments; $ 3,166,000 in higher special education aid; $ 1,500,000 for increased aid to community colleges; $18,500,000 for the assumption of all county Medicaid costs; $25,000,000 in additional assistance to our schools for teacher salaries and other educational improvements.

As you noted, I am proposing acceleration of the state takeover of county Medicaid costs. Last year, I suggested we defer that takeover one year until order could be restored to our fiscal house. After consideration of that proposal by a special committee and extensive negotiation with members of this body and affected interest groups, it was decided to phase in that takeover over a period of three years. Now that state finances are in renewed health, I reaffirm my earlier suggestion to take over all three of these costs in the 1984-85 budget year. This ensures completion of a long-sought goal, provides local property tax relief and removes a major future state obligation from the fiscal horizon.

Finally, this financial package allows for a reduction of the 1984 income tax rate from 20 percent of federal liability to 18 percent and assumes removal of the special cash fund sales tax to decrease the sales tax rate to 3 1/2%. This will allow for revenues of $874,382,508, including an overlevy of 3% of appropriation. Although this overlevy is not as high as some legislators have suggested, I believe that coupled with our cash reserve, it will give us enough security in these still uncertain economic times. This proposal will given Nebraska taxpayers $56,356,000 in income tax relief.

I would urge this body in determining tax rates to watch closely the economic omens and to also maintain an adequate overlevy and cash reserve so that budget planning can continue on a stable basis. We have learned, sometimes painfully, that our sales and income tax are highly responsive to our economic cycles.

Further, I would urge that when you make your decisions, you provide the Nebraska homeowner and taxpayer income tax relief as well as property tax relief.

Those who feel that the watershed moments in our history have passed are wrong. New opportunities have afforded us new choices and decisions. We stand on the threshold. We can act decisively and be remembered as the modern day Alexandras — as men and women of uncommon courage and vision.

Those who believe so much to be impossible are wrong. They cannot have reflected on our past. They must not be aware that out of a so-called desert has risen a vital, thriving state in which the possibilities are as limitless as our panoramic blue sky. The impossible is only so for the moment.

In the time of Cather's Alexandra Bergson, the land presented our ancestors with their abundant opportunities, and they came to the land with the requisite courage, faith, and appetite for hard work. The results of this combination are all around us.

Today, the land is but one bearer of opportunity. It exists in education, in economic development, in water, and a host of other areas. Let us meet these opportunities in the manner of Alexandra. Let us meet them with the courage, faith, and commitment to hard work which comprise our ancestors' legacy, and pass them down as an inheritance to our children. Then, we will feel as Alexandra did:

"As they drove through the rolling ... country toward the westering sun and the stalwart church, she was thinking of that time long ago when she ... drove back from the river valley to the still unconquered Divide. Yes, she told herself, it had been worthwhile... The country had become what she had hoped."

The Committee escorted the Governor from the Chamber.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 172
January 5, 1984

Dear Senator Wesely:

You have asked what the definition of a Democrat, a Republican, and an Independent is in Nebraska. You have also asked whether or not a person needs to be registered to vote to be "legally" considered to be a Democrat, a Republican, or an Independent. You further indicate that, depending upon the nature of our response, you are considering proposing legislation to provide such definitions.

We are unaware of any statutory definition of these terms and we are likewise unaware of any instance wherein the Nebraska Supreme Court has defined them. We would assume that a person is a Republican or a Democrat if they consider themselves to be affiliated with the Republican or Democratic parties. Likewise, we would assume that an Independent is one who does not claim affiliation with any political party.

With respect to your second question, we would be of the opinion that an elector would not need to be registered to vote to lawfully claim affiliation with the Democratic or Republican parties. As you are no doubt aware, Nebraska does not require any proof of such affiliation when one exercises the elective franchise.

There is some difference, however, between voting as an affiliate with a particular political party and running as a candidate claiming affiliation with a political party. In Nebraska in order to run as a candidate affiliated with a political party, the party must be a recognized party. Historically, the two major parties, Republican and Democrat, have been recognized and over the years various minor parties have achieved recognition, i.e., Populist, American, Libertarian, etc.

Achieving recognition as a minor party involves a statutory petitioning process and once recognized, as the two major parties have been, a party remains recognized until it fails to receive the percentage of the vote required by Neb.Rev.Stat. §32-521 (Reissue 1978).

We also suspect that there may be a difference from the perspective of the leadership of a particular political party between a person claiming to be a member of that party for purposes of exercising their right to vote and a person claiming to be a member of a party for purposes of running for elective office affiliated with that party. However, with respect to the questions you have posed, we do not believe there are any legal prerequisites to generally claiming affiliation with the Democratic or Republican parties. We also do not believe, as a matter of law, that it is necessary to have registered to vote to claim affiliation with any political party.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 173
January 6, 1984

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have asked that we examine a bill which you proposed to introduce, which would be known as the Nebraska Lamb Industry Development Act, and advise you as to its constitutionality.

The proposed bill would establish the Nebraska Lamb Industry Development Board whose duties would include the development, implementation, administration, and direction of a Lamb Industry Program, to pursue and expand domestic and foreign lamb markets, and correct and alleviate transportation problems affecting the marketing of Nebraska produced lamb. The bill provides for the composition and duties of a seven member board and defines terms used in the bill.

The bill also provides that the Board will receive a fee of $.25 per head upon all lamb sold in the State of Nebraska. The fee would be paid by the seller at the time of sale or delivery and would be collected by the market, or purchaser, as the case may be. The Board may raise or lower the fee as it deems necessary to generate sufficient revenue to finance the programs conducted by the Board. There is a limit to the amount the fee may be raised in any one year, and the total fee may not exceed $.50 per head.

The bill further provides for the initial appointment and election of the members of the Board from districts specifically described within the bill.

It appears that the proposed bill is a word for word copy of the Nebraska Beef Industry Development Act passed by the Legislature in 1983, and now appearing as Article 21 in Chapter 54 of our statutes.

From our research we have found no Nebraska Supreme Court case dealing directly with the overall constitutionality of the type of program established by the bill. However, numerous courts in other states have considered programs similar to that set forth in this bill. See, State ex. rel. Graham v. Enking, 59 Idaho 321, 82 P.2d 649 (1983), Robison v. Dwyer, 58 Wash. 2d 576, 364 P.2d 521 (1961), Wicklam v. Trapani, 246 N.Y.S. 2d 137, 41 Misc. 2d 749 (1964), Ralston Purina Co. v. Hagemeister, 188 N.W. 2d 405 (N.D. 1971), State v. Vahlsing, 88 Alt.2d 144 (ME 1952). In most of these cases from other jurisdictions, programs similar to those provided in this bill have been held to constitute a form of excise tax. Futhermore, in all the cases cited above the programs involved have been upheld as constitutional. The various state courts have held that programs similar to that envisioned by the proposed Lamb Bill do not violate constitutional guarantees of due process or equal protection, that they do have an acceptable public purpose, and that they do not involve an inpermissible of delegation of legislative authority.

In cases which we have found which held similar programs to be unconstitutional the facts involved in each of the cases could be distinguished from a situation which would exist under the Lamb Bill.

While the Nebraska Supreme Court has not considered the constitutionality of Legislation similar to the Lamb bill, the Court has, however, indicated that excise taxes may be authorized by law. Licking v. Hayes Lumber Company, 146 Neb. 240, 19 N.W.2d 148 (1945). If the fees charged under the provisions of the Lamb Bill are considered to be an excise tax, this case would seem to support the constitutionality of such a tax levied. Also, in general, our Supreme Court has indicated that the taxing power of the Legislature is without limit except as maybe specifically proscribed by our Constitution itself. State v. Cheyenne County, 127 Neb. 619, 256 N.W. 67 (1934).

Based upon the various authorities discussed above, it is our opinion that the general provisions of the proposed bill establishing the Nebrasks Lamb Industries Development Board are constitutional. It is also our opinion that the Board may legally charge the fees in the manner provided for in the bill.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Introduced by Withem, 14th District; Remmers, 1st District; Morehead, 30th District; Scofield, 49th District.

WHEREAS, the United States Department of Education recently released a report which shows that the test scores of Nebraska students taking the American College Test rank fourth in the nation; and

WHEREAS, the report further indicates that over seventy per cent of Nebraska's graduating seniors took the American College Test while in the states whose students' test scores ranked higher than Nebraska, only 32%, 54.6%, and 26.9% respectively of such states' graduating seniors took the American College Test thus indicating the majority of Nebraska's students, as opposed to an elite group in the other states, reflect this level of achievement; and

WHEREAS, this success level in no way diminishes our need to vigorously address problems in education.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Legislature applauds the school boards and administrators of our Nebraska schools who provide the leadership for our schools.
2. That the Legislature thanks the teachers and parents for nurturing in our students an appreciation for the importance of education for life-long efforts.
3. That the Legislature commends specifically the students of Nebraska who performed so outstandingly to provide the exemplary results of which all citizens of this state should be proud.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. V. Johnson asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 56 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

AM1591

1. Insert the following new sections:

"Sec. 6. (1) Any licensee licensed under subdivisions (5)A., (5)C., (5)F., (5)G., (5)H., (5)I., (5)J., and (9) of section 53- 124 shall be liable for all actual damages incurred by any person who suffers personal injury or property damage or whose means of support is impaired if such licensee or his or her employee (a) sells or gives any beer or intoxicating liquor which is consumed on the licensee's premises to any person while such person is intoxicated or (b) serves any person to a point where he or she becomes intoxicated and the intoxicated person subsequently causes the personal injury or property damage to or impairs the means of support of such person. For purposes of this section, a person shall be considered intoxicated when he or she is under the influence of alcoholic liquor or when that person has ten hundredths of one per cent or more by weight of alcohol in his or her body fluid as shown by chemical analysis of his or her blood, breath, or urine. If the injury was caused by an intoxicated person, a licensee may establish as an affirmative defense that the intoxication did not contribute to the injurious action of the intoxicated person.

(2) Every licensee licensed under subdivisions (5)A., (5)C., (5)F., (5)G., (5)H., (5)I., (5)J., and (9) of section 53- 124, shall furnish proof of financial responsibility either by the existence of a liability insurance policy or by posting bond in an amount determined by the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission.

Sec. 7. Within six months of the date of the occurrence of an injury, the injured person shall give written notice to the licensee or the licensee's insurance carrier of his or her intention to bring an action pursuant to section 6 of this act. Such notice shall indicate the time, place, and circumstances causing the injury. If the injured person is incapacitated at the end of the six- month period or such person is unable, through reasonable diligence, to discover the name of the licensee or the person causing the injury, such six- month period shall be extended until such time as the incapacity is removed or such person has had a reasonable time to discover the name of the licensee or the person causing the injury.

Sec. 8. Sections 6 and 7 of this act shall not apply to any person hosting a private social gathering of friends or relatives in a private home or a private place which is not of a commercial nature, where goods or services are not purchased or sold, and where no charge, rent, or any other thing of value is exchanged for the use of such premises for any purpose other than for sleeping quarters.".

2. Renumber the remaining sections accordingly.

SPEAKER SIGNED

While the Legislature was in session and capable of transacting business, the Speaker signed the following resolutions: 239, 240, 241.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 175
January 10, 1984

Dear Senator Beutler:

This is in response to your letter of December 15, 1983, concerning proposed legislation to amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-624 (Supp. 1983). This statute provides a method for allocating the value of car line companies to the state of Nebraska for property taxation purposes. It does so by use of a so-called "miles-to-miles" formula. In addition, the statute specifically provides that, "No other method of allocation shall be used." You perceive a constitutional problem stemming from improper "valuation" as a result of the application of this statute and your proposed legislation is apparently intended to correct this problem by removing any restrictions on the method used to allocate car line values to Nebraska.

It is important to note from the outset that valuation and allocation are two entirely separate steps in the taxation of car line companies. In actuality all the property of the car line companies, i.e., the cars themselves, is valued using the standard methods of valuation outline in statute and the Constitution. Since the car line companies, and the property itself, are engaged in interstate operations a portion of that value must thus be subsequently allocated to the State of Nebraska. Since valuation has already been performed, the Nebraska statutory and constitutional requirements pertaining to valuation do not have any bearing on the process of allocating a portion of this value to Nebraska.

Essentially, the only requirement that courts have placed upon the allocation of values is that they produce a reasonable result, in that any formula used must bear a rational relationship to property values connected with the taxing state. In the case of Norfolk & W.R. Co. v. Tax Commission, 390 U.S. 317 (1968), the Court did not hold the statutory allocation formula in question invalid, rather it merely determined that its application to the particular facts at hand achieved an unconstitutional result. It is important to note that the "miles-to-miles" formula at issue in this case involved the total number of miles of track owned by the railroad compared to the miles of track owned by the railroad within the taxing state. When valuing rolling stock this could obviously achieve some strange results as it did in this case. In Nebraska the "miles-to-miles" formula is based on the total miles traveled by the rolling stock of the car line company compared to the miles traveled within the state. The differences between the results achieved by application of these two statutes should be obvious.

In the Norfolk case, supra, the Court set forth the pertinent principles of law.

> It is of course settled that a State may impose a property tax upon its fair share of an interstate transportation enterprise. . . .That fair share may be regarded as the value, appropriately ascertained, of tangible assets permanently or habitually employed in the taxing State, including a portion of the intangible, or "going-concern," value of the enterprise. . . . As a consequence, the States have been permitted considerable latitude in devising formulas to measure the value of tangible property located within their borders. . . . A number of such formulas have been sustained by the Court, even though it could not be demonstrated that the results they yielded were precise evaluations of assets located within the taxing State.

Id. at 390 U.S. 323, 324.

> Any formula used must bear a rational relationship, both on its face and in this application, to property values connected with the taxing State.
> . . . This Court has, in various contexts, permitted mileage formulas as a basis for taxation. . . . A railroad challenging the result reached by the application of such a formula has a heavy burden. . . . It is confronted by the vastness of the State's taxing power and the latitude that the exercise of that power must be given before it encounters constitutional restraints. Its task is to show that application of the mileage method in its case has resulted in such gross overreaching, beyond the values represented by the intrastate assets purported to be taxed, as to violate the Due Process and Commerce Clauses of the Constitution.

Id. at 325, 326.

There would seem to be nothing inherently improper on the face of the present "miles-to-miles" allocation formula, including the limitation imposed by the statute. If a car line company could meet the burden imposed upon it, and show that the result obtained by application of this formula was completely unreasonable, then strict application of the statue would obviously be improper under those circumstances. We are not aware of any car line company which has made such a showing before a court of law in this state.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Ms. Scofield offered the following amendment:
AM1646

1. Insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. (1) The county superintendent of each county in which a Class VI school is not maintained shall, within thirty days after the annual meeting, certify to the county board of supervisors or commissioners the number of qualified pupils whose parents or guardians have applied to the county superintendent for nonresident high school tuition privileges or special education requirements and a list of school districts and servicing agencies for handicapped pupils which have been approved by the State Board of Education as schools or service agencies qualified to grant nonresident public high school education or special education programs to nonresident pupils under the provisions of sections 79- 494 to 79- 4,106 for nonhandicapped pupils and under the provisions of sections 43- 606 and 43- 646 for handicapped high school age pupils.

(2) The high school tuition rate for nonresident pupils shall be determined annually by the receiving district on a uniform taxation basis for the support of the high school program of the receiving district. In computing the high school tuition rate for nonresident pupils as provided in this section, the receiving district may use data from the immediately preceding school year or the current year, whichever appears more practical as determined by the governing board of the receiving district. (a) The calculation shall take the total current expense of the accepting district for grades nine through twelve only, plus ten per cent depreciation on the insurable or present value of the school plant and equipment. (b) Such figure shall be divided by an amount equal to the most current total valuation on record with the county clerk of the receiving district plus the valuation determined by multiplying the most current valuation on record with the county clerk of all Class I school districts, not part of any Class VI school district, in the county times a ratio equal to the number of students from the county registered to attend the receiving district for the ensuing year to the total number of nonresident students registered in the county for the ensuing year. (c) The figure resulting from dividing the expenses in subdivision (a) of this subsection by the total valuation in subdivision (b) of this subsection shall determine a levy to be assessed against such total valuation determined in subdivision (b) of this subsection for the operation of the secondary level program.

The levy determined shall be multiplied by the proportion of the total valuation of the Class I school districts of each county served by the receiving district to determine the dollars to be raised by the Class I school districts and the product of such computation shall be divided by the total number of nonresident pupils registered to attend the receiving district to determine the per pupil rate for nonhandicapped pupils. The rate to be certified by the receiving district for the ensuing school year may be any amount decided by the receiving board but not less than the per pupil cost and shall not exceed one hundred twenty- five per cent of the computed rate determined by this section. There shall be added to the certified rate an additional service rate for handicapped pupils as provided by the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Board of Education. The superintendent of the receiving school shall certify such high school tuition rate for nonresident pupils to the county superintendent on or before the second Monday of July in each year.

(3) Any taxpayer may appeal from the action of the county board of equalization in setting the nonresident high school tuition levy in the manner provided in sections 77-1606 to 77-1610. The county treasurer, the county superintendent, and each school district receiving funds from the nonresident high school tuition affected by the appeal shall be necessary parties. If the taxpayer alleges that the levy for nonresident high school tuition is for an unlawful or unnecessary purpose or in excess of the requirements of the school district fixing nonresident high school tuition, such appeal shall not in any manner suspend the collection of any tax nor the duties of the officers relating to such tax collection while such appeal is pending. Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 77-1606 to 77-1610, such appeal shall not suspend or stay in any manner the distribution of nonresident high school tuition funds.

(4) A taxpayer initiating an appeal may, as a part of such appeal and without instituting a separate action, apply to the court for injunctive relief pursuant to the provisions of sections 25-1062 to 25-1080 to stay or suspend the distribution of nonresident high school tuition funds while the appeal is pending. If an appeal is brought under this subsection and the court orders the taxpayer to give security, such security shall be an amount sufficient to secure the party enjoined and any other necessary party the damages he, she, or it may sustain, if the court decides that the injunction was wrongfully granted.

(5) The provisions of this section may be used retroactively to compute nonresident high school tuition rates.

Sec. 2. That section 79-498, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-498. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 176
January 12, 1984

Dear Senator Sieck:

You ask if the Department of Motor Vehicles or the Governor may require the issuance of temporary stickers or decals in order to make the expired license plates valid, until all license plates to be issued in 1984 have been produced? It is our opinion that the answer to this question is no. There are currently a sufficient number of new license plates in every county, so that all Nebraska motorists may receive valid license plates. In addition, the statutes do not provide that individual motorists shall be entitled to retain their former license numbers.

Due to the extensive time period required to produce new license plates, many Nebraska motorists will be unable to retain their former license plate numbers and will be forced to accept whatever number is available. However, if all the license plates to be issued in 1984 were completed, then every Nebraska motorist could retain their former license number. For this reason it has been suggested that the Department of Motor Vehicles or the Governor should require the issuance of temporary stickers or decals in order to make the expired license plates valid, until all of the new license plates have been completed.

In order to provide the Department of Motor Vehicles or the Governor with such authority, the Legislature would be required to enact a statute granting this power. It is a well established principle of law that "An administrative agency is limited in its rule-making authority to the powers granted to the agency by the statute which they are to administer." Bond v. Nebraska Liquor Control Commission, 210 Neb. 663, 316 N.W.2d 600 (1982).

Furthermore, an administrative agency has no power or authority other than that specifially conferred by statute or by construction necessary to accomplish the plain purpose of the act. Transport Workers of America v. Transit Authority of the City of Omaha, 205 Neb. 26, 286 N.W.2d 102 (1979). It is clear from the plain language of Neb.Reb.Stat. §60-311 (Supp. 1983) that the purpose of the legislation was to provide every person license plate numbers for their motor vehicles. The statutes do not provide that every person will be entitled to retain their former numbers.

Since, the plain purpose of the statutes are currently being satisfied, the Legislature would have to provide statutory authority for the Department of Motor Vehicles or the Governor to issue temporary stickers or decals.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

A Resolution to propose an amendment to Article VIII of the Constitution of Nebraska.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1984 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to add a new section to Article VIII of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Section 1C. (1) The Legislature shall designate by statute the fiscal year for the State of Nebraska.

(2) For the purposes of this section, unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions found in subsections (3) to (6) of this section shall apply.

(3) Allowed increment shall mean the percentage increase or decrease, as the case may be, of the base annual per capita personal income as compared to the prior annual per capita personal income.

(4) Base annual per capita personal income shall mean the annual per capita personal income for the calendar year beginning twenty-one months before the fiscal year begins and ending nine months before the fiscal year begins.

(5) Prior annual per capita personal income shall mean the annual per capita personal income for the calendar year beginning thirty-three months before the fiscal year begins and ending twenty-one months before the fiscal year begins.

(6) Annual per capita personal income shall mean the figure which represents the annual per capita personal income for the State of Nebraska as provided in official records or reports of the United States Department of Commerce, or an equivalent federal agency, for the calendar years defined in subsections (4) and (5) of this section.

(7) Revenue collected from any source by the State of Nebraska, whether by taxes, fees, franchises, or any other method, shall be limited to an aggregate amount as provided in subsections (8) and (9) of this section. For purposes of this section, revenue shall not include any funds received from the federal government.

(8) The aggregate revenue to be collected for any fiscal year shall not increase over the amount of all revenue collected for the immediately prior fiscal year by more than five per cent or by the allowed increment, whichever is less. If the allowed increment is negative, the aggregate revenue to be collected shall be decreased by at least the amount of the negative allowed increment for that fiscal year. The Legislature may provide that the increase allowed or decrease mandated by this subsection be at least one per cent.

(9) When an act of the Legislature requires that any program or service be funded by the state which was previously required by statute to be funded by a political subdivision of the state, the Legislature may authorize the collection, for the first fiscal year for which the legislative act is effective, of aggregate revenue in excess of that allowed by subsection (8) of this section by an amount equal to no more than the increased expenditure of funds specifically necessary for such program or service.

(10) The limits on aggregate revenue provided in subsections (7) to (9) of this section may be exceeded for a period of one fiscal year only upon a declaration of an emergency made by a four-fifths vote of the Legislature, following a public hearing, and approved by the Governor.

(11) The Legislature shall enact legislation to carry out the provisions of this section.

(12) The limitations imposed by this section shall apply to the first fiscal year commencing after the effective date of this section.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska. The proposition for the submission of the proposed amendment shall be placed upon the ballot in the following form:

> "Constitutional amendment to limit the amount of revenue collected by the State of Nebraska.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 177
January 10, 1984

Dear Senator Wesely:

You pose three questions concerning the confidentiality of tests required to determine the alcohol and drug levels in the deceased (or surviving) driver or pedestrian in the event of a fatal accident.

First, you ask if the provisions in Neb.Rev.Stat. §§39-6,104.07 and 39-6,104.08 (Reissue 1978), which state, "Such information shall be used only for statistical purposes which do not reveal the identity of the deceased" (or". . . surviving drivers or pedestrians") apply to state, county and local officials, who have access to or are required to report such information, as well as to the Department of Motor Vehicles? It is our opinion that the answer to this question is yes. The provisions apply to state, county and local officials, as well as to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The Nebraska statutes provide that "the coroner or other official performing the duties of the coroner, shall examine the body and cause such tests to be made as are necessary to determine the presence and percentage concentration of alcohol or drugs therein." The statutes further provide that "such information shall be included in each report submitted. . . to the Department of Motor Vehicles. Such information shall be used only for statistical purposes which do not reveal the identity of the deceased." Neb.Rev.Stat. §39-6,104.07 (Reissue 1978). Neb.Rev.Stat. §39-6,104.08 (Reissue 1978) goes on to limit the use of information to statistical purposes for surviving drivers or surviving pedestrians involved in fatal accidents.This information is also restricted and may only be used for statistical purposes which do not reveal the identity of the surviving drivers or surviving pedestrians.

The above statutory language madates that the information required to be submitted to the Department of Motor Vehicles is to be used for statistical purposes only. The statutes do not distinguish between the use of that information by the Department of Motor Vehicles and other state or local officials. As such, the use of this information is limited to the statistical purposes set out by the statutes.

Should local or state officials desire release information concerning the presence and percentage concentration of alcohol or drugs related to fatal motor vehicle accidents, those officials must request a separate test be conducted.

The court in Blackledge v. Martin K. Eby Construction Co., Inc., 542 F.2d 474 (1976), held these statutes:

> . . . merely provide that when a motor vehicle accident results in death, the coroner shall submit a report to the Department of Motor Vehicles; that when the driver is killed, the coroner shall examine the body for the presence of alcohol or drugs and include his findings thereon in his report; and that no part of the report may be used in ensuing court proceedings.

By combining the reasoning set forth in Blackledge, with the clear language of the statutes, we are able to arrive at the conclusion that the statutory restrictions apply to state, county and local officials, as well as to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Furthermore, the legislative history indicates that the statistical information, whether obtained or analyzed by the coroner,physician or the Department of Health, was intended to be used soley for statistical purposes. The legislature intended to provide a method whereby the information submitted in the report to the Department of Motor Vehicles would be accurate, while at the same time relieving the coroner, physician or individuals working for the Department of Health from any fear of being drawn into subsequent litigation. LB 66 (1974)

Committee on Agriculture and Environment, Page 9.

It has also been the policy of this office to quash any subpoenas issued upon the Department of Health or employees thereof, seeking to obtain testimony or evidence regarding the statistical information protected by the provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §§39-6,104.07 and 39-6,104.08 (Reissue 1978). The provisions of these statutes apply to the other state, county and local officials used to compile the information submitted in the report to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Secondly, you ask if there are any legal or constitutional problems in eliminating the provisions restricting the use of such information to statistical purposes from the statutes. As previously indicated in the foregoing paragraphs, the elimination of such restrictions could have wide spread legal ramifications. The physicians, coroners and employees of the Department of Health will become subject to extensive civil litigation regarding wrongful death and accident cases. Their testimony regarding the presence of alcohol or drugs in fatal accidents will be sought after by attorneys desiring to use this evidence as part of their cases.

Thirdly, you ask if the removal of the restrictions on the use of drug and alcohol information presently required under Neb.Rev.Sat. §§39-6,104.07 and 39-6,104.08 (Reissue 1978) will make this information subject to Nebraska's Public Records law? It is our opinion that the answer to this question is yes. This information will not be considered to be protected by the Public Record Act as defined in Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-712 (Reissue 1981). Thus, the Department of Motor Vehicles, would be required to release this information upon request. In addition, employees from the Department of Health involved in the determination of the presence of alcohol or drugs, as well as other state, local and county officials, will be subject to being called as witnesses in a potentially burdensome number of court cases.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Introduced by Hoagland, 6th District.

A Resolution to propose an amendment to Article VII, section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1984 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article VII, section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 10. The general government of the University of Nebraska shall, under the direction of the Legislature, be vested in a board of not less than six nor more than eight regents to be designated the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, who, until 1986, shall be elected from and by districts as herein provided and three students of the University of Nebraska who shall serve as nonvoting members. Such nonvoting student members shall consist of the student body president of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, the student body president of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and the student body president of the University of Nebraska Medical Center. The terms of office of elected members shall be for six years each. The terms of office of student members shall be for the period of service as student body president. Their duties and powers shall be prescribed by law; and they shall receive no compensation, but may be reimbursed their actual expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties.

The Legislature shall divide the state, along county lines, into as many compact regent districts, as there are regents provided by the Legislature, of approximately equal population, which shall be numbered consecutively.

The Legislature shall redistrict the state after each federal decennial census. Such districts shall not be changed except upon the concurrence of a majority of the members of the Legislature. In any such redistricting, county lines shall be followed whenever practicable, but other established lines may be followed at the discretion of the Legislature. Whenever the state is so redistricted the members elected prior to the redistricting shall continue in office, and the law providing for such redistricting shall where necessary specify the newly established district which they shall represent for the balance of their term.

Commencing in 1986, members of the Board of Regents shall be appointed by the Governor. As the term of each elected member of the board expires, the Governor shall appoint one new member until a total of eight appointed members serve on the board. Such appointed members shall be selected from their respective regent districts as such districts exist at the time of their appointment. The redistricting procedure of regent districts shall be the same as that prior to 1986. Appointments to the board shall be approved and ratified by the Legislature and the terms of such appointments shall be for six years. The nonvoting student positions shall be retained. The duties and powers of the members shall be prescribed by law; and they shall receive no compensation, but may be reimbursed their actual expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska. The proposition for the submission of the proposed amendment shall be placed upon the ballot in the following form:

> "A constitutional amendment to provide that membership to the Board of Regents shall be by appointment of the Governor subject to ratification by the Legislature and to provide for powers, duties, and expenses of the board.

Sec. 3. That the proposed amendment, if adopted, shall be in force and take effect immediately upon the completion of the canvass of the votes, at which time it shall be the duty of the Governor to proclaim it as a part of the Constitution of Nebraska.

Re: Training for care staff members, nurse's aides and orderlies employed in nursing homes.

Dear Senator Higgins:

At your request we have reconsidered our opinion to the Department of Health on June 22, 1983, that it may not require training courses of more than 20 hours in duration for nurse's aides, care staff members and orderlies. We have concluded it can, within the limitations discussed below.

Since a care staff member is defined in both Laws 1983, LB 235, sec. 2, and LB 273, sec. 1(2) as one approved not only by the nursing home administrator but also by the Department of Health to administer oral medication, we viewed this as the licensing of an occupation for which the Legislature itself had to set the qualifications. Thus the minimum of 20 hours of training the Legislature set as necessary to protect the public from such practitioners was also the maximum.

However, we have now determined that the above bills do not involve the licensing of care staff members, nurse's aides and orderlies, but the licensing of nursing homes. Training requirements for such staff members are not enforced by actions against the staff members, but by actions against the licenses of the nursing homes employing them. In such a situation the Legislature can delegate to the Department of Health the authority to specify staff qualifications so long as the Legislature specifies guidelines for doing so. Since such staff members must complete a current course of training within 120 days of initial employment, it follows that this is the maximum period of training that can be required of them. Within those time limits, the amount of training that can actually be required for care staff members, nurse's aides and orderlies will depend on the amount of training that will cover the required subjects and be reasonably related to ensuring competent performance by persons in each of those staff positions.

In conclusion, the Department of Health may adopt and promulgate rules and regulations prescribing a course of training for nurse's aides, care staff members and orderlies which may not be less than 20 hours in duration and may not be more than 120 days in duration.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 180
January 19, 1984

Dear Senator R. Johnson:

Your letter dated December 28, 1983, to Mr. Douglas has been referred to the undersigned. In that letter you requested an opinion from this office regarding the constitutionality of a bill providing for contractual fire protection of state owned property located in a rural or suburban fire protection district by a rural or suburban fire district. This bill is an amendment to Neb.Rev.Stat. §35-508(11) (1982 Supp.) which now provides for contractual fire protection of the Game and Parks Commission's property located within the district. The amendment also makes minor language changes to Neb.Rev.Stat. §35-508 (1982 Supp.).

There are two possible interpretations of the bill's provisions regarding contractual fire protection of state owned property by a fire district. Under one interpretation, the bill's provisions regarding contractual fire protection of state property are unconstitutional. Although no legal infirmities of a constitutional nature exist under the second interpretation, there are significant legal impediments to the enforcement of such contracts.

This office has consistently taken the position that rural and suburban fire districts have a legal obligation to protect state property within their districts regardless of whether taxes are paid by the state to support the district. In fact, the property of the state and its governmental subdivisions are expressly exempted from taxation by virtue of Article VIII, Section 2 of the Nebraska Constitution. If this bill is interpreted as authorizing rural and suburban fire districts to condition fire protection of state property on the existence of a contract between the state agency and the rural or suburban fire district in question, the bill is unconstitutional because it amounts of an unlawful attempt to tax state property in violation of Article VIII, Section 2 of the Nebraska Constitution. The bill would allow the district's board of directors to do indirectly what it may not do directly — levy taxes on state property.

If the bill is interpreted as authorizing state agencies to voluntarily enter into contracts with rural and suburban fire districts for the fire protection of state property and as requiring the districts to provide fire protection of such property whether or not a fire protection contract exists, then the bill is not constitutionally infirm. However, other significant legal barriers could prevent its enforcement. A necessary prerequisite to the existence and thus the enforceability of any contract is that consideration has been exchanged between the parties. In re Allen's Estate, 147 Neb. 909, 25 N.W.2d 757 (1947). A promise to do what the promisor is already legally bound to do is insufficient consideration to support a contract. Esterly Harvesting Machine Co. v. Pringle, 41 Neb. 265, 59 N.W. 804 (1894), 17 Am.Jur.2d §§119, page 465. In an action by a fire district to compel a state agency to pay the contract price for fire protection, the fire district would probably be unsuccessful on the ground that there was not an enforceable contract between the parties. In other words, the court would probably hold that since the fire district had a legal obligation to protect state property, the contract to provide fire protection fails for want of consideration and is unenforceable.

The remaining language changes which the amendment seeks to make in Neb.Rev.Stat. §35-508 (1982 Supp.) pose no discernible constitutional problems.

If you have any questions, please contact the undersigned.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Introduced by Revenue Committee: Carsten, 2nd District, Chairperson; Hannibal, 4th District; Hefner, 19th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; Landis, 46th District; Lundy, 36th District; Pappas, 42nd District; Sieck, 24th District.

PURPOSE: To undertake a comprehensive study of present procedures for collection of delinquent property taxes contained in Chapter 77, articles 18 and 19, and other relevant statutes. The study shall focus upon the present workability and cost-effectiveness of present statutory procedures and examine proposals for a comprehensive modernization of these statutes, most of which date from around the turn of the century. The study shall give consideration both to the need for local governments to have efficient and effective procedures for delinquent tax collection and to rights of individual property owners who can be deprived of their property for non-payment of a property tax which is imposed at very high rates in this state and which is often not in proportion to their ability to pay. Delinquency periods, delinquent interest rates, required notices, the timing of procedures, alternative methods of collection, and other relevant issues will be examined.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the Revenue Committee shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the Committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

ATTORNEY GENERAL’S OPINION

Opinion No. 182
January 27, 1984

Dear Senator Haberman:

Since this office represents the Department of Social Services in all of its litigation, our staff is knowledgeable of the child care center cases that go to court. Some of those in litigation come about by reason of a center or home refusal to obtain a license and thus submit to inspection. In such instances criminal charges can be filed or the county attorney and/or the Attorney General can file for an injunction under Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-1905 (Reissue 1981). Other cases reach district court following a revocation of a license by the Department of Social Services for failure to follow regulations that protect the safety or welfare of the children. The revocation can be appealed to the Director and after a hearing and decision there can be an appeal to the district court under Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-917 (Reissue 1981).

Our records indicate that only two or three cases a year reach the district court level. (Last year only one went to district court.) In recent years there have been none filed in county court.

In view of the fact that the present number of day care homes and centers requiring licensing generate only two or three cases a year, it is reasonable to predict that the addition of 325 providers (pre-school and employer sponsored day care) would result in a maximum of four to six cases. Such cases would be handled in conjunction with the other litigation this office is handling for the Department of Social Services and should have no substantial fiscal impact.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 181

Dear Senator DeCamp:

Your request as to the constitutionality of LB 926 was submitted to us on January 23, 1984, for review in our capacity as Special Assistant Attorney General. In accordance with guidelines established by Mr. Douglas and myself in connection with the discharge of my duties, I must inform you that the opinions expressed in this correspondence are exclusively mine. This correspondence does not, in any manner, reflect the opinion of Mr. Paul Douglas, Attorney General, or any of his assisstants.

Section 1 of LB 926 as presented to us for review as to its constitutionality provides that the Department of Banking may formulate a plan designed to protect the assets of an institution under its receivership. The governor may direct deposit funds of the state from the Treasurer's Cash Fund in the institution. This direction shall be made only if:

(1) the deposit is essential to protect the assets of depositors up to the amount guaranteed;

(2) the investment will not result in loss of state funds;

(3) failure of the institution will have a "seriously adverse impact on other financial institutions."

The deposit may be directed "even though the result may be reduced income from the funds deposited."

Section 2 of the Act authorizes the director to (1) reclassify claims, (2) classify claims for funds deposited based upon the amount of the claim, and (3) cause the financial institution to issue stock, notes or debentures to any class of depositors.

The issues presented are whether the Act is unconstitutional for any of the following reasons:

(1) Violates Article XIII, section 3:

> The credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association, or corporation, . . .

(2) Violates Article III, section 18:

> The Legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following cases, that is to say:
> . . .
> Granting to any corporation, association, or individual any special or exclusive privileges, immunity, or franchise whatever; . . .

(3) Violates Article I, section 16:

> No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or making any irrevocable grant of special privileges or immunities shall be passed.

(4) Violates either Article II, section 1, or Article III, section 1, (improper delegation of legislative authority.

(1) Does LB 926 have the effect of "extending the credit of the state in aid of any individual, association or corporation" contrary to the provisions of Article XIII, section 3, of the Nebraska Constitution?

The act provides that the deposit or investment in the institution under receivership may result in reduced income to the state. It would seem fairly obvious that this Act may have the effect of providing aid or assistance to a private enterprise.

Constitutionality is judged on what is authorized to be done, not merely on the basis of what is sought to be done by the parties. City of Beatrice v. Wright, 72 Neb. 689, 101 N.W. 1039, Sumnerville v. North Platte Valley Weather Control Dist., 170 Neb. 46, 101 N.W.2d 748.

Legislation which serves a public purpose is not unconstitutionally impermissible under Article XIII, section 3, because incidental benefits may occur to others. Lenstrom V. Thone, 209 Neb. 783, 311 N.W.2d 884, 888 (1981). The issue then is whether this legislation is for a public purpose. The Nebraska Supreme Court recently stated:

> It is for the Legislature to decide in the first instance what is and what is not a public purpose, but its determination is not conclusive on the courts. However, to justify a court in declaring a statute invalid because its object is not a public purpose, the absence of public purpose must be so clear and palpable as to be immediately perceptible to the reasonable mind. Chase v. County of Douglas, 195 Neb. 838, 241 N.W.2d 334 (1976).
> Lenstrom v. Thone, supra.

The maintenance of a viable banking industry has long been recognized as in the public welfare. For example, in Placek v. Edstrom, 148 Neb. 79, 26 N.W.2d 489 (1947), the Nebraska Supreme Court stated:

> It is generally held that: "Banks are indispensable agencies through which the industry, trade, and commerce of all civilized countries and communities are carried on; the business which they transact, though for private profit, is of a pre-eminently public nature, and is therefore universally recognized as a proper subject of legislative regulation under the police power of the state. The power of the legislature in this regard is supreme, subject only to such limitations as are imposed by the fundamental law."

See also, Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' decision in Noble State Bank v. Haskell, 219 U.S. 104, 31 S.Ct. 186 (1911).

If the legislative purpose in adopting this legislation is to maintain a viable banking system in this state, a public purpose would be promoted. Section 1 of the Act may be implemented only if "failure of the institution" would have "an adverse impact on other financial institutions in the state." It is at least questionable as to whether the "absence of a public purpose" is "so clear and palpable as to be perceptible to the reasonable mind." We, therefore, cannot conclude that this provision is unconstitutional under Article III, section 18.

2. Whether the classification of institutions in which deposits may be made under the Act constitutes special legislation in contravention of Article III, section 18, or Article I, section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution?

Pertinent portions of Article III, section 18, and Article I, section 16, of the Nebraska Constitution are:

> The Legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following cases, that is to say:
> . . .
> Granting to any corporation, association, or individual any > special or exclusive privileges, immunity, or franchise whatever; . . .

> Article III, section 18.
> No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or making any irrevocable grant of special privileges or immunities shall be passed.
> Article I, section 16.

The basic constitutional rules appropriate to these sections are set forth in United Community Services v. Omaha National Bank, 162 Neb. 786, 77 N.W.2d 576 (1956):

> "The power of classification rests with the legislature, and this power cannot be interfered with by the courts, unless it is clearly apparent that the legislature has by an artificial and baseless classification attempted to evade and violate the provisions of the constitution prohibiting local and special legislation." Allan v. Kennard, 81 Neb. 289, 116 N.W.63, 65. See, also, State ex rel. Cone v. Bauman, 120 Neb. 77, 231 N.W.693.

We cannot say that classifying institutions under receivership is an unreasonable classification under either of these constitutional provisions as they have been interpreted by the Nebraska Supreme Court.

3. Whether classification of claims as to the amount of the claim violates Article II, section 16, of the Nebraska Constitution or Article I, section 10, of the U.S. Constitution as to those claims which have already matured?

Classification of claims as to amounts would not appear to be an unconstitutionally impermissible classification as to claims arising after the effective date of the Act.

It would appear that under present Nebraska law creditors, including depositors would share pro rata in distribution of assets of a financial institution under receivership. Section 8-1,110, R.R.S. Nebraska; State ex rel. Sorensen v. State Bank of Belvidere, 122 Neb. 797, 240 N.W. 474 (1932). The depositors have a lien on the assets of the insolvent institution according to §8-1,110, R.R.S. Nebraska, which provides in part:

> The claims of depositors for deposits not otherwise secured and claims of holders of exchange shall have priority over all other claims, except federal, state, County, and municipal taxes, and subject to such taxes shall, at the time of the declaration of insolvency of a bank, be a first lien on all the assets of the bank from which they are due and thus in liquidation, . . .

See also, State ex rel. Sorensen v. State Bank of Omaha, 128 Neb. 148, 258 N.W. 280 (1934).

The Supreme Court of Nebraska in Luikart v. Higgins, 130 Neb. 395, 264 N.W. 903 (1936), has recognized that the legislature may change the remedy and methods of procedure under a past as well as a future contract. The legislature may not, however, impair the substantive rights of a party.

In Henssen Siak Shams v. Nebraska State Bank of Bloomfield, Neb., 48 F.2d 894 (8th Cir. 1931), the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals held a statutorily authorized reorganization plan to be unconstitutional, stating:

> But this plaintiff has made no new contracts, and it was not within the power of the Legislature to impair by statutory enactment the obligation of the contract he had nor to deprive him of any of his substantial security. If, therefore, the reorganization plan of the statute and what has been done under it accomplish such a wrong to the plaintiff, he cannot be without remedy in this court.

Id. at 896.

An Act which accelerated the terms of liability and payment was held to be unconstitutional in Luikart v. Higgins, 130 Neb. 395, 264 N.W. 903 (1936), where the court stated:

> Again, the 1930 amendment changes the time for payment of the stockholders' double liability from the time when the assets of the bank are exhausted to immediate payment upon an adjudication of insolvency. It would seem that this court may take judicial notice of the public records of the state that the liquidation of insolvent state banks requires several years. This change in the time of payment accelerates the date the liability is due and thus changes the obligation. Since time and method of payment are material parts of contractual obligations, a change thereof is an impairment. U. S. Const. art. I, sec. 10.
> The acceleration of the time of payment, which the 1930 amendment provides, deprives the stockholder of the use of the money for the period of time required for the liquidation of the bank. This increases the obligation materially, and increases the contractual liability. O'Connor v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., 97 Conn. 8, 115 Atl. 484; Shouse v. Quinley, 37 Pac. (2d)(Cal.) 89; Edwards v. Kearzey, 96 U.S. 595.

Id. at 398-99, 264 N.W. at 904-05.

The general authorities further cast serious doubt on the constitutionality of section 2 as to existing creditors of financial institutions. Corpus Juris Secondum states:

> Regulation of priorities. While some authorities have sustained an act regulating the priorities as between creditors whose debts were contracted prior to its passage, others have ruled that in its application to prior contracts such a statute or constitutional provision is unconstitutional as impairing their obligation, and the latter rule has been said to be supported by the weight of authority and reason.

16A C.J.S., Constitutional Law, § 388 pg. 70.

Further, American Jurisprudence states:

> In determining whether a statute creating preferences in the distribution of insolvent estates impairs the obligation of contracts, the cases depend largely on the question whether the statute affects merely the remedy or whether it alters the substantive rights of the parties. On the one hand, it has been held that a statute giving certain claims priority in insolvency proceedings involves no unconstitutional impairment of contract rights as applied to claims of creditors in existence at the time the statute was enacted, on the principle that it merely affects the remedy. . . . The legislature may constitutionally change the priority of payment as to existing contracts where the creditor has no lien. On the other hand, there is authority which supports the view that once the debt has been contracted, a statute which varies or alters the relationship in any way is unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts.
> 42 Am.Jur.2d Insolvency, §58 pg. 1242-3 (emphasis ours).

If applying this Act to existing insolvency proceedings would be unconstitutional, a court would undoubtedly give this section effect only as to future or prospective insolvency proceedings. It is our opinion that, as drafted, Section 2 of this legislation would therefore be effective only as to prospective insolvency proceedings. This section would thus be constitutional, but not effective as to the existing Commonwealth insolvency.

4. Whether section 2 of the Act is unconstitutional as an impermissible delegation to administration authorities of legislative authority under Article II, section 1, and Article III, section 1, of the Nebraska Constitution?

Section 2 of the Act authorizes the classification of claims as to amount by the Director and the issuance of stock, notes or debentures to some classes. The Act does not provide any guidelines as to what amounts are to be used nor as to who should receive stock, notes or debentures. In addition, the Act is silent as to the criteria to be utilized in setting the terms and conditions of any such stock, notes or debentures.

Under Article II, section 1, and Article III, section 1, of the Nebraska Constitution, legislative authority is vested in the legislature. Legislative authority may be delegated to administrative agencies. The constitutional issue is whether sufficient standards have been designated by the legislature.

In the recent case of State ex rel. Douglas v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance, 204 Neb. 445, 283 N.W.2d 12, Chief Justice Krivosha set forth the most current tests to be applied in this regard:

> The question of how far the Legislature should go in filling in the details of the standards which an administrative agency is to apply raises large issues of policy in which the Legislature has a wide discretion, and the court shall be reluctant to interfere with such discretion. Such standards in conferring discretionary power upon an administrative agency must be reasonably adequate, sufficient, and definite for the guidance of the agency in the exercise of the power conferred upon it and must also be sufficient to enable those affected to know their rights and obligations. 1 Am.Jur.2d, Administrative Law, §117, p. 923. The modern tendency is to be more liberal in permitting grants of discretion to an administrative agency in order to facilitate the administration of laws as the complexity of economic and governmental conditions increases. 1 Am.Jur.2d, Administrative Law, §118, p. 925. This is particularly true where, as here, the violation of any such regulation does not constitute a criminal act. We do not believe the authority granted the Fund by the Legislature is an unlawful delegation of powers reserved to the Legislature.
> Id. at 283 N.W.2d 24.

While the court has thus allowed a rather broad latitude, this Act provides absolutely no standard by which the director is to determine the classification as to amount or as to the effect of such classification. It is our opinion that this does constitute an impermissible delegation in contravention of Article II, section 1, and Article III, section 1, of the Nebraska Constitution and hence is unconstitutional as drafted.

Opinion No. 183

Dear Senator Schmit:

You have asked our opinion as to whether LB 654 is in violation of the provisions of Article VIII, Section 11, of the Nebraska Constitution. We are unable to see any way of avoiding the conclusion that that constitutional provision is violated by this bill.

LB 654 would provide that every public power district organized primarily to provide electricity which produces over three million megawatt hours of electrical power from coal fuel sources shall pay to the State Treasurer a sum equivalent to ten percent of the gross revenue derived by such districts during the preceding calendar year. We do not see how this could be described as anything other than a tax, and the drafter of the bill obviously also considered it to be a tax, because in Section 1 it is provided that the payment shall be "in addition to any other required taxes." (Emphasis supplied.)

Section 2 of the bill provides that such payments shall be deposited by the State Treasurer into a special fund known as the Local Government Grade Crossing Fund, and that such funds shall be used to construct and improve automatic crossing equipment, overpasses, and underpasses at railroad grade crossings in cities, villages, and unincorporated locals (sic) through which the trains delivering the coal run. This appears clearly to be a tax to finance a fund for a designated purpose.

Article VIII, Section 11, provides that public corporations and public subdivisions organized primarily to provide electricity shall make the same payments in lieu of taxes as they made in 1957, which payments shall be allocated in the same proportion to the same public bodies or their successors as they were in 1957. That section also authorizes the legislature to require each such public corporation to pay a sum equivalent to five percent of the annual gross revenue of such public corporation derived from retail sales of electricity within cities or villages, less an amount equivalent to the 1957 payments in lieu of taxes made by such public corporation with respect to property or operations in any such city or village. The payments in lieu of taxes as made in 1957, together with any payments made as authorized in that section of the Constitution shall be in lieu of all other taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise taxes, occupation and excise taxes, but shall not be lieu of motor vehicle licenses and wheel taxes, permit fees, gasoline taxes and other such excise taxes or general sales taxes levied against the public generally. The tax to be imposed by LB 654 does not come within any of the exceptions enumerated in Section 11.

It might be argued that the first paragraph of Section 11 provides for "every public corporation and political subdivision" to pay the in lieu of tax as made in 1957, whereas as paragraph 2 speaks only of "public corporations," and the prohibition against other taxes, it might be argued, apply only to public corporations, and not political subdivisions providing electricity. The argument might then go that public power districts are political subdivisions, and are not covered by the second paragraph of Section 11. This argument seems to be undercut, however, by Neb.Rev.Stat. §70-602 (Reissue 1981), which provides that a public power district created as thereinafter provided shall be a public corporation and political subdivision of the state. It therefore appears that a public power district is a public corporation organized primarily to provide electricity, and that the type of tax imposed by LB 654 may not be imposed upon it.

Very truly yours,

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

AM1839

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. The children who reside in this state are important resources. The State of Nebraska has a vital interest in these resources and, in order to protect and nurture such resources, has an obligation to assure that all children receive a quality education. At the same time the parents or guardians of children who reside in Nebraska are charged with the responsibility of caring for and instilling them with certain values and beliefs. Because of their beliefs, many parents and guardians believe that their children's education should be provided by a school which reflects their religious beliefs and that such a school should in no way be controlled by the state. It is the purpose of this act to achieve an appropriate balance between the state which has a legitimate interest in the education of Nebraska children and religious freedom.

Sec. 2. (1) A weekday church educational ministry or a private or denominational school shall be exempt from the accreditation, certification, or approval requirements prescribed by the laws of this state and the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education. The parent or legal guardian of children who attend such a ministry or school annually shall send to the county superintendent of schools a written statement containing the following provisions:

(a) That parent or legal guardian's religious beliefs mandate that his or her child attend such ministry or school;

(b) That parent or legal guardian agrees to have a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills administered to his or her child each year;

(c) That the child is in fact regularly attending school;

(d) That the child is receiving a structured program of education which covers all basic skills areas of study; and

(e) That such ministry or school is conducted within adequate physical facilities and with adequate instructional equipment and materials.

(2) If any parent or guardian refuses to furnish the statement required in subsection (1) of this section or if such statement contains fraudulent information, then the child of such parent or guardian shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201.

Sec. 3. Every child attending a weekday church educational ministry or a private or denominational school described in section 2 of this act shall be required annually to take a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills. Such test shall be chosen by the leadership of the ministry or school and administered in cooperation with the county superintendent of the school district in which the ministry or school is located. Each child attending the ministry or school shall be required to achieve a composite test score in basic skills at his or her chronological age level or demonstrate adequate annual advancement for his or her ability, except that no child shall be discriminated against due to a handicap or disability. If a child fails to achieve such test results for two consecutive years, then he or she shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201.

79-201. ~~Every~~ Except as provided in sections 2 and 3 of this act, every person residing in a school district within the State of Nebraska who has legal or actual charge or control of any child, not less than seven nor more than sixteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend regularly the public, private, denominational, or parochial day schools each day that such schools are open and in session except when excused by school authorities, unless such child has been graduated from high school. The term shall not be less than one hundred seventy-five days in any district, except that in the event of the failure of any district which receives twenty per cent or more of its total receipts for general fund purposes from federal sources, to actually receive receipts anticipated at the time of the adoption of the school budget from taxes, state funds, federal funds, tuition, or other sources, the board of education of such district may, at any time during the school year, elect to close all or part of its schools.

Sec. 5. That section 79-1229, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1229. All persons, except those employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, holding the official title of (1) superintendent of schools, (2) principal or supervisor of an accredited school, or (3) supervisor of any special subjects or subject in which such persons actually supervise the work of other teachers in that subject or those subjects, shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate.

Sec. 6. That section 79-1233, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1233. (1) Except for those persons employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, no ~~No~~ person shall be employed to teach in any public, private, denominational, or parochial school in this state who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education legalizing him or her to teach the grade or subjects to which elected, except that no Nebraska certificate or permit shall be required of persons teaching exclusively in junior colleges organized as part of the public school system.

(2) Public, private, denominational, or parochial schools in the state may employ persons who do not hold a valid Nebraska teaching certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education to serve as aides to a teacher or teachers. Such teacher aides may not assume any teaching responsibilities. A teacher aide may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his or her work.

Sec. 7. That section 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1701. ~~All~~ Except as provided in section 2 of this act, all private, denominational, and parochial schools in the State of Nebraska, and all teachers employed or giving instruction therein, shall be subject to and governed by the provisions of the general school laws of the state so far as the same apply to grades, qualifications, and certification of teachers and promotion of pupils. All private, denominational, and parochial schools shall have adequate equipment and supplies, and shall be graded the same and shall have courses of study for each grade conducted therein, substantially the same as those given in the public schools where the children attending would attend in the absence of such private, denominational, or parochial schools.

Sec. 8. That section 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1705. The county superintendent in first-class school districts, or the superintendent of schools in all other districts, where any private, denominational, or parochial school not otherwise inspected by an area or diocesan representative holding either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate is located, shall inspect such schools, except for any schools described in section 2 of this act, and report to the proper officers any evidence of failure to observe any of the provisions of sections 79-1701 to 79-1707. The ~~; PROVIDED, that the~~ Commissioner of Education, when in his or her judgment it is deemed advisable, may appoint a public school official other than the above, including a member of the State Department of Education, for such inspections. Such appointee shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate. The State Board of Education shall require the several county superintendents and superintendents of schools and appointed public school officials to make such inspections at least twice a year, and the school officers of such schools and the teachers giving instruction therein are required to permit such inspection and assist and cooperate in the making of the same.

Sec. 9. That original sections 79-201, 79-1229, 79-1233, 79-1701, and 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.".

AM1839

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. The children who reside in this state are important resources. The State of Nebraska has a vital interest in these resources and, in order to protect and nurture such resources, has an obligation to assure that all children receive a quality education. At the same time the parents or guardians of children who reside in Nebraska are charged with the responsibility of caring for and instilling them with certain values and beliefs. Because of their beliefs, many parents and guardians believe that their children's education should be provided by a school which reflects their religious beliefs and that such a school should in no way be controlled by the state. It is the purpose of this act to achieve an appropriate balance between the state which has a legitimate interest in the education of Nebraska children and religious freedom.

Sec. 2. (1) A weekday church educational ministry or a private or denominational school shall be exempt from the accreditation, certification, or approval requirements prescribed by the laws of this state and the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education. The parent or legal guardian of children who attend such a ministry or school annually shall send to the county superintendent of schools a written statement containing the following provisions:

(a) That parent or legal guardian's religious beliefs mandate that his or her child attend such ministry or school;

(b) That parent or legal guardian agrees to have a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills administered to his or her child each year;

(c) That the child is in fact regularly attending school;

(d) That the child is receiving a structured program of education which covers all basic skills areas of study; and

(e) That such ministry or school is conducted within adequate physical facilities and with adequate instructional equipment and materials.

(2) If any parent or guardian refuses to furnish the statement required in subsection (1) of this section or if such statement contains fraudulent information, then the child of such parent or guardian shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201.

Sec. 3. Every child attending a weekday church educational ministry or a private or denominational school described in section 2 of this act shall be required annually to take a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills. Such test shall be chosen by the leadership of the ministry or school and administered in cooperation with the county superintendent of the school district in which the ministry or school is located. Each child attending the ministry or school shall be required to achieve a composite test score in basic skills at his or her chronological age level or demonstrate adequate annual advancement for his or her ability, except that no child shall be discriminated against due to a handicap or disability. If a child fails to achieve such test results for two consecutive years, then he or she shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201.

Sec. 4. That section 79-201, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read

79-201. ~~Every~~ Except as provided in sections 2 and 3 of this act, every person residing in a school district within the State of Nebraska who has legal or actual charge or control of any child, not less than seven nor more than sixteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend regularly the public, private, denominational, or parochial day schools each day that such schools are open and in session except when excused by school authorities, unless such child has been graduated from high school. The term shall not be less than one hundred seventy-five days in any district, except that in the event of the failure of any district which receives twenty per cent or more of its total receipts for general fund purposes from federal sources, to actually receive receipts anticipated at the time of the adoption of the school budget from taxes, state funds, federal funds, tuition, or other sources, the board of education of such district may, at any time during the school year, elect to close all or part of its schools.

Sec. 5. That section 79-1229, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1229. All persons, except those employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, holding the official title of (1) superintendent of schools, (2) principal or supervisor of an accredited school, or (3) supervisor of any special subjects or subject in which such persons actually supervise the work of other teachers in that subject or those subjects, shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate.

Sec. 6. That section 79-1233, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1233. (1) Except for those persons employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, no ~~No~~ person shall be employed to teach in any public, private, denominational, or parochial school in this state who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education legalizing him or her to teach the grade or subjects to which elected, except that no Nebraska certificate or permit shall be required of persons teaching exclusively in junior colleges organized as part of the public school system.

(2) Public, private, denominational, or parochial schools in the state may employ persons who do not hold a valid Nebraska teaching certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education to serve as aides to a teacher or teachers. Such teacher aides may not assume any teaching responsibilities. A teacher aide may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his or her work.

Sec. 7. That section 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1701. ~~All~~ Except as provided in section 2 of this act, all private, denominational, and parochial schools in the State of Nebraska, and all teachers employed or giving instruction therein, shall be subject to and governed by the provisions of the general school laws of the state so far as the same apply to grades, qualifications, and certification of teachers and promotion of pupils. All private, denominational, and parochial schools shall have adequate equipment and supplies, and shall be graded the same and shall have courses of study for each grade conducted therein, substantially the same as those given in the public schools where the children attending would attend in the absence of such private, denominational, or parochial schools.

Sec. 8. That section 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1705. The county superintendent in first-class school districts, or the superintendent of schools in all other districts, where any private, denominational, or parochial school not otherwise inspected by an area or diocesan representative holding either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate is located, shall inspect such schools, except for any schools described in section 2 of this act, and report to the proper officers any evidence of failure to observe any of the provisions of sections 79-1701 to 79-1707. The ~~; PROVIDED, that the~~ Commissioner of Education, when in his or her judgment it is deemed advisable, may appoint a public school official other than the above, including a member of the State Department of Education, for such inspections. Such appointee shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate. The State Board of Education shall require the several county superintendents and superintendents of schools and appointed public school officials to make such inspections at least twice a year, and the school officers of such schools and the teachers giving instruction therein are required to permit such inspection and assist and cooperate in the making of the same.

Sec. 9. That original sections 79-201, 79-1229, 79-1233, 79-1701, and 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 184
January 30, 1984

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You wish to know whether a proposed amendment to the Nebraska Fair Employment Practice Act (FEPA), which would close the record of a Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission public hearing, would conflict with statutory open meeting provisions or with any constitutional right to know or obtain information.

The proposed subsection, which would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1119 (Reissue 1978), states:

> (5) The parties to any settlement agreement reached during the public hearing process but before the issuing of a final order by the Commission may stipulate to the confidentiality of such settlement agreement and the record.

We are of the opinion that the proposed subsection is not governed by the Nebraska public meetings statute, Neb.Rev.Stat. §84-1408 to 84-1414 (Reissue 1981, 1983 Supp.), which applies to rule making functions of public bodies. (See Attorney General Opinion #105, July 14, 1975). The NEOC public hearings, which are conducted before a hearing examiner, in contrast, are judicial in nature.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-119(1) states:

> In case of failure to eliminate any unlawful employment practice by informal methods of conference, conciliation, and persuasion, the commission may order a public hearing. If such hearing is ordered, the commission shall cause to be issued and served a written notice, together with a copy of a complaint, requiring the person, employer, labor organization or employment agency named in the complaint, hereinafter referred to as respondent, to answer such charges at a hearing before the commission at a time and place which shall be specified in such notice. Such hearing shall be within the county where the alleged unfair practice occurred. The complainant shall be a party to the proceeding, and in the discretion of the commission any other person whose testimony has a bearing on the matter may be allowed to intervene therein. Both the complainant and the respondent, in addition to the commission, may introduce witnesses at the hearing. The respondent may file a verified answer to the allegations of the complaint and may appear at such hearing in person and with or without counsel. Testimony or other evidence may be introduced by either party. All evidence shall be under oath > and a record thereof shall be made and preserved. Such proceedings shall, so far as practicable, be conducted in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable in the district courts of the State of Nebraska, and shall be of public record.

As an initial matter, the language of the proposed subsection is not clear. It could be interpreted to mean either that the parties may bind themselves but no one else to maintain the confidentiality of the settlement agreement and record or that the stipulation of confidentiality would extend to to exclude all persons who desired access to the information in question. Presuming that the latter interpretation is meant, it is our opinion that the proposed amendment is constitutionally suspect. We would have no quarrel with a proposal that the parties be able to stipulate among themselves that they will not release the terms of settlement or the record to other persons. We do believe, however, that the parties cannot constitutionally stipulate to close the record of the public hearing from public scrutiny.

From the language of the FEPA, the public hearing can be considered analogous to a trial in district court, in terms of the role of the parties, introduction of evidence and the like. Most importantly, the hearing, just as a trial, is public. This obviously means that members of the public, as well as the parties, their counsel and the hearing examiner, may be present. The "public" would include members of the media who may publish what occurred at the hearing.

The proposed amendment would essentially put a stop to public dissemination of such information even if the public hearing was already completed, merely by the parties reaching a settlement prior to the NEOC's issuance of a final order. The parties could conceivably cut off public access by accepting the terms of the hearing examiner's recommended order and decision and then calling for confidentiality of everything that occurred beforehand.

The First Amendment of the United States Constitution states that "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; . . ." The due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment extends this liberty from "invasion by state action." Nebraska Press Association v. Stuart, 427 U.S. 539, 556 (1976). In that case, the Court stated:

> Much of the information that the Nebraska courts enjoined petitioners from publishing was already in the public domain, having been revealed in open court proceedings or through public documents. Our prior cases have foreclosed any serious contention that further disclosure of such information can be suppressed before publication or even punished after publication. "A trial is a public event. What transpires in the court room is public property. . . . Those who see and hear what transpired can report it with impunity. There is no special perquisite of the judiciary which enables it, as

427 U.S. at 595-596. (Brennan, concurring opinion).

In addition, the Supreme Court, in Oklahoma Publishing Co. v. District Court, 430 U.S. 308 (1977), a criminal case involving a juvenile, ruled that "The First and Fourteenth Amendments will not permit a state court to prohibit the publication of widely disseminated information obtained at court proceedings which were in fact open to the public." 430 U.S. at 310. Citing Nebraska Press Association v. Stuart, supra, the Court stated:

> The Court noted that under state law the trial court was permitted in certain circumstances to close pretrial proceedings to the public, but indicated that such an option did not allow the trial judge to suppress publication of information from the hearing if the public was allowed to attend: "[O]nce a public hearing had been held, what transpired there could not be subject to prior restraint." 427 U.S. at 568.

430 U.S. at 311. See also Cox Broadcasting Corp. v. Cohn, 420 U.S. 469 (1975).

Your proposed amendment could act to suppress the disclosure of information obtained at a public hearing by persons who had a right to be there, simply by the agreement of the parties. In contrast to Stuart,which involved the balancing between the First Amendment and the Sixth Amendment guarantee of trial by an impartial jury in a criminal prosecution, the interest in avoiding potentially damaging publicity at a public hearing involving allegations of employment discrimination is not as compelling. By the time the dispute has reached the public hearing stage, the parties have had ample opportunity to reach a settlement through confidential procedures established under the FEPA. See Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1118(1) (1982 Cum.Supp.).

Very truly yours,

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADDRESS

GOVERNOR ROBERT KERREY TO THE LEGISLATURE

FEBRUARY 1, 1984

As I indicated in my State of the State Address last month, I am returning today to present to you a detailed plan for economic development in Nebraska.

This is a plan grounded in the belief that government should provide the foundation for individual freedom and opportunity. It is a plan which recognizes that we are a state of many different kinds of people, with different dreams, skills, resources, and plans.

Further, this is a state with young people learning in our public and private schools, playing in our public parks, reading in our public libraries, and enjoying our public museums and art galleries.

This is a state of communities, of churches, and of volunteer groups, all striving for a better Nebraska.

This is a state of farmers, ranchers, artists, manufacturers, professionals, employed and unemployed people. Some Nebraskans are just beginning their work lives; others are just ending them.

Government must provide opportunities for all.

As members of this body, you are faced today with more problems than most legislators who have wrestled with questions of how to invest, and regulate, and provide services to our people. Among the weighty items on your agenda are the Commonwealth insolvency, Christian schools, property tax relief, and now, the Holiday Inn decision.

But as you grapple with these issues, I ask that you bear in mind what we have accomplished and what we can accomplish in economic development. One Nebraska sucess story is Bob Allington. On my Industry Recognition tour, I met Bob Allington, who started ISCO which produces scientific instruments for labs and universities around the world. He told me that he was going to establish his company in Denver until he learned that tax exempt IDA bonds were available here. His company now employs 400 people in Lincoln. It identifies Nebraska internationally as a center of scientific achievement. It also raises the level of knowledge and scientific consciousness in this community.

Bob Allington is the human reality which tax exempt financing can bring to a community. I want you to recognize Bob, who is with us today, with a hand of appreciation.

The plan I offer you today is consistent with Bob's goals — with the goals of our people in this state — and can best be addressed through five distinct areas: Agriculture, Telecommunications, Education, Water, and Financing.

AGRICULTURE

Two major forces impacting agriculture today — forces especially important for independent producers — are the 1985 Farm Bill and the fiscal and monetary policies of our federal government. Participation in the Ag Forums will help us to understand and prepare for the '85 Farm Bill. And we will continue our efforts aimed at persuading the federal government to correct its fiscal and monetary policies. These policies have produced record real interest rates and a strong dollar, both of which have adversely affected basic agriculture.

It is one thing for a producer to go broke because of errors or weather or bad management. It is quite another thing to go broke because you aren't able to hurdle the barrier represented by a strong dollar. We can trust our farmers to be productive and to work hard to overcome the usual problems in agricultural production. But it's up to the political leaders to solve the problems our federal budget deficit creates.

One thing we can do is try to manage those entitlement programs over which we exert some control: Medicaid, Medicare, Food Stamps, Title 20 Social Services, AFDC. All are federal programs administered by the state. But with a statewide system of social services in place and a relatively stable client population, this state government ought to work hard to meet a goal of delivering social services with still greater efficiency.

There are a number of established things we've done in state government for agriculture. The contributions in education, research, and extension by our Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources have helped Nebraska farmers produce the lowest cost food and fiber in the world. We have spent money to manage, conserve, and develop our water resources. We have provided some marketing assistance for the export of our agricultural products. We have invested in a transportation system which enables us to trade with the world. We have developed production techniques that conserve soil, water, and energy, such as conservation tillage and irrigation management. We have developed grain-based fuel products to realize the potential of the raw materials we produce so well.

Now I would like to highlight two new programs I consider important for the future of agriculture in Nebraska.

Animal Science Complex

First, University involvement is important in the development of our agricultural economy. As I've mentioned before, I am supporting completion of the University's Animal Science Complex, which I expect to be one of the finest in the United States. This complex will provide our excellent research, education, and extension personnel with the tools to support and encourage not only Nebraska's $3 billion livestock industry, but also the meat processing industry, which is in critical need of increased research.

Increased emphasis on basic research is essential in animal agriculture if we are to capture and use the emerging potential of biotechnology. Nebraska's reliance on the livestock industry demands that we build toward leadership in that field.

As a leading livestock producing state, Nebraska represents both a major market and a logical testing and evaluation site for animal health care products and technology. Industrial concerns which manufacture and market animal health care products are now located in Nebraska. With the Animal Science Complex, the environment will be favorable for substantial expansion of this industry. Livestock-related products currently in use resulted from research discoveries at University and USDA reseach laboratories.

I continue to be in strong support of the Regional College of Veterinary Medicine as an important link in the economic development of animal agriculture on the High Plains. I believe if we can obtain the support of two other states in the construction and operation of this facility, coupled with the federal money, we will have a bargain.

Beginning Farmer Program

Second, I am recommending the establishment of a program targeted specifically for beginning farmers with limited resources and those farmers facing serious financial difficulties, the Nebraska Beginning Farmer Program. The program is not a government subsidy to prop up inefficient farmers. Rather, it is a recognition that the family farm unit is our most productive unit and, as is the case for all new businesses, high interest rates are a substantial barrier to getting started in 1984.

Specifics of the program are spelled out in LB 1005. I want to thank the twelve senators who have indicated their support of this bill.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

The telecommunication and information industry creates tremendous opportunities for Nebraskans. Today, I want to challenge all Nebraskans to join me in participating in this industry of the 21st century.

The Task Force on Communication and Information Systems Technology found that Nebraska has a strong communication and information industry, and great potential for dynamic growth. Nebraska can become a world-class center for the communications industry. Its growth will mean jobs. In addition, it will improve the social and political life of our citizens because they will have easier access to the world's information systems.

In a sense, the Task Force raised as many questions as it answered. Telecommunications is an industry which is changing rapidly in terms of both technology and regulatory environment. For example, while the Task Force was meeting, new international information systems were being integrated and the AT&T divestiture was taking place. We will not have unanimous agreement on these changes. It is an industry with alternative futures; which future is ours depends on the policies we establish and how we decide to manage that future as it unfolds. We must begin discussing the issues, then decide on the course of action for Nebraska, and move forward. The benefits will be tremendous. It will improve and diversify our economic base. It will create a lifestyle consistent with our desire for more information in order to better govern ourselves and to better take advantage of opportunities. It will allow us to improve our knowledge base, and knowledge is the critical concern in future economic growth. It will allow greater enjoyment during our leisure hours.

The Task Force clearly saw a need for us to become involved in three areas to help our people: education or new knowledge of these technologies; regulation; and economic development or accessing information and knowledge and turning it into economic activity.

To fulfill the principal Task Force recommendations, I am providing legislation along with a request for $470,000 to establish a Telecommunications and Information Center. The Center will be located in the Communications Division of the Department of Administrative Services. Without such a Center, Nebraska will not be able to capitalize on its opportunities. Thousands of new companies are now being formed to profit from the Information Age. Nebraska needs to participate. Nebraska must stake its claim now or it will quickly lose the race.

In addition to the establishment of the Telecommunications and Information Center, I am requesting that the Department of Revenue, the Public Service Commission, and the Department of Economic Development respond to the challenges of the report which pertain to them.

The Task Force raised a number of important questions with regard to the taxation of information under Nebraska's sales and personal property tax laws. The Department of Revenue needs to consider those and decide whether further action needs to be taken.

The report indicated that the Department of Economic Development has had a minimal involvement with the communications and information industry in the past. In turn, the report suggested that DED reallocate some of its personnel and resources in order to promote this industry in Nebraska. I am requesting full consideration and analysis of those suggestions and the development of a plan of action consistent with them.

The next two decades are widely projected to see the growth of the Information Age, which will produce major changes in our technological capabilities, job and industry structures, and institutional relationships. A major point made in the Task Force report is that the citizens of Nebraska can, with thoughtful and critical evaluation, take advantage of these changes to produce new jobs, consumer benefits, and increased economic activity within the state. Nebraska can, in fact, become a world-class center in several emerging areas of communications and information systems.

To accomplish this, we must make opportunities available to entrepreneurs through the Telecommunication Information Center which I recommended earlier. In order for the new information technology to be truly valuable, we need entrepreneurs who can anticipate and meet needs beyond the lab. In addition, our state agencies develop new integrated communications systems on a regular basis. The Telecommunication and Information Center can make these systems available to entrepreneurs who can deliver them to end users across the nation.

EDUCATION AND RESEARCH

If we are to have economic progress, we must provide education to the people of this state for their role as citizens and as potential competitors in a technological society and in the market place of ideas. I believe that is a sound economic development philosophy. This is, of course, a task which is never completed. Education is an ongoing process. It includes primary and secondary, public and private, universities, technical colleges, state colleges, and vocational training programs like the Jobs Partnership Training Act. There are always new technological and knowledge developments. New ideas need to be acquired, curricula changed, company training programs updated, and refresher courses provided. However, if we are all given the opportunity to become competent citizens, workers, professionals, and managers, we all become agents for economic development. Everyone is worthy of participating and everyone should be given that opportunity.

A number of my task forces emphasized the need for high quality educational institutions in order to encourage economic development, because, at its base, economic development is people. Knowledge is the mother of invention and invention the mother of resources.

For these reasons, I urge you again to support LB 994 to raise our teachers' salaries.

The base of an economy, I have suggested, is the result in large measure, of knowledge and technology and the exercise of individual choice. Therefore, we must also have people who are working at the very frontier of knowledge in our university research centers. Earlier, I discussed the need for advanced research in animal science and veterinary medicine. It is also true in numerous other areas. If Nebraska is going to continue its leadership position in telecommunications and information technology, it will need advanced research in the social and policy sciences for delivering analytically-based information systems. It will also need research assistance from the engineering, chemical, physical, and computer sciences. For this reason, I have previously approved the expenditure of one million additional dollars on computers at the University of Nebraska. We have also continued to support the Food Processing Center. Strong University of Nebraska-Lincoln research programs in disciplines relating to the food processing industry are essential to provide a technological resource base which will attract and serve an expanded food processing industry. The Nebraska Food Processing Center is a joint effort of UN-L and the Department of Economic Development.

The research base and technical expertise in the University is not being fully utilized if it cannot be readily accessed. A center to interface faulty and those who need technical assistance should be established. To do so, I am requesting that $125,000 be provided for establishment of a Nebraska Technical Assistance Center at the University of Nebraska. The Center will serve as a clearinghouse for technical assistance requests in order to link those with knowledge to those with technical problems.

WATER

Another consideration which is vital to economic development in Nebraska is our water resources. Critical to our number one industry — agriculture — and essential for maintaining the high quality of life which attracts and retains individuals in the state, no discussion of economic development in Nebraska would be complete without a discussion of water.

We are fortunate to have established a national leadership role in both the development and conservation of water resources. The Water Independence Congress which I convened in 1983 stands squarely in this tradition of leadership. It brought together forty Nebraskans representing a broad spectrum of water interests to work together for a common goal: a consensus water policy predicated on the best interests of the entire state.

Again, I support and urge you to support the water recommendations which I offered in my State of the State address.

Let me reemphasize that two things are abundantly clear to me from the Water Congress report. We must maintain the tradition of local control in the management of our water resources. And the state's Chief Executive should be accountable to the people of Nebraska for both the successes and failures in Nebraska water policy. The recommendations of the Water Congress provide the framework we need to move forward and continue our heritage as national leaders.

Water policy is also a controversial issue because it is an issue of balance — balance between exploitation and preservation. The goal is to conserve water resources while utilizing them for our economic welfare. Anytime there are decisions to be made with regard to balance, different interests will find that balance to be at a different point along the spectrum of possibilities. Dealing with the controversy, we can arrive at a collective consensus.

FINANCE

The flow of finances and its cost may seem to many to be an abstract issue unrelated to our human aspirations and social concerns. That is an incorrect assumption. For individuals and firms, access to money and credit often determines what can be done economically. The lack of affordable finance denies the individuals opportunities to pursue their economic visions. It denies communities economic and social viability.

Inadequate funding also can prevent businesses from giving workers an opportunity to express their workmanship. It can prevent communities from financing their infrastructure expenditures. A well functioning finance and credit system can be designed for the pursuit of human goals. Credit institutions should be arranged to finance whatever the economy's resources, trained labor force, and cultural climate will permit.

Today, we in Nebraska still do not have sufficient financing mechanisms at affordable interest rates. We still have capital gaps. Due to the large federal deficit, real interest rates are too high and the dollar is too expensive. It is hurting our farmers and our businesses which produce for export to other countries. Therefore, we must do more with tax exempt bonds, provide equity capital for small businesses, obtain more UDAG and community block grants, and make greater use of our public pension funds.

NIFA

In its brief five-month history since August 1983, NIFA has compiled an impressive record in promoting the state's agricultural and economic growth and in expanding housing opportunity. Tax exempt bonds project a veil of technical jargon and high finance. Behind that veil are human stories like Bob Allington's.

NIFA can do still more to improve communities. LB 954 will expand NIFA's opportunities to stimulate development, finance community infrastructure facilities, and to make funds available for energy conservation projects.

Small Business Development Authority

There are serious capital gaps for small businesses in Nebraska. My Small Business Equity Task Force said that if the economy is going to prosper, small business start-ups and expansions have to be encouraged. If we want jobs, production, and innovation, then small business enhancement must be an important part of our economic devlopment effort. Although small businesses create most of our new jobs, have a high rate of innovation, and as a whole are profitable, they do not have adequate access to venture and equity funds. Therefore, I am supporting the passage of LB 1117 to establish the Small Business Development Authority Act.

There is a need for "patient money" for Nebraska businesses — capital for which the investor can wait for return while the business is becoming established. The early years of a business are usually years of a negative-cash flow. If the business must depend on debt capital, it is left in a precarious situation and cannot generate the cash flow necessary to make the interest and principal payments.

To fill the equity capital gaps in Nebraska, the Task Force designed an equity capital corporation like the Small Business Development Authority to provide equity funds, subordinated debt, and technical assistance. The equity capital corporation is not intended as a subsidy program. It is not designed to save dying industires, prop up poor management, provide incentives, or help untenable new businesses. It is designed to provide funding for viable new and expanding small businesses.

The purpose of the Small Business Development Authority will be to bring together both the funds and the technical assistance necessary to make it possible for small businesses to obtain capital. Many services, such as technical assistance and business planning, are not readily accessible to our entrepreneurs. The Omaha Small Business Administration and Omaha Chamber of Commerce said in their report that the lack of an organization to "advise on how to start a business at the very early conceptual stage of development" is currently hurting entrepreneurial activity in that city. Therefore, the purpose of the Small Business Development Authority is to provide: assistance in preparation of a business plan, technical and managerial counseling, equity capital searches, and the provision of equity capital to small businesses.

I am requesting $150,000 in funds to provide personnel and office for the Small Business Development Authority.

Federal Grant Programs

We will also target Community Development Block Grants for increased economic development and we will pursue Urban Development Action Grants. Both can be used to leverage development and effectively add equity to a project.

Pension Investment Task Force

And we will continue to recommend to the Investment Council that they study how pension funds might be targeted to Nebraska business investments in a manner more consistent with both the prudent man rule and the greater return on investment concept.

But let's remember that economic development is more than agriculture, telecommunications, education, water, and financing.

Economic development is also services which enable a disabled worker to increase his or her productivity, a new airport runway to more efficiently link Nebraskans with still greater opportunities, health promotion and disease prevention activities which strengthen our workforce, and health cost control efforts which increase Nebraska's attractiveness to prospective new businesses and industries. It is disseminating labor market information to businesses so that they can make better-informed decisions, and regulating our banks, savings and loans, and insurance companies to protect our money. It is helping our veterans move productively back into society. It is strong schools staffed by dedicated teachers performing the duties schools ought to perform. It is protecting our citizens from crime and providing assistance in time of accidents or disasters. It is a quality road system and integration of rail planning with road construction to ensure efficient and safe transportation of Nebraskans, their goods, and their services. It is prudent management of our precious water resources, conservation of energy, and reduction of energy costs. It is our lively arts, our museums, and our educational television, which inspire, inform, and relax us. It is our Small Business Revitalization Program, technical assistance to businesses, and our "Mainstreet" Improvement Program for community business districts. It is providing public assistance recipients with the job skills vital for productivity and self esteem.

From Lou Lamberty and the Department of Roads to Don Dworak and the Department of Economic Development; from Ron Sorensen in the Department of Labor to Rob Raun in the Department of Agriculture and Sonny Foster with the Jobs Training Partnership Act; from the Department of Public Institutions to Social Services, Water Resources, Energy, Health, and the Department of Administrative Services, state agencies and their staffs are and should be hard at work for economic development.

The items I am proposing today are constructive, and can contribute significantly to the prosperity and well-being of Nebraskans, acting as tools by which Nebraskans can build their own futures. With patience, perseverance, and a commitment to tomorrow, we can effectively build opportunities for all our people, and thereby build a future which captures our best hopes and dreams. We have the essential requirements: a solid past on which to draw, faith in the family and in the community as basic building units, and a good deal of faith in what we can accomplish. With those qualities, we will surely succeed."

The Committee escorted the Governor from the Chamber.

Introduced by Hoagland, 6th District; Labedz, 5th District; Withem, 14th District; Newell, 13th District.

WHEREAS, access to higher education in Nebraska is greatly assisted by guaranteed student loans; and

WHEREAS, many Nebraska students could not afford the college of their choice without a guaranteed student loan; and

WHEREAS, many Nebraska banks make such loans but are dependent upon a secondary market to purchase and service the loans; and

WHEREAS, most small banks in Nebraska would cease lending to financially needy students without a secondary market which meets their specific needs; and

WHEREAS, the federal government has in the past encouraged the creation of state student loan bond issue authorities to provide a secondary market; and

WHEREAS, the tax-exempt bond issues of The Nebraska Higher Education Loan Program (NEBHELP) have provided a secondary market for Guaranteed Student Loans; and

WHEREAS, the United States Department of Education has recently disapproved and delayed further bond issues for many states, including Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, Congress has considered a limit on most tax-exempt bond issues, which would further jeopardize Nebraska student loan bond issues; and

WHEREAS, these actions could severely limit access to higher education in Nebraska and elsewhere.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That the United States Department of Education be encouraged to approve, in accordance with law, student loan bond issues which meet a demonstrated need.
2. That Congress should not place a limit on student loan bond issues as part of a general tax-exempt bond limit, for current law already provides a review of need by the United States Department of Education.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 185
January 31, 1984

Dear Senator Newell:

You have asked two questions regarding the constitutionality of LB 814 and LB 922, both scheduled for committee hearings in the near future.

You first ask, if the state assumes operation of the technical community colleges as provided for in the bills, whether revenue bonds presently issued by governing area boards would have to be liquidated to avoid a violation of Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution, providing in part that the credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association or corporation. To some extent, this issue also requires an analysis of Article XIII, Section 1 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Initially, it should be noted that Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-1438.04 (Reissue 1981) provides that revenue bonds issued by the technical community colleges are to be "payable solely out of their revenue." That section further provides that "[b]onds issued . . . shall not be an obligation of the State of Nebraska, and no tax shall ever be levied to raise funds for the payment thereof or interest thereon." This section would appear to clearly provide that the state is not secondarily liable on the bonds, that the revenue bonds involved are satisfied only by the revenue-raising capacity of the secured item, and are not an obligation of the state, nor a giving of the credit of the state to aid an individual, association, or corporation in violation of Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution. In our opinion LB 814 and LB 922 will not render the state secondarily liable on revenue bonds already issued and outstanding. However, our opinion that the state does not become secondarily liable on revenue bonds already issued and outstanding is confined to our review of the provisions of LB 814 and LB 922, and Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-1438.04 (Reissue 1979). As you know, this office did not act as bond counsel to any area boards who may have issued revenue bonds. Therefore, we have not reviewed the documents surrounding those issuances and can only opine that nothing in LB 814 or LB 922 or Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-1438.04 (Reissue 1979) would render the state secondarily liable on the area board's revenue bonds issued and presently outstanding.

In our view, neither LB 814 nor LB 922 violate Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution. First, neither LB 814 nor LB 922 obligate the state for the payment of outstanding revenue bonds. Thus, the credit of the State of Nebraska has not been loaned or given in aid of any individual, association, or corporation. Second, to prove a violation of Article XIII, Section 3, one must show that the credit of the state or a governmental subdivision of the state has been given for a private rather than a public use. State ex rel. Beck v. City of York, 164 Neb. 223, 82 N.W.2d 269 (1957). Assuming the revenue bonds were raised for the purposes set forth in Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-1438.04 (Reissue 1979), the credit of the area boards was given or lent in aid of a public not a private use. Under those circumstances, there can be no violation of Article XIII, Section 3.

However, if the state became secondarily liable on the revenue bonds by virtue of the provisions contained in the documents attendant the issuance of revenue bonds, to which we are not privy, our analysis does not stop with Article XIII, Section 3. One must then determine whether the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1 of the Nebraska Constitution have been violated. That section prohibits the state from contracting debts in excess of an aggregate of $100,000, with certain exceptions not relevant here. The "special fund doctrine" has evolved as an exception to this constitutional prohibition and generally applies where an indebtedness incurred in the construction of a project is payable solely from revenue arising from the operation of the project. In Nebraska, the special fund doctrine is not applicable to obligations whether primary, secondary, or contingent, payable from sales, excise or income taxes. State ex rel. Douglas v. Thone, 204 Neb. 836, 286 N.W.2d 249 (1979). Thus, if the state became secondarily liable on bonds in excess of $100,000 it is likely that this obligation would be payable from the general revenue of the state. Thus, the special fund doctrine would not aid the state in its argument that Article XIII, Section 1 has not been violated. In our view, that section would be violated if, by virtue of the documents used in issuing any of the area board's revenue bonds, the state is made secondarily liable for payment of the bonds. Confining our opinion to LB 814, LB 922 and Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-1484.04, we see no constitutional problems with respect to Article XIII, Section 1 of the Nebraska Constitution as it relates to revenue bonds already issued and outstanding since the state is not obligated on the bonds.

You next ask whether the funding provisions of LB 922 would violate Article VIII, Section 1A of the Nebraska Constitution, providing a prohibition on the state levying a property tax for state purposes, or the teachings of State ex rel. Western Nebraska Technical Community College Area v. Tallon, 192 Neb. 201, 219 N.W.2d 454 (1975) (Tallon I), and State ex rel. Western Technical Community College Area v. Tallon, 196 Neb. 603, 244 N.W.2d 183 (1976) (Tallon II).

In Tallon I the Supreme Court of Nebraska held that where the state assumes the control and the primary burden of financial support of a state-wide system of technical community colleges, the property tax levy statutorily provided for was for a state purpose within the meaning of the aforementioned constitutional provision. This provision for partial funding of the community college system through a state property tax levy was for a state purpose, and therefore ran afoul with Article VIII, Section 1A, prohibiting property tax levies for state purposes.

In Tallon II the court found that the Legislature had repealed the unconstitutional aspects of the technical community college system statutory scheme and replaced it with a provision which passed constitutional muster. Specifically, the court found that the technical community college areas had become essentially local in character — the area boards exercised control, like a state commission acting as a conduit for federal funds and only in an advisory capacity. As the technical community college system had become local in character, the non-compulsory property tax levy was not a property tax for state purposes in violation of Article VIII, Section 1A.

It can be strongly argued that LB 922 meets the constitutional standards set forth in the foregoing cases. LB 922 provides for state administration of the technical community colleges beginning on July 1, 1988, replacing the area boards now in existence. Under the authority of Tallon II, the area boards may constitutionally levy property taxes. However, in Section 28 of the bill, Neb.Rev.Stat. 79-2651 is to be amended to prohibit the state administrative board from levying property taxes after July 1, 1988, the effective date of state administration. As the area boards appear to remain in control until July 1, 1988, under the act, and at that time the state board is expressly barred from levying a property tax, there has been no violation of the foregoing constitutional provision. With an explicit prohibition against property tax levy by the state board provided in the bill, the requirement of Article VIII, Section 1A is met.

However, it can also be argued that a "state" rather than "local" purpose predominates in LB 922 as evidenced by (1) the statement of legislative intent (LB 922, Section 28(2)), and (2) the Legislature's commitment to appropriate by the 1985-1986 fiscal year more than 50 percent of all technical community colleges' budgets and by the 1986-1987 fiscal year nearly 100 percent of their annual budgets. Although the powers of the area boards remain intact until July 1, 1988, the state will have assumed approximately 91 percent of the financial burden of the technical community college system by the 1986-1987 fiscal year. Tallon II was a plurality decision, the precedental value of which is not as solid as it might be in view of the fact it was a split decision by a court whose members, save one, are not currently members of the Nebraska Supreme Court. We cannot unequivocally predict that the current court would now follow the authority of Tallon II. However, we cannot conclude that LB 922 is clearly unconstitutional as violative of Article VIII, Section 1A of the Nebraska Constitution.

Opinion No. 186

Dear Senator Abboud:

You have submitted to us a proposed constitutional amendment, and have asked our opinion as to its constitutional validity. While the proposed amendment is quite long, we will quote it in full, because we do not feel we understand it well enough to try to summarize it. It reads:

> The governor and the legislators and officials of the State of Nebraska are prohibited from approving legislation or issuing directives which result in general fund expenditures in excess of revenues collected be the state. Those revenues shall include all taxes, fees, franchise fees and other charges made by the authority of the Legislature. The governor and state legislators are prohibited from increasing expenditures by the State of Nebraska in any fiscal year over the amount spent in the prior year when the average income of Nebraska residents increases; the increase in such a fiscal year may increase at a rate of one-half that of the average personal percapita (sic) income except that the maximum increase shall be no more that (sic) 5% in a single fiscal year. The average per capita income data shall be derived from published official reports of the U.S. Department of Commerce or successor agency, and the figure to be used in 1984 shall be the latest published data nearest the convening of the Legislature in 1985 and shall be of the same data in succeeding years. Revenues collected in excess of limits stipulated in this amendment shall be escrowed by the State Treasurer and retained as receipts for the next following fiscal year, and tax rates, fees and other charges shall be adjusted to reflect the escrowed amount as to revenue collection in the year of appropriation. Transfers in spending authority between the state and subdividions of the state shall require equal and concurrent adjustments in levying authority and of the budget or appropriation level, and no transfers are permitted until the required implementing legislation is in effect. The provisions of this amendment may be set aside for a single fiscal year upon the public declaration of a fiscal emergency, a public hearing following public notice and an approving vote of not less that (sic) four-fifths of the membership of the State Legislature. The members of the State Legislature are required to enact legislation and rules of the legislature as the first order of business in the first session of the legislature following voter approval of this amendment. The Attorney General of the state shall initiate action to enforce the provisions of this amendment. This amendment shall become effective July 1, 1985.

Since we are dealing with a proposed constitutional amendment, somewhat different ground rules apply than if we were dealing with a statute. A conflict with another provision of the Nebraska Constitution would not ordinarily be enough to invalidate it, since the amendment, if adopted, would stand on an equal footing with other constitutional provisions.

Nevertheless, a constitutional amendment may be invalid if it conflicts with the United States Constitution, as was established by State ex rel. Douglas v. State Board of Equalization and Assessment, 205 Neb. 130, 286 N.W.2d 729 (1979). It is also possible that the court might invalidate an amendment if it were in irreconcilable conflict with some other constitutional provision which the court regarded as absolutely fundamental to the operation of our system of government, although the court would probably try to base its holding on some federal constitutional provision.

A fundamental requirement of a statute is that it not be vague and uncertain. In State ex rel. Douglas v. Herrington, 206 Neb. 516, 294 N.W.2d 330 (1980), the court said that the established test for vagueness in a statute is whether it either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application.

We realize that the above case, and other Nebraska cases reciting the same rule, were speaking of statutes, not constitutional provisions . However, the United States Supreme Court has found statutes void for vagueness in violation of the federal constitution, presumably the due process clause. See, Whitehall v. Elkins, 389 U.S. 54, 19 L.Ed.2d 228, 88 S.Ct. 184 (1967). We do not believe that court would hold that the states could violate the federal constitution by a provision in a state constitution which would be void if found in a statute.

There are several areas in the amendment that we, at least, don't understand. What does the first sentence mean? Appropriations by the Legislature, not the "legislators," the Governor, or officials of the state, result in expenditures from the general fund. Is it intended to prohibit the Governor from signing an appropriation bill which would increase appropriations beyond the limits prescribed? Does it require him to veto it? What would be the result of his simply doing nothing for five days, as provided by Article IV, Section 15 of the Constitution, thereby allowing it to become law without his signature? If an appropriation is made in excess of the limits imposed, are "officials of the state" prohibited from spending it? None of these questions is answered.

The third sentence prohibits the Governor and "legislators" from increasing expenditures in any fiscal year over the amount spent in the prior year "when the average income of Nebraska residents increases." (Emphasis supplied.) We find no similar provision for years in which the average income of Nebraska residents decreases. Presumably, there is to be no limit on increased expenditures in such a year.

With respect to the provision about transfers in spending authority between the state and its subdivisions, we simply don't understand it. Perhaps it is a defect in our understanding, rather than a defect in the wording of the amendment, but we have no idea what it means.

The amendment also provides that "The members of the State Legislature are required to enact legislation . . . in the first session . . . following voter approval of the amendment." The Attorney General is required to initiate action to enforce the provisions of the amendment. What if the Legislature does not do so? The court would probably hold it was a violation of the doctrine of separation of powers for it to try to mandamus the Legislature, or the individual members thereof, to enact legislation. We believe such a provision to be completely unenforceable.

We believe the amendment would require considerable clarification before it could be successfully defended or enforced.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 187
February 2, 1984

Dear Senator Hefner:

You have asked our opinion as to the constitutionality of LB 444, and whether it conflicts with LB 169, enacted by the 1983 Legislature.

LB 444, a bill to adopt the public Education Income Tax Act, would create a new income tax, the proceeds of which would be used for education. Section 5 of the bill provides that the rate of tax would be set by the State Board of Education pursuant to standards and procedures specified in that section. Your constitutional question is whether this is a proper delegation of legislative authority to raise taxes to the State Board of Education.

An almost identical question was answered in Anderson v. Tiemann, 182 Neb. 393, 155 N.W.2d 322 (1967), in which a contention was made that there was an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to the State Board of Equalization and Assessment in the original Sales and Income Tax Act, in that that board was given the power to set tax rates. The court pointed out that the act explicitly set out the computations to be made by the state board, and that, with such standards, the delegation of such power was valid and lawful, and did not violate the state or federal constitution. The fixing of the tax rate pursuant to Section 5 of LB 444 involves a simple computation using specified figures, and would not be an unconstitutional delegation under the principles of Anderson v. Tiemann.

You also point out that by the enactment of LB 169 in 1983 the Legislature took the authority to set income tax rates from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, and assumed that authority itself. You ask whether there is a conflict. We conclude that there is not.

LB 169 amended §77-2715.01, which now provides that commencing in 1984 the Legislature shall annually set the rate of income tax imposed by §77-2715 for the taxable year beginning in the subsequent calendar year. Since the tax to be imposed by LB 444 would not be imposed by §77-2715, there is no conflict whatever.

You call our attention to the fact that Section 2(6) of LB 444 defines the public education income tax rate as the rate set by the State Department of Education pursuant to Section 5 of the act, while Section 5 provides that the rate shall be established by the State Board of Education. There is obviously a conflict which should be resolved. Article VII, Sections 2 and 3 of the Constitution creates the State Department and the State Board of Education. They are not the same entity, since the State Department of Education is comprised of the State Board of Education and a Commissioner of Education.

We also call your attention to the fact that Section 7 provides that no school district shall receive any state aid, except from the public education income tax, unless the school district has a property tax levy which is at least as high as the average school property tax levy established pursuant to Section 6 of the act. However, Section 6 of the act contains no reference whatever to an average school property tax levy. This creates an area of ambiguity and uncertainty which should be resolved.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

"Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the Business Trust Act.

Sec. 2. The purposes of the Business Trust Act are to:

(1) Specifically provide for the creation of business trusts which shall be an entity separate and distinct from other forms of commercial organizations in Nebraska, including partnerships, corporations, associations, syndicates, and other types of trusts;

(2) Promote greater flexibility and adaptability in commercial enterprises within the State of Nebraska; and

(3) Regulate business trusts which now exist in the State of Nebraska, and which may be hereafter created.

Sec. 3. As used in the Business Trust Act, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) Business trust shall mean an unincorporated business association of the type which at common law was known as a common law trust, business trust, or Massachusetts trust, created by a trust instrument known as a declaration of trust under which property is held, managed, administered, controlled, invested, reinvested, and operated by trustees for the benefit and profit of such persons as are or may become the holders of transferable certificates evidencing beneficial interests in the trust estate;

(2) Domestic business trust shall mean a business trust created under the laws of this state; and

(3) Foreign business trust shall mean a business trust created under the laws of a foreign country or of a territory or state other than Nebraska.

Sec. 4. Two or more persons, whether residents of this state or not, may organize and associate themselves together for the purpose of transacting business in this state under a business trust, except that no such business trust shall transact any business of insurance or banking in this state.

Sec. 5. Every business trust organized under the Business Trust Act for the purpose of transacting business in this state shall, prior to transacting any business in this state, file in the office of the Secretary of State a true and correct copy of the declaration of trust under which the trust proposes to conduct its business, which copy shall be sworn to, as being a true and correct copy, by the trustees named in such declaration to trust. The business trust shall then be authorized to transact business in this state, if all other applicable laws have been complied with.

Sec. 7. The declaration of trust may be amended as provided in the declaration of trust or in any amendments thereto. All such amendments to the declaration of trust shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and upon the filing of the amendments and the payment of the prescribed filing fee to the Secretary of State, each such amendment shall become effective.

Sec. 8. When the copy of the declaration of trust required by section 5 of this act and any amendments thereto shall have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, such filing or filings shall constitute public notice of the information included and the purposes and manner of the business to be conducted by such trust.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

AM1858

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as the Public Education Income Tax Act.

Sec. 2. For all taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1985, in addition to the tax imposed by sections 77-2714 to 77-27,135, a public education income tax is hereby imposed for each taxable year on the income of individuals, trusts, estates, and corporations. The tax shall be a flat percentage of:

(1) For each resident individual, the taxpayer's federal adjusted gross income for the taxable year;

(2) For each nonresident individual, the taxpayer's federal adjusted gross income for the taxable year which is attributable to income derived from sources within this state;

(3) For each resident trust or estate, the taxpayer's federal taxable income for the taxable year;

(4) For each nonresident trust or estate, the taxpayer's federal taxable income for the taxable year which is attributable to income derived from sources within this state; and

(5) For each corporation, the taxpayer's federal taxable income for the taxable year which is attributable to income derived from sources within this state.

There shall be subtracted from the amounts specified in subdivisions (1) through (5) of this act all income exempt from taxation by state government due to federal law.

For any taxpayer whose taxable year does not coincide with the calendar year, the rate initially set shall also apply for the period from January 1, 1985, to the last day of the taxpayer's then current taxable year. In each subsequent tax year such taxpayer shall pay the tax at the rate in effect on the first day of such tax year.

Sec. 3. The Department of Revenue shall have the responsibility for the collection and enforcement of the tax levied by section 2 of this act. The pertinent provisions of sections 77-2714 to 77-27,135 shall apply to the Public Education Income Tax Act, except as modified or when otherwise inconsistent with the act, regarding the determination of income subject to tax, the definitions of terms, the filing of returns, the withholding and payment of estimated tax, the collection and enforcement of the tax, and other matters arising out of the provisions of the act. The tax shall be made a part of, or shall be incorporated into, the state income tax return.

Sec. 4. (1) The public education income tax rate shall be a statewide uniform rate for all taxpayers subject to the public education income tax. The tax rate shall be determined by the State Board of Education on or before December 1 of each year for the taxable year beginning in the subsequent calendar year. The rate shall be determined by dividing one half of the total state adjusted school district expenses by the total federal adjusted gross income of resident individuals, using such figures from the most recent year both figures are available. The board shall then immediately notify the Department of Revenue of the public education income tax rate for the subsequent taxable year.

(2) For purposes of this section and section 7 of this act, total state adjusted school district expenses shall mean the total cost of financing operations of all school districts in this state as defined by the State Board of Education, minus (a) federal funds used to pay for such costs and (b) state funds used to pay for such costs other than funds from the public education income tax and the Public Education Finance Fund.

Sec. 5. The Department of Revenue shall collect the public education income tax concurrently with collection of the state income tax in the same manner as the state income tax is collected. The Department of Revenue shall remit monthly the proceeds of the public education income tax from resident individuals to the school district in which the taxpayer is a resident, after deducting amounts for necessary refunds. In the case of Class I and Class VI school districts with overlapping boundaries, each district shall receive a prorated amount of public education income tax receipts attributable to residents of both districts which amount shall be determined by the State Board of Education.

Sec. 6. The Public Education Finance Fund is hereby created. The fund shall consist of the proceeds of the public education income tax from trusts, estates, corporations, nonresident individuals, resident individuals for which a school district of residency cannot be determined, and such additional sums as are appropriated by the Legislature. The money in such fund, after deducting amounts for necessary refunds, shall be distributed to school districts pursuant to section 7 of this act.

Sec. 7. (1) No school district shall receive funds from the Public Education Finance Fund unless the school district's property tax rate equals or exceeds the state average school district property tax rate. If a school district's property tax rate equals or exceeds the state average school district property tax rate, then the school district may receive from the Public Education Finance Fund the amount by which the statewide average per pupil costs, or the school district's average per pupil costs, whichever is determined by the Department of Education to be less, multiplied by the school district's enrollment, as identified in the fall school district enrollment report, exceeds the total amount of funds received by the school district from the public education income tax on resident individuals plus a property tax levy equal to the state average school district property tax levy.

(2) The Department of Education shall on or before September 1 of each year determine the state average school district property tax rate by dividing the total state adjusted school district expenses for the preceding school year by the total actual value of property subject to property tax in this state for the preceding calendar year.

Sec. 8. The amount of funds to be received from the Public Education Finance Fund by each school district qualifying under section 7 of this act shall be distributed to such school districts in two equal payments each fiscal year beginning in September 1985 and February 1986 and each September and February thereafter.

Sec. 9. Section 10 of this act shall become operative on July 1, 1985.

Sec. 10. That sections 79-1330 to 79-1332 and 79-1333.02 to 79-1344.01, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, sections 79-1332.01 and 79-1333.01, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1982, and section 79-1333, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1983, are repealed.".

Any person whose license is revoked under this section shall not be eligible for relicensure for one year after such revocation.

Sec. 4. Each operator shall maintain records of all wagers received and of all payments made. Such records shall include the name and address of the person making the wager or receiving the payment. The operator shall retain such records for one calendar year. The department may inspect such records at any time during normal business hours. Each operator shall display his or her license in a position clearly visible to the public at the location where he or she accepts wagers.

Sec. 5. The department shall adopt and promulgate rules and regulations to carry out this act.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 188
February 3, 1984

Dear Senator DeCamp:

You have asked our opinion as to the constitutional validity of LB 709. We believe this bill can be successfully defended against constitutional attack.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3506, Reissue 1981, formally provided for an exemption to a portion of the value of all homesteads in the state. Pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3523 (Reissue 1981), the counties were reimbursed by the state for taxes lost by reason of such exemptions.

Section 77-3506 was repealed in 1983 by LB 396. Except for those owned by certain specified classifications of homeowners, homesteads no longer enjoy a tax exemption. LB 709 is obviously intended to give the owners of such homesteads a cash reimbursement of a portion of the taxes paid, in lieu of the exemption authorized by Article 8, Section 2 of the Constitution.

We must keep in mind that the Constitution is a restriction, not a grant, of powers to the Nebraska Legislature. The general rule is that the Legislature has any power not forbidden to it. We find nothing which would forbid the Legislature to make this sort of direct payment to homeowners in lieu of the homestead exemption. We do not feel it is unreasonable classification, since the Constitution specifically created the class of owners of homesteads. There is little difference between giving a tax exemption and reimbursing the counties for revenue lost, and, instead, making a direct payment to the taxpayer.

We do note, however, some confusing language in the bill. In Section 3, "homeowner" is defined as a person who owns or is purchasing a homestead under a mortgage or a land contract. One does not "purchase" real estate under a mortgage. There may be a mortgage on the real estate, but, if the title is in the homeowner's name, he is not purchasing it. Compare the language of Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3503 (Supp. 1983).

Nowhere in the bill do we find a specific requirement that the homestead claimant actually occupy the property as a home. Section 3, defining a homeowner, defines him or her as a person who owns or is purchasing a homestead, and Section 4 defines a homestead as the dwelling and so much of the land surrounding it, not exceeding one acre, as is reasonably necessary for use of the dwelling as a home. While the court would probably read into the statute a requirement that the claimant actually occupy the premises, we believe that express language, such as is found in Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3502 (Reissue 1981), requiring actual occupancy, would be desirable.

Section 6 deals with a claimant occupying two or more homesteads in one year. Does this contemplate successive homesteads, or would it authorize a person who owned two homes simultaneously (as, for example, a home on a farm and a home in town) to claim both of them? The literal language of the bill would seem to authorize this, but we are not confident that that is the intention. It should probably be clarified.

We also point out that partial homestead exemptions for certain classes of owners were retained. Under the language of LB 709 a person eligible for one of these partial exemptions would also be eligible for the reimbursement provided for in Section 9. This is proper, if it reflects the Legislature's intention, but we felt it should be called to its attention.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

February 7, 1984

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I hereby return LB 183 without my signature and with my objections.

Although I share the concern of the proponents of LB 183 that justice be done, I cannot support this bill. LB 183 is contrary to two historical tenets which form a substantial part of the foundation of our criminal justice system. First, the Constitutional, statutory and case law requires that the state have the responsibility and obligation to prove all essential elements of a crime before a person is adjudged guilty. Second, a person is innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt by the state.

In non-criminal cases, the simple shifting of presumptions and burdens of proof from one side to the other is an acceptable process to sift through the facts to arrive at the truth. It is commonly believed that at the conclusion of the adversary process between equal participants, the party that prevails is the party that tips the "scales of justice" by a mere preponderence of the evidence. When all that is at risk in the non-criminal dispute is money, property, or legal theory, the slightest tip of the scales in the favor of one of the litigants suffices.

However, in criminal cases when freedom and loss of liberty are at risk, the court and the jury must by competent proof, know beyond a reasonable doubt that the State has identified and proved every element of the crime. Society demands that when the State utilizes all of its resources to convict the accused; it must do so in a manner and method leaving very little to chance.

Shifting some of the burden in some of the cases to some of the defendants some of the time is not the proper way for courts and prosecutors to convict some of the accused.

The separate building blocks of our jurisprudential history and individual rights are the foundations of our free democratic society as we know it. To remove one of those blocks or tamper with a part of that foundation has the potential to severely weaken a structurally sound criminal justice system, or put into motion the further diminution of individual rights and State responsibility.

I have faith in our judicial branch and in our jury system to consider each case on its merits. They have consistently demonstrated an ability to fairly and adequately assess responsibility and guilt in many difficult cases over the years and will continue to do so in the future.

I therefore urge that you sustain my veto.

Sincerely,
(Signed) ROBERT KERREY

BILL ON FIRST READING

LEGISLATIVE BILL 960A. By Landis, 46th District.

A BILL FOR AN ACT to appropriate funds to aid in carrying out the provisions of Legislative Bill 960, Eighty-eighth Legislature, Second Session, 1984.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. DeCamp asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 928 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

AM1931

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. The children who reside in this state are important resources. The State of Nebraska has a vital interest in these resources and, in order to protect and nurture such resources, has an obligation to assure that all children receive a quality education. At the same time the parents or guardians of children who reside in Nebraska are charged with the responsibility of caring for such children and instilling within them certain values and beliefs. Pursuant to their faith, many parents and guardians believe that their children's education should be provided by a school which reflects their religious faith. It is the purpose of this act to achieve an appropriate balance between the state's legitimate interest in the education of Nebraska children and the legitimate interest of the parents in religious freedom.

Sec. 2. A parochial or church-related school shall be exempt from the approval, accreditation, and certification requirements prescribed by the laws of this state and by the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education if the parent or legal guardian of each child who attends such school sends to the county superintendent of the school district in which such school is located, upon initial enrollment and at the commencement of each school year thereafter, a signed statement acknowledging the following:

(1) That the parent or legal guardian's religious beliefs dictate that his or her child attend such school;

(2) That the school is not subject to state approval, accreditation, or certification requirements;

(3) That the combined performance of all students in the school on a nationally recognized standardized achievement test, when measured and compared to other student groups in accordance with section 5 of this act, will determine whether his or her child is in compliance with the mandatory school attendance requirements in section 79-201;

(4) That the parent or legal guardian assumes responsibility for the education of his or her child and, on behalf of himself or herself and his or her child, he or she will not hold the state responsible for his or her child's education; and

(5) That he or she will provide the evidence required by section 3 of this act.

Sec. 3. The parent or legal guardian of a student at a school exempted pursuant to section 2 of this act shall provide to the county superintendent of the school district in which such school is located within sixty days of the student's initial enrollment at such school and at the commencement of each school year thereafter evidence that:

(1) The student attending the school is receiving a structured program of education in all the basic skills areas of study included in state curriculum standards for public schools;

(2) The school is being conducted with physical facilities, instructional equipment and materials adequate to the curriculum in use and consistent with subdivision (1) of this section; and

(3) The number of instructional hours which are offered annually by the school equal or exceed the number of instructional hours offered by Nebraska's public schools.

The evidentiary requirements prescribed in this section may be met by reference to documents previously received by the superintendent so long as those documents continue to reflect current practice at the school.

Sec. 4. The parent or legal guardian of a student at a school exempted pursuant to section 2 of this act, shall, in December and May of each school year, provide to the county superintendent of the school district in which such school is located evidence that the child is regularly attending school.

Sec. 5. Every student attending a school exempted pursuant to section 2 of this act shall annually take a nationally recognized standardized achievement test which is recognized by the State Department of Education and educators generally as a proper indicator of student progress in reading, language arts, and mathematics. Such test shall be administered and the scores evaluated under the supervision of the county superintendent of the school district in which the school is located. If the results of the testing demonstrate unsatisfactory group performance, the parents of children attending the school shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201. Unsatisfactory group performance shall be established if the mean level of the test scores across all grades in any one content area are below the mean level achieved by similarly aged students in Nebraska public schools or, if a reasonable sample of test scores from Nebraska schools is not available average national test scores shall be used. At the option of the parent or legal guardian, test results for physically or mentally handicapped children, as defined in subdivisions (3) to (9) of section 43-604, shall not be included in determining either (1) the group performance results for a school or (2) the scores of similarly aged students to be used for comparison purposes.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 189

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You have submitted to us some proposed amendments to LB 835. One of these amendments would reduce the period of time within which a taxpayer may demand the refund of an invalid tax from two years to 30 days after the payment thereof. The statute provides that if the same is not refunded within 90 days after such demand, suit may be brought against the County Treasurer for the amount so demanded. You asked whether it is constitutionally permissible for the Legislature to reduce this time, in view of the fact that such reduction will prevent taxpayers who have paid such taxes during the past two years from having an opportunity to claim refunds. We conclude that such a provision would violate due process.

We have discovered only one very old Nebraska case on the subject, Horbach v. Miller, 4 Neb. 31 (1875). In that case, the court said:

> We think the rule is correctly laid down in the case of Bigelow v. Bemen, 2 Allen, 497, as follows: "It is well settled that it is competent for the legislature to change statutes prescribing limitations to actions, and that the one in force at the time suit is brought is applicable to the cause of action. The only restriction on the exercise of this power is, that the legislature cannot remove a bar or limitation which has already become complete, and that no limitation shall be made to take effect on existing claims without allowing a reasonable time for parties to bring action before these claims are absolutely barred by a new enactment."

In 16A AM.Jur.2d, page 657, Constitutional Law, §672, we find:

> As a general rule, a statute of limitations which operates only prospectively is not considered to impair vested rights. However, a legislature has no power to interfere with vested rights after suit has been commenced; thus, a statute of limitations under no circumstances can operate retroactively to the extent of defeating actions and other proceedings which have been commenced prior to its enactment, and if the statute operates immediately to cut off the existing remedy, or within so short a time as to give the party no reasonable opportunity to exercise his remedy, then the retroactive application of it is unconstitutional as to such party.

As we understand the proposed amendment, a payment of invalid taxes made a year ago, as to which no demand for refund had been made on the effective date of the bill would be immediately cut off. We believe this would be a violation of the Constitution, and that the holders of such claims must be given a reasonable time after the effective date of the act within which to present their claims to the County Treasurer.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 258.

Introduced by DeCamp, 40th District; Landis, 46th District; H. Peterson, 35th District; Hannibal, 4th District; Nichol, 48th District; Wesely, 26th District; Morehead, 30th District; Pappas, 42nd District.

WHEREAS, drunk driving is a major cause of traffic deaths and injuries in the United States; and

WHEREAS, in 1982 the Presidential Commission on Drunk Driving recommended a uniform minimum age of 21 for purchasing alcohol in every state as one means of reducing drunk driving; and

WHEREAS, on February 7, 1984, the Eighty-eighth Legislature of Nebraska, Second Session, 1984, passed LB 56, raising Nebraska's minimum alcohol purchasing age to twenty-one, operative January 1, 1985; and

WHEREAS, the Public Policy Office of the National Council on Alcoholism has published statistics showing that a nonuniform minimum alcohol purchasing age among adjoining states increases alcohol-related traffic deaths and accidents due to young people driving to adjoining states to legally purchase alcohol; and

WHEREAS, the states of Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, South Dakota, and Wyoming allow persons younger than twenty-one years of age to purchase some form of alcoholic beverage; and

WHEREAS, lack of a uniform alcohol purchasing age of twenty-one among Nebraska and its adjoining states will lead to increased alcohol-related traffic deaths and accidents in Nebraska and its adjoining states.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

1. That it is vital that Nebraska and its adjoining states have a uniform minimum purchasing age for alcohol.

Mr. Barrett asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 249 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

AM1848

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. That section 48-649, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

48-649. The commissioner shall, for each calendar year, determine the contribution rate applicable to each employer on the basis of his or her actual experience in the payment of contributions and with respect to benefits charged against his or her separate experience account, in accordance with the following requirements:

(1) An employer's rate for calendar years prior to 1985 shall be two and seven-tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll and for calendar years beginning 1985 shall be three and five-tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll unless and until (a) benefits have been payable from and chargeable to his or her experience account throughout the preceding one calendar year, and (b) contributions have been payable to the fund and credited to his or her experience account with respect to the two preceding calendar years. Subject to fair and reasonable general rules of the commissioner issued with due regard for the solvency of the fund, the contribution rate required of each employer who meets the requirements of subdivisions (a) and (b) of this subdivision ~~this subsection~~ shall be based directly on his or her contributions to and benefit experience of his or her experience account and shall be determined by the commissioner for each calendar year at its beginning. ~~; PROVIDED, that in no event shall such rate be increased beyond~~ Such rate for calendar years prior to 1985 shall not be greater than two and seven-tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll and for calendar years beginning 1985 shall not be greater than three and five- tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll if his or her experience account exhibits a positive balance as of the beginning of such calendar year, but ~~commencing January 1, 1976,~~ for any employer who has been subject to the payment of contributions for the two preceding calendar years and whose experience account exhibits a negative balance as of the beginning of such calendar year, the rate for calendar years prior to 1985 shall be three and seven-tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll and for calendar years beginning 1985 shall be greater than three and five- tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll but not greater than five and four- tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll until such time as the experience account exhibits a positive balance, and thereafter the rate for calendar years prior to 1985 shall not be greater than two and seven-tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll and for calendar years beginning 1985 shall not be greater than three and five- tenths per cent of his or her annual payroll. For calendar years beginning 1985, the standard rate shall be five and four- tenths per cent of the employer's annual payroll. As used in this subdivision, standard rate shall mean the rate from which all reduced rates are calculated;

(2) Any employer may at any time make voluntary contributions, additional to the required contributions, to the fund to be credited to his or her account;

(3) As used in sections 48-648 to 48-654, the term payroll shall mean the total amount of wages during a calendar year, except as otherwise provided in section

48-654, by which contributions were measured; and

(4)(a) The state or any of its instrumentalities shall not be required to pay contributions on wages paid for services rendered in employment for the state or its instrumentalities prior to January 1, 1978, but the state or any of its instrumentalities shall make payments in lieu of contributions in an amount equal to the full amount of regular benefits plus one half of the amount of extended benefits paid during each calendar quarter that is attributable to service in employment of the state or any of its instrumentalities. The commissioner after the end of each calendar quarter shall notify any state instrumentality or other public employer of the amount of regular benefits and one half the amount of extended benefits paid that are attributable to service in its employment and the instrumentality or public employer so notified shall reimburse the fund within thirty days after receipt of such notice; (b) after December 31, 1977, the state or any of its political subdivisions and any instrumentality of one or more of the foregoing or any other governmental entity for which services in employment as is provided by section 48-604, subdivision (4)(a), is performed, shall be required to pay contributions on wages paid for services rendered in its or their employment on the same basis as any other employer who is liable for the payment of contributions under the provisions of sections 48-601 to 48-669, unless the state or any political subdivision thereof and any instrumentality of one or more of the foregoing or any other governmental entity for which such services are performed files with the commissioner its written election not later than January 31, 1978, or if such employer becomes subject to the provisions of this section after January 1, 1978, not later than thirty days after such subjectivity begins, to become liable to make payments in lieu of contributions in an amount equal to the full amount of regular benefits plus one half of the amount of extended benefits paid during each calendar quarter that is attributable to service in employment of such electing employer prior to December 31, 1978, and in an amount equal to the full amount of regular benefits plus the full amount of extended benefits paid during each calendar quarter that is attributable to service in employment of such electing employer after January 1, 1979. The commissioner, after the end of each calendar quarter, shall notify any such employer that has so elected of the amount of benefits for which it is liable to pay pursuant to its election that have been paid that are attributable to service in its employment and the employer so notified shall reimburse the fund within thirty days after receipt of such notice; (c) any employer which makes an election in accordance with subdivision (b) to become liable for payments in lieu of contributions shall continue to be liable for payments in lieu of contributions for all benefits paid based upon wages paid for service in employment of such employer while such election is effective and such election shall continue until such employer files with the commissioner, not later than December 1 of any calendar year, a written notice terminating its election as of December 31 of that year and thereafter such employer shall again be liable for the payment of contributions and for the reimbursement of such benefits as may be paid based upon wages paid for services in employment of such employer while such election was effective.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 191

Dear Senator Vickers:

This is in reply to several questions you have asked which pertain to The Report of the Governor's Christian School Issue Panel, January 26, 1984, and LB 928 of the Eighty-Eighth Legislature, Second Session (1984).

I. If, under The Report of the Governor's Christian School Issue Panel, the student testing model is used and there are ten students in a school who, as a whole, test below comparable state (or national averages), will the free exercise of religion rights of those parents whose children have scored above the applicable norm be lost because of an event beyond their control (the below average testing of the remainder of the children at such school)? If so, are there any less restrictive testing enforcement procedures which would meet the state's interest?

If we understand the first part of this question correctly, you ask if the Legislature were to pass legislation pertaining to church-related private schools and provided therein student testing as an alternative to curriculum, teacher certification and related item requirements, could that legislation also mandate that in the event a state percentage of students who attend such a school fail to pass such a test the church-related private school shall be dissolved or otherwise cease all operations? Yes, in our opinion, the legislation could so mandate. Implicit in our response is the assumption that the test and the percentage of students who must pass the test are constitutional.

In the second part of this question you ask if there are any less restrictive testing enforcement procedures which would meet the state's interest. Yes. The current Nebraska laws and regulations which merely require nonpublic schools to teach certain basic subjects for a specified minimum number of days using certified teachers who select the tests to be given the students appears to be considerably less restrictive.

II. If, under The Report of the Governor's Christian School Panel, there is an only student in a home school and such student happens to have certain learning disabilities which prevent the student from achieving at the state (or national) average, then are the parents of such student, ipso facto, prevented in exercising their religious freedom rights in the education of their child?

We can not answer this question. In order to do so we would need to know the definition of the term "learning disabilities" and whether children with such disabilities would be exempt from the compulsory attendance law. We would also need to know whether the legislation pertaining thereto mandates that children with learning disabilities must achieve at least within the same range on the same test as non-handicapped children. Finally, we would need to know the link, if any, between the religious beliefs of the child's parents and the home school.

III. Nebraska does not recognize one standardized achievement test but does use a criterion referenced basic learning skills tests known as N-ABEL's for purposes of accreditation of schools. Apparently, The Report of the Governor's Christian School Panel refers to a state or nationally standardized test. Since no state norms will exist for comparison purposes, does the fact that national norms may be used raise any Constitutional questions of equal protection?

The fact that national norms may be used does not necessarily raise constitutional questions of equal protection. However, whether a national norm would be satisfactory in a constitutional sense would depend on analysis of a number of factors, including the educational policies of the other forty-nine states. For example, if in some States children may enter school before reaching the age of five, the reading and vocabulary norms for nine-year olds may be relatively high, because these children may have had more schooling than nine-year olds in other States who could not enter school under the age of six. Hence if most states permitted children to enter school before reaching the age of five, the national norm in certain tests could be high in comparison with states where children could not enter school under the age of five. Finally, any norm, including a national norm, could be based on grossly unequal and artificial units of measurement. That, of course, could only be determined factually.

IV. As to LB 928's teacher testing provisions, does the fact that teacher testing is not used universally present any Constitutional questions? LB 928 also requires, in section 11, testing of all prospective teachers in their subject matter areas, prior to certification. Does this requirement diminish the argument that teacher testing, as an alternative to certification of teachers employed in church-related private schools is discriminatory?

Teacher testing per se, in our opinion, does not present a constitutional question. Consequently, it is unnecessary to answer the second part of this question.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

AM1941

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. The State of Nebraska has a compelling interest in the education of all children in the state. Because of this interest, the state clearly has an obligation to establish reasonable and effective educational standards for all educational efforts. At the same time many parents who are ultimately responsible for their children and have the responsibility of overseeing their children's education, including overseeing their children's religious, spiritual, and moral education, believe that such education should be provided by a weekday church educational ministry or a parochial school which reflects their religious beliefs. The parents also believe that such a ministry or school should in no way be controlled by the state. It is the purpose of sections 1 to 4 of this act to achieve an appropriate balance between the state's obligation to assure that all children receive a quality education and the parents' rights to the free exercise of religion guaranteed by the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

Sec. 2. (1) A weekday church educational ministry or a parochial school shall be exempt from the accreditation, approval, and certification requirements prescribed by the laws of this state and the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education if all parents or legal guardians of children attending such a ministry or school elect to have a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills administered each year to their children. In addition, all such parents shall annually make a written representation to the department containing the following information:

(a) That the parent or legal guardian's religious beliefs mandate that his or her child attend such ministry or school;

(b) That the parent or legal guardian agrees to have a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills administered to his or her child each year;

(c) That the child is in fact regularly attending school;

(d) That the child is receiving a structured program of education which satisfactorily covers all basic skills areas of study included in state curriculum standards;

(e) The number of instructional hours which are offered annually by the ministry or school equal or exceed the number of instructional hours offered by Nebraska's public schools; and

(f) That such ministry or school is conducted with physical facilities and instructional equipment and materials comparable to state standards or of such character as to provide a suitable educational environment.

In addition to the information required in this subsection, the representation shall include an acknowledgment by the parent or legal guardian that the parent or legal guardian knows that the ministry or school is not approved by the state and that he or she will not hold the state responsible for the education of his or her child.

The evidentiary requirements prescribed in this subsection may be met by reference to documents previously received by the superintendent so long as those documents continue to reflect current practice at the ministry or school.

(2) If any parent or guardian refuses to furnish the written representation required in subsection (1) of this section or if such representation contains false or inaccurate information, such parent or guardian shall be deemed in violation of section 79- 201.

Sec. 3. All children attending a weekday church educational ministry or a parochial school described in section 2 of this act shall be required to annually take a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills recognized by the State Department of Education and educators generally and designed to measure the children's competency levels in the basic areas of study included in state curriculum standards. The test shall be chosen by the State Department of Education and the scores evaluated under the supervision of the county superintendent of the school district in which the ministry or school is located. The average test scores in each content area and at each grade level of all children enrolled in the ministry or school shall be at least equal to such average test scores of students on the same or comparable tests in Nebraska public schools. If no

Nebraska test scores are available, national average test scores shall be used. If the required average test scores are not achieved, the parents of the children attending such ministry or school shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201. At the option of the parent or legal guardian, test results for physically or mentally handicapped children, as defined in subdivisions (3) to (9) of section 43-604, shall not be included in determining either (1) the group performance results of a ministry or school or (2) the scores used for comparison purposes.

Sec. 4. Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 1 to 3 of this act, any weekday educational ministry or parochial school described in section 2 of this act shall be subject to health, safety, and fire regulations prescribed by the laws of this state and the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education.

Sec. 5. That section 79-201, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-201. ~~Every~~ Except as provided in sections 2 and 3 of this act, every person residing in a school district within the State of Nebraska who has legal or actual charge or control of any child, not less than seven nor more than sixteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend regularly the public, private, denominational, or parochial day schools each day that such schools are open and in session except when excused by school authorities, unless such child has been graduated from high school. The term shall not be less than one hundred seventy-five days in any district, except that in the event of the failure of any district which receives twenty per cent or more of its total receipts for general fund purposes from federal sources~~,~~ to actually receive receipts anticipated at the time of the adoption of the school budget from taxes, state funds, federal funds, tuition, or other sources, the board of education of such district may, at any time during the school year, elect to close all or part of its schools.

Sec. 6. That section 79-1229, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1229. All persons, except those employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, holding the official title of (1) superintendent of schools, (2) principal or supervisor of an accredited school, or (3) supervisor of any special subjects or subject in which such persons actually supervise the work of other teachers in that subject or those subjects~~,~~ shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate.

Sec. 7. That section 79-1233, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1233. (1) Except for those persons employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, no ~~No~~ person shall be employed to teach in any public, private, denominational, or parochial school in this state who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education legalizing him or her to teach the grade or subjects to which elected, except that no Nebraska certificate or permit shall be required of persons teaching exclusively in junior colleges organized as part of the public school system.

(2) Public, private, denominational, or parochial schools in the state may employ persons who do not hold a valid Nebraska teaching certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education to serve as aides to a teacher or teachers. Such teacher aides may not assume any teaching responsibilities. A teacher aide may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his or her work.

Sec. 8. That section 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1701. ~~All~~ Except as provided in section 2 of this act, all private, denominational, and parochial schools in the State of Nebraska, and all teachers employed or giving instruction therein, shall be subject to and governed by the provisions of the general school laws of the state so far as the same apply to grades, qualifications, and certification of teachers and promotion of pupils. All private, denominational, and parochial schools shall have adequate equipment and supplies~~,~~ and shall be graded the same and shall have courses of study for each grade conducted therein, substantially the same as those given in the public schools where the children attending would attend in the absence of such private, denominational, or parochial schools.

Sec. 9. That section 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1705. The county superintendent in first-class school districts, or the superintendent of schools in all other districts, where any private, denominational, or parochial school not otherwise inspected by an area or diocesan representative holding either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate is located~~,~~ shall inspect such schools, except for any schools described in section 2 of this act, and report to the proper officers any evidence of failure to observe any of the provisions of sections 79-1701 to 79-1707. The ~~; PROVIDED, that the~~ Commissioner of Education, when in his or her judgment it is deemed advisable, may appoint a public school official other than the above, including a member of the State Department of Education, for such inspections. Such appointee shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate. The State Board of Education shall require the several county superintendents and superintendents of schools and appointed public school officials to make such inspections at least twice a year, and the school officers of such schools and the teachers giving instruction therein are required to permit such inspection and assist and cooperate in the making of the same.

Sec. 10. This act shall terminate on July 1, 1986.

Sec. 11. That original sections 79-201, 79-1229, 79-1233, 79-1701, and 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.".

LEGISLATIVE BILL 1045. Placed on General File.

LEGISLATIVE BILL 845. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendments to LB 845:
AM1949

1. Strike original sections 6 to 22 and 27 and insert the following new sections:

"Sec. 6. It is the intent of the Legislature to establish and maintain a procedure to set off against a debtor's income tax refund any debt which is assigned to the Department of Social Services or which any individual not eligible as a public assistance recipient is attempting to collect, which has accrued through written contract, subrogation, or court judgment and is in the form of a liquidated amount due and owing for the care, support, or maintenance of a child.

Sec. 7. For purposes of sections 6 to 19 of this act, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) Debt shall mean any liquidated amount due and owing any claimant which has accrued through assignment, contract, subrogation, court judgment, or operation of law, regardless of whether there is an outstanding judgment for such amount, and which is for the care, support, or maintenance of a child;

(2) Debtor shall mean any individual owing money to or having a delinquent account with any claimant which has not been satisfied by court order, set aside by court order, or discharged in bankruptcy;

(3) Claimant shall mean (a) the Department of Social Services with respect to collection of a debt owed by a parent in a case involving a recipient of aid to dependent children in which rights to child support payments have been assigned to this state, or (b) an individual who is not eligible as a public assistance recipient and to whom a child support debt is owed; and

(4) Refund shall mean any Nebraska state income tax refund which the Department of Revenue determines to be due an individual taxpayer. In the case of a joint income tax return, it is presumed that each partner to the marriage submitting such return contributed one half of the earnings upon which the refund is based. The presumption may be contested by the state, the delinquent taxpayer, and the innocent spouse by virtue of the hearing process prescribed in section 15 of this act.

Sec. 8. The Department of Revenue, the Department of Administrative Services, and the Department of Social Services shall develop and implement a collection system to carry out the intent of section 6 of this act.

Sec. 9. The collection remedy authorized by sections 6 to 19 of this act is in addition to and not in substitution for any other remedy available by law.

Sec. 10. The Department of Social Services shall adopt and promulgate rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purposes of sections 6 to 19 of this act.

Sec. 11. Prior to December 1 of each year, the Department of Social Services shall send notification to the debtor of the assertion of the department's rights, or of the rights of an individual not eligible as a public assistance recipient, to all or a portion of the debtor's income tax refund. The notice will contain the procedures available to the debtor for protesting the offset, the debtor's opportunity to give written notice of intent to contest the validity of the claim before the Department of Social Services within thirty days of the date of mailing the notice, and the defenses the debtor may raise. The debt will be certified by the Department of Social Services through a preoffset review.

Sec. 12. By December 1 of each year, the Department of Social Services may submit any certified debt of twenty- five dollars or more to the Department of Revenue, except when the validity of the debt is legitimately in dispute.

Any submission shall be effective only to initiate setoff for a claim against a refund that would be made for the calendar year subsequent to the year in which such submission is made.

Sec. 13. If a debtor identified by the Department of Social Services pursuant to section 11 of this act is determined by the Department of Revenue to be entitled to a refund of twenty- five dollars or more, the Department of Social Services shall be notified that a refund is pending.

Sec. 14. (1) Upon receipt of notification pursuant to section 13 of this act that a debtor is entitled to a refund, the Department of Social Services shall, within twenty days, send written notification to the debtor of an assertion of its rights, or of the rights of an individual not eligible as a public assistance recipient, to all or a portion of the debtor's refund.

(2) The written notification shall clearly set forth the basis for the claim to the refund, the intention to apply the refund against the debt to a claimant, the debtor's opportunity to give written notice of intent to contest the validity of the claim before the Department of Social Services within thirty days of the date of the mailing of the notice, the mailing address to which the application for a hearing must be sent, and notice that failure to apply for a hearing in writing within the thirty-day period will be deemed a waiver of the opportunity to contest the claim, causing a setoff by default.

In the case of a joint tax return, the notice shall also state the name of the taxpayer named in the return if any, against whom no debt is claimed. There shall be no affirmative duty placed upon the nonowing spouse of an intercepted tax return to initiate an action to receive payment of the noninterceptable amount.

Sec. 15. A written application, pursuant to sections 11 and 14 of this act, by a debtor for a hearing shall be effective upon mailing the application, postage prepaid and properly addressed, to the Department of Social Services.

If the Department of Social Services receives a written application contesting a claim, it shall grant a hearing to the taxpayer to determine whether the claim is valid. If the amount asserted as due and owing is not correct, an adjustment to the claimed amount shall be made. No issues shall be reconsidered at the hearing which have been previously litigated.

Sec. 16. Any appeal of an action taken at or as a result of a hearing held pursuant to section 15 of this act shall be in accordance with Chapter 84, article 9.

Sec. 17. Upon final determination of the amount and validity of the debt due and owing, by means of the hearing provided for in section 15 of this act, or by the taxpayer's default through failure to request a hearing pursuant to section 14 of this act, the Department of Social Services shall certify the debt to the Department of Administrative Services within twenty days from the date of the final determination. The final determination shall not delay the refund beyond the period prescribed in section 77-2794.

Upon receipt of the certified debt amount from the Department of Social Services, the Department of Administrative Services shall deduct an amount equal to the certified debt from the refund due the debtor, up to the amount of the refund, and shall transfer such amount, by noncash voucher, to the Department of Social Services. In nonpublic assistance cases, the Department of Social Services shall transmit the funds collected to the clerk of the district court for dispersal to the payee. The Department of Administrative Services shall refund any remaining balance to the debtor as if the setoff had not occurred.

Sec. 18. When the Department of Social Services receives all or a portion of a certified debt pursuant to section 17 of this act, the department shall notify the debtor of the completion of the setoff. Such notice shall include the final amount of the refund to which the debtor was entitled prior to the setoff, the amount of the certified debt, and the amount of the refund in excess of the debt, if any.

Sec. 19. The Department of Social Services shall reimburse the Department of Revenue and the Department of Administrative Services for all reasonable and necessary costs incurred by the Department of Revenue and the Department of Administrative Services in setting off debts pursuant to sections 6 to 19 of this act.".

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

“Section 1. The State of Nebraska has a compelling interest in the education of all children in the state. Because of this interest, the state clearly has an obligation to establish reasonable and effective educational standards for all educational efforts. At the same time many parents who are ultimately responsible for their children and have the responsibility of overseeing their children’s education, including overseeing their children’s religious, spiritual, and moral education, believe that such education should be provided by a weekday church educational ministry which reflects their religious beliefs. The parents also believe that such a ministry should in no way be controlled by the state. It is the purpose of sections 1 to 4 of this act to achieve an appropriate balance between the state’s obligation to assure that all children receive a quality education and the parents’ rights to the free exercise of religion guaranteed by the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

Sec. 2. (1) Until July 1, 1987, a weekday church educational ministry shall be exempt from the accreditation, approval, and certification requirements prescribed by the laws of this state and the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education if all parents or legal guardians of children attending the ministry elect to have a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills administered each year to their children. In addition, all such parents shall annually make a written representation to the department containing the following information:

(a) That the parent or legal guardian's religious beliefs mandate that his or her child attend the ministry;

(b) That the parent or legal guardian agrees to have a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills administered to his or her child each year;

(c) That the child is in fact regularly attending the ministry;

(d) That the child is receiving a structured program of education which satisfactorily covers all basic skills areas of study included in state curriculum standards. Evidence identifying and describing such program shall accompany the representation;

(e) The number of instructional hours which are offered annually by the ministry equal or exceed the number of instructional hours offered by Nebraska's public schools;

(f) That the ministry is conducted with physical facilities and instructional equipment and materials comparable to state standards or of such character as to provide a suitable educational environment. Evidence identifying and describing the facilities, equipment, and materials shall accompany the representation;

(g) The names and address of all employees and volunteers of the ministry, including their educational background;

(h) That the State Department of Education will be allowed to conduct regular onsite visitations and interviews with parents and students of the ministry; and

(i) That the parent or legal guardian understands that children attending the ministry will not receive a diploma recognized by accredited or approved schools.

In addition to the information required in this subsection, the representation shall include an acknowledgment by the parent or legal guardian that the parent or legal guardian knows that the ministry is not approved by the state and that he or she will not hold the state responsible for the education of his or her child.

The evidentiary requirements prescribed in this subsection may be met by reference to documents previously received by the Commissioner of Education so long as those documents continue to reflect current practice at the ministry.

(2) If any parent or guardian refuses to furnish the written representation required in subsection (1) of this section or if such representation contains knowingly false information, such parent or guardian shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201.

Sec. 3. All children attending a weekday church educational ministry described in section 2 of this act shall be required to annually take a nationally recognized standardized achievement test of basic skills recognized by the State Department of Education and educators generally and designed to measure the children's competency levels in the basic areas of study included in state curriculum standards. The test shall be chosen by the State Department of Education and the scores evaluated in cooperation with the county superintendent of the school district in which the ministry is located. The average test scores in each content area and at each grade level of all children enrolled in the ministry shall be at least equal to such average test scores of students on the same or comparable tests in Nebraska public schools. If no Nebraska test scores are available, national average test scores shall be used. If the required average test scores are not achieved or if the educational programs, facilities, materials, and equipment are inadequate to provide basic educational opportunities comparable to approved schools, the parents of the children attending such ministry shall be deemed in violation of section 79-201. At the option of the parent or legal guardian, test results for physically or mentally handicapped children, as defined in subdivisions (3) to (9) of section 43-604, shall not be included in determining either (1) the group performance results of a ministry or (2) the scores used for comparison purposes.

Sec. 4. Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 1 to 3 of this act, any weekday educational ministry described in section 2 of this act shall be subject to health, safety, and fire regulations prescribed by the laws of this state and the rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by the State Department of Education.

Sec. 5. That section 79-201, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-201. ~~Every~~ Except as provided in sections 2 and 3 of this act, every person residing in a school district within the State of Nebraska who has legal or actual charge or control of any child, not less than seven nor more than sixteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend regularly the public, private, denominational, or parochial day schools each day that such schools are open and in session except when excused by school authorities, unless such child has been graduated from high school. The term shall not be less than one hundred seventy-five days in any district, except that in the event of the failure of any district which receives twenty per cent or more of its total receipts for general fund purposes from federal sources~~,~~ to actually receive receipts anticipated at the time of the adoption of the school budget from taxes, state funds, federal funds, tuition, or other sources, the board of education of such district may, at any time during the school year, elect to close all or part of its schools.

Sec. 6. That section 79-1229, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1229. All persons, except those employed in weekday church educational ministries described in section 2 of this act, holding the official title of (1) superintendent of schools, (2) principal or supervisor of an accredited school, or (3) supervisor of any special subjects or subject in which such persons actually supervise the work of other teachers in that subject or those subjects~~,~~ shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate.

The exception provided in this section for persons employed in ministries described in section 2 of this act shall terminate on July 1, 1987.

Sec. 7. That section 79-1233, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1233. (1) Except for those persons employed in schools described in section 2 of this act, no ~~No~~ person shall be employed to teach in any public, private, denominational, or parochial school in this state who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education legalizing him or her to teach the grade or subjects to which elected, except that no Nebraska certificate or permit shall be required of persons teaching exclusively in junior colleges organized as part of the public school system. The exception provided in this subsection for persons employed in ministries described in section 2 of this act shall terminate on July 1, 1987.

(2) Public, private, denominational, or parochial schools in the state may employ persons who do not hold a valid Nebraska teaching certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education to serve as aides to a teacher or teachers. Such teacher aides may not assume any teaching responsibilities. A teacher aide may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his or her work.

Sec. 8. That section 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1701. ~~All~~ Except as provided in section 2 of this act, all private, denominational, and parochial schools in the State of Nebraska, and all teachers employed or giving instruction therein, shall be subject to and governed by the provisions of the general school laws of the state so far as the same apply to grades, qualifications, and certification of teachers and promotion of pupils. All private, denominational, and parochial schools shall have adequate equipment and supplies~~,~~ and shall be graded the same and shall have courses of study for each grade conducted therein, substantially the same as those given in the public schools where the children attending would attend in the absence of such private, denominational, or parochial schools.

Sec. 9. That section 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1705. The county superintendent in first-class school districts, or the superintendent of schools in all other districts, where any private, denominational, or parochial school not otherwise inspected by an area or diocesan representative holding either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate is located~~,~~ shall inspect such schools, except for any weekday church educational ministries described in section 2 of this act, and report to the proper officers any evidence of failure to observe any of the provisions of sections 79-1701 to 79-1707. The ~~; PROVIDED, that the~~ Commissioner of Education, when in his or her judgment it is deemed advisable, may appoint a public school official other than the above, including a member of the State Department of Education, for such inspections. Such appointee shall hold either a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate or a Nebraska Professional Administrative and Supervisory Certificate. The State Board of Education shall require the several county superintendents and superintendents of schools and appointed public school officials to make such inspections at least twice a year, and the school officers of such schools and the teachers giving instruction therein are required to permit such inspection and assist and cooperate in the making of the same.

Sec. 10. Sections 1 to 4 of this act shall terminate on July 1, 1987.

Sec. 11. That original sections 79-201, 79-1229, 79-1233, 79-1701, and 79-1705, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 192
February 15, 1984

Dear Senator Kilgarin:

This is in response to your letter of February 10, 1984, concerning LB 917. Specifically you ask whether a public power district is included within the legal definition of "agency" as that term is used in section 2 of LB 917 amending Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-818.

The relevant portion of section 2 of LB 917 provides as follows:

> No order entered by the commission pursuant to this section which affects terms or economic conditions of employees of the State of Nebraska, including the University of Nebraska and the Nebraska state colleges, shall be effective unless and until the order has been approved by the Legislature.

A public power district is a public corporation and a political subdivision of the state. York County Rural Public Power Dist. v. O'Connor, 172 Neb. 602, 111 N.W. 2d 376 (1961). The term "agency" as it is commonly used in this state normally refers to a specialized branch of central state government which exercises functions concerning the entire State of Nebraska. Although there is no law specifically on point, an independent political subdivision, whether it be a county board or public power district, would not be included within this definition of a state agency.

This would particularly seem true in regard to the relevant provision of LB 917. The obvious legislative intent of this provision concerns those entities of state government whose funds are appropriated by the State Legislature. Clearly, this would not include a public power district.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 193
February 17, 1984

Dear Senator Haberman:

In your letter of December 8, 1983, you indicated a desire to introduce legislation to repeal or amend sections of LB 302 (1983) dealing with the tax imposed on users of "special fuels" who have their own storage facilities for such fuels. You request our opinion as to the constitutionality of the classification in the existing legislation, the constitutionality of the proposed classification, and the necessity of the proposed change in order to withstand a constitutional challenge to the validity of such legislation.

Our response must necessarily begin, however, with our general confidence in the legislature's ability under the Constitution to specially tax users of special fuels (generally, diesel fuel and propane). From our reading of the legislative history of LB 302, it is apparent that the section imposing the tax/permit fee was intended to prevent a special fuels user who had his own storage facilities from escaping tax liability which he would have paid to a retailer had he bought the fuel from the pump. At the retail level, other highway users are taxed according to the amount of fuel they use, thus, by the amount of their usage of the highways. Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution, as interpreted by the Nebraska Supreme Court requires that any such classification be based upon "real and substantial differences" and that a rational basis for the classification is afforded by that difference. State v. Emmunds, 211 Neb. 380, 318 N.W.2d 859 (1982). Here, since fuel users were escaping tax liability by using their own storage facilities, it seems rational that they be subject to special permit fee.

However, the method of taxation employed under LB 302 appears constitutionally suspect. As enacted in Neb.Rev.Stat. §66-644 (Supp. 1983), the tax is to be based upon the weight of the user's vehicle. Since fuel taxes are essentially user fees, that section's taxation according to the weight of the user's vehicle does not adequately reflect the amount of fuel used by the vehicle on the state's highways. For example, the owner of a heavy feed truck which was used only one or two times per year would be forced to pay a much larger tax for that truck if he had his own storage facilities than if he paid his fuel taxes at a retail station. Further, that same truck would be subject to much greater liability under the present classification system than would a diesel passenger car which was on the highways a great deal, but was fueled from the user's own tanks. The notion that, the heavier the vehicle, the more fuel used, does not account for the great variances in mileage among such vehicles. "State laws are accorded a presumption of validity," Parker v. Roth, 202 Neb. 850, 278 N.W.2d 106 (1979). However, the tax paid here hears no apparent relationship to the amount of fuel used. Therefore, the present method of taxation does not appear to be a constitutionally permissible classification scheme because a difference in weight is not a rational basis for the classification.

In response to your second question, concerning the proposed legislation, we feel that making the amount paid by a special fuel user corresponding to the amount of fuel actually used would cure any potential constitutional problems with the legislation. Since this would more directly connect the tax with the user's highway use, it would have a rational basis which would be constitutionally valid.

In response to your final question, since we feel that the present classification is constitutionally suspect, we are of the opinion that the proposed change in classification would preclude any constitutional challenge to the tax imposed on users of "special fuels."

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 194
February 14, 1984

Dear Senator Warner:

This letter is in response to your earlier correspondence in which you requested our opinion as to certain matters involving LB 805. Specifically, you asked whether the committee amendments to LB 805, which provide for an advisory role by the Nebraska Power Review Board in the event of any disagreement among parties to an agreement formulated under LB 805, render either the state or federal antitrust exemption provided for in the bill ineffective or invalid. Our conclusions are set forth below.
